CROWDS FLOCKING TO INAUGURAL

Today

A Brave, Just Man.
Protecting Depositors.
Making Circumstances.
A Great University.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The sudden death of Senator Walsh, announced yesterday is a great loss to this country, to good citizenship and to the president whose official work will begin on Saturday.

Thomas J. Walsh, senator from Montana, was an American from whom there were no "big" men to be looked up to, or little men "of no importance."

He took equality before the law and the rights of Americans seriously. He had courage unlimited, and would have made a great attorney-general.

SOME TWENTY states have declared temporary holidays, or moratoria, that as a matter of law, cause banks to close. The step is taken, primarily, for the benefit and protection of depositors, and they should realize it.

A few, frightened, can injure all the others, and force bank closings, without good reason. The holidays established by proclamation of the various governors prevent hasty, harmful action.

IT HAS been the national habit for some time to let things drift, and "just happen," while requesting prosperity, kindly to come around the corner.

At first the depression seemed so strange that the nation and even "best minds" decided that it could not be real, and should not be recognized. After three years, we know that it is real, and realization should lead to ACTION.

It is time to MAKE THINGS HAPPEN, INSTEAD OF LETTING EVENTS SHAPE THEMSELVES.

THIS AGGRESSIVE city, San Francisco, always had and still retains the habit of controlling events. When some one talked to Napoleon about "circumstances beyond control," he exclaimed:

"Circumstances? I make circumstances!"

San Francisco, and the great city of Oakland across the bay, also make circumstances. When the great fire came there was no repining or moaning here. No worse blow could have struck any city. San Francisco men rebuilt the ruined city, finer than ever, into even greater beauty and prosperity.

CITIZENS SHOW you a new map of San Francisco, the great San Francisco Bay and Oakland, as they will be soon, after ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-NINE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS SHALL HAVE BEEN SPENT. This country, where digging gold from the ground started everything, is not afraid to spend money. The new map shows a great bridge across the Golden Gate, magnificent entrance to the bay from the Pacific. It will be the greatest suspension bridge on earth.

Another bridge, from Oakland to San Francisco, across the bay, will cost, with the Golden Gate span, more than one hundred and seven million dollars.

AND, MOST important, Oakland and San Francisco, looking across the Pacific toward Asia, desire peace, and to make sure of it they prepare for the other thing.

The new map shows a bombing base to cost five millions. That will make enemy ships change their direction.

Five millions more will be spent for a Navy air base and five other millions for a dirigible base, useful for commerce, passenger traffic or international trouble.

NINE CALIFORNIA counties border on this bay, all prosperous. San Francisco's income tax returns per 1,000 population are highest of any county in the United States, and highest of any city over 150,000 population. This is a real business spot on the United States map.

In trade the sales per capita in the state of California are $575.73, highest of any state in the Union. The per capita sales in this San Francisco bay region are $627 per capita.

Finally, in case you have money and energy for wise investment, both are necessary, this region would like you to know that the purchasing power of the 1,578,000 people in the bay region is equal to that of 2,426,654 "average" Americans.

THIS IS written in Berkeley, across the bay from San Francisco, location of the University of California, which has a great branch in southern California, with special scientific schools and research departments widely scattered.

To this magnificent educational institution more space must be devoted, perhaps tomorrow. Meanwhile, all the products of mines, farms, factories in this great state are unimportant compared with the educated, earnest young men and women that are the product of this beautiful "intellectual factory."

THERE ARE twelve thousand students here at Berkeley, seven thousand more in the University of California at Los Angeles, and five or six thousand more in the various specialized seats of learning maintained by the California University, which is a state institution.

The faculty of distinguished scientists and trained teachers under President Robert Gordon Sproul is made up of men that think for themselves and encourage students to do the same, free from grooves of pedagogical routine.

No one can over-estimate the value to California and to the world of the well educated, earnest young men and women that study here.

2,000 CITY EMPLOYES GET PAY

Kerr Accepts Ruling That Kline Still Holds Job

The 2,000 city employes whose pay checks have been held up while City Controller J. P. Kerr determined whether Mayor Kline was in or out of office were being paid off today.

The Controller announced that he was convinced that Mayor Kline still held the rights of office. He approved the payroll warrants bearing Kline's signature.

Dr. Kerr had received an opinion from City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to this effect.

The doubt was created after the Mayor was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Thomas D. Finletter at Butler Wednesday. The Mayor's counsel obtained a supersedeas staying the sentence, but in some quarters it was argued that the supersedeas did not give the right to continue as chief executive.

There is now little doubt that the Mayor will serve until the highest state court rules on his case. When this will be nobody knows.

Kline's counsel skipped the Superior Court and carried its appeal direct to the Supreme. This move, if successful, means that the case probably will not be argued before October—and the Mayor's term expires in December.

But District Attorney Andrew T. Park is opposing the move. He has asked the Supreme Court to send the case back to Superior. The Supreme Court's decision probably will not be made in less than 10 days.

FALL OF JEHOL IMMINENT

CHANGCHUN, March 3.—(INS.)—Chinese troops fled in panic from the vicinity of Jehol City today as the Japanese-Manchukuo army pressed swiftly toward its goal.

With capture of Pingchuan, the invading forces had a clear route to the capital of Jehol province, and the fall of Jehol City was imminent.

Some detachments of Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang's regular troops made an eleventh-hour stand on the eastern front to cover the withdrawal of the main defending army, but were forced to capitulate when the Japanese inflicted heavy casualties.

Volunteer fighters on all fronts fled helter-skelter when the supposedly strong Chinese defense line before Jehol City crumpled under the Japanese advance.

Thousands of residents have fled from the capital. Reports here stated that Gov. Tang Yu-Lin, of Jehol, had "disappeared."

PEIPING, March 3.—(INS.)—Four Japanese warships and numerous aircraft are anchored off the summer resort at Peitaiho, often frequented by Americans, 10 miles west of Shanhaikwan, a Chinese communique said today.

Another official statement gave details of alleged recapture of Japanese positions on the northern and eastern fronts in Jehol Province. Great numbers of Japanese troops had been killed, according to this communique.

Second Quake Rocks Japan; 700 Killed

TOKIO, March 3.—(INS.)—Another slight earthquake shook Tokio late tonight as belated reports from outlying sections of the empire increased the death toll in yesterday's quake and tidal wave to almost 700.

Efforts were being made to determine the fate of 50 American missionaries known to be in the area stricken by the disaster.

Art Prize Return Refused

The board of directors of the Associated Artists today had decided to ask Artist Ralph Bowman to return his second Associated Artists Exhibit prize award only to have him declare:

"I don't intend to return anything."

After three hours of harrowing debate on the charge that Bowman's prize-winning painting was a copy, the directors emerged from their room last midnight hopeful they had finally ended three weeks of artistic turbulence that rose to crescendo pitch when it was discovered the jury of three eminent artists awarded the watercolor prize to an oil painting.

DENIES ALL CHARGES

But Bowman, perhaps recalling his school history's story of "Indian givers," today stood on his artistic prerogative and issued the following statement:

"I have nothing to say. They will have to give me a written statement, but I don't intend to return anything. I deny all charges made against me."

The Bowman painting from which the $100 second prize was withdrawn last night is "Betty Joan," said to be a duplicate of Sir James J. Shannon's Victorian "Lady Diana Manners."

The jury—composed of Artists Francis Speight, Ross Moffett and Edward Hopper—had thought it so good it gave the picture second prize. And it admitted two other Bowman paintings since branded copies.

But the association decided to ask the jury to reconsider. And last night the board met to discuss the jury's answer.

Moffett had written that Bowman had a better "feeling" than his models—Shannon, Milan Petrovits and a photographer.

Hopper voted to reconsider.

So Speight apparently voted with Hopper.

BOARD 'IMPRISONED'

And after the vote the jury found itself locked by a forgetful janitor in Chris Walter's studio on the fifth floor of the McCance Building. Walter is the association's president, his studio serving as the association's office.

So one of the board—said to be Milan Petrovits—climbed down the fire escape to the street, while the balance stayed in and argued. And Petrovits brought resue for the distraught daubers.

And the sentiment of the board and of Walter today seemed to be that, if they can ever forget the past three weeks, they'll stick to their easel and hope that no copies, no oils that look like water colors and no clock-watching janitors will come to ruffle their peace again.

2 Die by Hara Kiri In Japanese Protest

TOKIO, March 3.—(AP.)—Two members of a reactionary society committed suicide by the traditional hara kiri method today, one outside the Premier's residence and the other outside the War Minister's, as a protest against what they regarded as the government's failure to deal adequately with the scandal of tax evasion by industrialists.

Quake, Tidal Wave Kill 1,200 Japanese

TOKIO, March 3.—(AP.)—More than 1,200 persons are known to have been killed in the earthquake, tidal wave and fire which devastated a section of the northeastern seaboard of Honshu island, largest of the Japanese archipelago, early this morning.

STOCKS RISE ON MOVE TO AID BANKS

Bonds, Commodities Join in Surge Upward

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Financial markets quickly surged upward in surprising fashion today.

Starting in stocks, the movement spread to bonds and principal commodity markets.

In a sudden buying flurry which sent shorts into hurried retreat, stocks rose $1 to nearly $5 a share.

The buying flurry, while at its peak, taxed the quotation facilities, and the ticker fell a few minutes in arrears. It was soon over, and the market then turned very dull, but most of the advance was retained.

STEEL PREFERRED UP

United States Steel preferred shot up $4.75 to $59, then slid back to $57. The common gained about $3, touching $28, then slid back about $1. American Telephone, after dropping more than $2 at the start, not only recovered its loss but advanced more than $3 above the previous close, getting above $101. It then slid back just under $100.

After the movement had slackened in stocks, it continued in commodities. Wheat rose some 3 cents a bushel. Cotton jumped about $1 a bale. Sugar, silver and some of the smaller commodity markets joined the movement. Spot silver was quoted ⅝ of a cent higher.

The movement took Wall Street by surprise, and many quarters were at a loss to account for it, although it was suggested that shorts were anxious to cover their commitments, in the belief that the week-end would bring constructive action from the new administration designed to restore confidence and break the banking impasse which has spread over several states.

200 in Hill Riot Over Evictions

Three riot calls today sent police to the Hill district in pursuit of a group of 200 protesting evictions for non-payment of rent.

The crowd first pushed its way into the office of Alderman Robert H. Logan, at 2027 Center avenue, where, Logan told the police, it threatened him for issuing landlord's warrants.

When the police arrived the 200 had departed and reached the real estate offices of Talenfield & Fineberg at 2128 Center avenue. Here again they protested such evictions, demanding names of landlords who had authorized them, according to the police.

Next they hurried to 2034 Wylie avenue, where a family was being evicted for non-payment of rent. The evicting constables were booed but no fighting was reported.

TEAR GAS ROUTS AUTO STRIKERS

DETROIT, March 3.—(INS.)—A thousand strikers attempted to storm the Highland Park plant of the Briggs Manufacturing Company here today and were repelled with tear gas.

Half a dozen gas bombs were hurled into the close-packed crowd as it made its third assault on the barricaded plant which is being operated by strikebreakers.

Inspector Irwin Patterson said he gave the command to fire the bombs only after the advancing strikers laid down a barrage of stones.

Explosion Burns East End Woman

Burned by the explosion of a can of paint remover, Mrs. Georgian Lay, 40, of 355 South Negley avenue, is in a serious condition in Homeopathic Hospital

Mrs. Lay just moved into the South Negley avenue address and today was softening paint remover by heating its container in a pan of water. When the can exploded the fluid, ignited from the gas flame.

Next Navy Chief Resigns in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—Resignation of Senator Claude A. Swanson (Dem.), of Virginia, who will take office tomorrow as Secretary of the Navy in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, was submitted today to Vice President Charles Curtis.

Roosevelts Will Visit Hoovers

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—The nation's difficulties, especially those confronting banks, held President Hoover's fullest attention today even as he prepared to leave the White House.

A round of visitors, including his successor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was listed on his crowded schedule, but in between callers the outgoing chief executive studied general conditions to preserve the link between the two administrations.

The visit of the President-elect and Mrs. Roosevelt was to be in the nature of a purely social call, but there was talk that the incoming and outgoing Presidents might extend their conversations to economic problems. They were expected at the White House late today.

Mr. Hoover will leave Washington directly after Mr. Roosevelt is sworn in and will spend several days at a New York hotel.

Carnegie Mill Head In 1889 Strike Dies

WHEELING, W. Va., March 3.—J. D. Thomas, former superintendent of the Carnegie Mills at Homestead, Pa., died today at his home here. He came to Wheeling 25 years ago from Pittsburgh.

Thomas was the first superintendent of the Carnegie Mills at Mingo, O., and was superintendent of the mills at Homestead during the famous strike of 1889. He was born in South Wales.

F. R. RECEIVES IN PAJAMAS

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—In a capital teeming with conflicting emotions, Franklin D. Roosevelt today calmly listened to the varied advice of political leaders and awaited the hour of inauguration to show his hand.

Arising early, the next President conferred with his first callers while still clad in pajamas in his room at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Roosevelt has his program in mind for the "new deal" he has promised, but it will wait unfolding until tomorrow afternoon when he stands on the Capitol steps and takes the oath.

Burgess Cavanaugh's Mother Dies at 97

Mrs. Ellen Cavanaugh, 97, mother of Burgess J. J. Cavanaugh, of Homestead, died last night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. R. Haywood, at Monongahela. Despite her age, Mrs. Cavanaugh had been in good health until a short time ago. She celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday in January, and had said she expected to live until she was 100.

She lived in the Homestead district for 42 years, but had made her home with Mrs. Haywood for the past five years.

Soldiers' Bayonets Wound Mine Pickets

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 3.—(INS.)—Three pickets of the Progressive Miners' Union, injured in a skirmish with National Guardsmen, were given hospital treatment today for bayonet wounds. None was seriously injured.

The clash occurred when militiamen patrolling the Peabody coal mine here dispersed a group of Progressive Miners' Union pickets.

Dr. Baker Returns From German Tour

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Dr. Thomas Stockton Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, returned on the liner Hamburg today after two months in Germany.

He lectured in the principal universities as an exchange lecturer of the Oberlaender fund of the Carl Schurz Foundation.

WASHINGTON JAMMED BY THOUSANDS

Rousing Welcome for Roosevelt; Parades Begin Early

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—With a cheer on its lips and a prayer of transcendant hope in its heart, the nation turned its capital into a vast parade ground today as it prepared to welcome a new president amid inaugural tumult unmatched in many years.

In tens of thousands, and from every state, the fellow-citizens of Franklin D. Roosevelt were pouring into Washington to see him take up at noon tomorrow the duties of the high office in which Herbert Hoover was spending his last full working day.

But the death of Thomas J. Walsh injected a somber note into the atmosphere of gaiety.

Although the main functions of the inauguration were unchanged, the Roosevelts decided not to participate in any of the purely social activities.

PARADES BEGIN

Many of the incoming delegations brought their bands and cheering sections with them. Under a cloud-flecked sky—which the Weather Bureau said soon would clear—they made holiday along downtown streets decked with flags and bunting.

Hundreds gathered to catch a glimpse of the President-elect—newly arrived overnight from New York—on his way from his temporary quarters at the Mayflower Hotel to the White House to pay the customary call of courtesy on Mr. Hoover.

Others gathered in knots about the White House itself, where the outgoing Chief Executive went ahead with the last of the tasks to which he had given so many weary hours since he himself was the central figure of a great day four years ago.

Still others tried to crowd into House and Senate galleries to watch the dying efforts of the last of the "lame duck" Congresses, still in a tangle of uncompleted legislation as the adjournment hour of tomorrow noon approached.

GOVERNORS PLENTIFUL

Many of the states sent their chief citizens. Governors were, for once, almost as plentiful as Senators on the streets. Political leaders held interstate conferences in hotel rooms. And in the crowds, too, were farmers and merchants, bankers and laborers, and the inevitable Indians in buckskins and feathers.

Not since Woodrow Wilson marched to the White House 20 years ago, at the head of a victorious Democracy, had Washington seen such an inaugural outpouring.

Every hotel was overflowing. In the reviewing stands lining Pennsylvania avenue, scarcely a seat remained unsold, although the price ranged up to $7 for the choice tickets; and scores of shopkeepers along the parade route were filling up their tills from sale of window-space.

Nebraska Senator, Ill, 'Sinking Fast'

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—Hope waned for the recovery of Senator Robert B. Howell, of Omaha, Neb., today as physicians at Walter Reed Hospital reported his condition as unfavorable. He was removed to the hospital a week ago when he developed pneumonia. His wife and stepson were called to his bedside from Nebraska.

A bulletin issued at midnight reported the junior Nebraska Senator as "sinking fast," but attendants reported no change this morning.

Leaders Here Pledge Faith in America, Join Roosevelt in Prosperity Drive

Leaders in Pittsburgh's banking, industrial and business life today expressed faith in their country and the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. But on the "everyday" man and woman they pinned their hopes of helping the administration restore the country to normal.

Each individual by simply increasing his purchasing power can do his part in speeding up the business cycle upon which all general prosperity is dependent, business leaders point out.

John E. Potter, president of the Potter Title and Trust Company, declared:

"I am a Republican, but I believe we should all work together, executive and employe and everyone, towards the objectives of the new administration. The new administration will face countless difficulties. The nation has vast resources, and some problems to solve. The administration of President Roosevelt can only lead. What actually transpires and what is accomplished depend on the people.

"We need unfaltering faith in the nation, the government, our neighbors—and ourselves. If this is re-

DETECTIVE, 7 OTHERS GUILTY IN LINDY SUSPECT KIDNAPING

FISH PEDDLER HELD PRISONER 3 MONTHS

Victim Freed Through Efforts of Mayor McCloskey

International News Service.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., March 3.—Detective J. J. Devine, of Johnstown, Pa., and seven codefendants today were found guilty by a jury in the abduction and detention for nearly three months of Garrett Schenck, Hopewell (N. J.) fish peddler, in an extra-legal effort to solve the baby Lindbergh kidnap-murder mystery.

Devine and three other defendants were found guilty of kidnaping and conspiracy, while the remaining four were convicted on the conspiracy count alone.

Bail was doubled in all cases and imposition of sentence was withheld pending arguments on a motion for a new trial which was expected to be filed at once.

EIGHT CONVICTED

Those found guilty on kidnaping and conspiracy charges, in addition to Devine, are Avery Conners and Frank Shugarts of Johnstown, and Roy Cummings of Dubois. The four found guilty on the conspiracy count are Paul Cupp, Charles Horner and Edward Genshoff, all of Johnstown, and Reuben Rakestraw, of Dubois.

A ninth defendant, Police Chief Russell R. Love, of Dubois, was granted a separate trial.

The men were charged with luring Schenck from Hopewell to a lonely Pennsylvania cabin and there holding him captive nearly three months in an effort to obtain a "confession" in the Lindbergh case.

Today's verdict climaxed a chain of amazing events which had their inception in a seriocomic "investigation" by Devine, a private detective, of the kidnaping and murder of the world's most famous baby.

All the elements of a detective thriller were present in the investigation—the alleged abduction of Schenck, motor dashes across Pennsylvania, and the detention of the fish-peddler "suspect" in lonely mountain cabins.

FREED BY McCLOSKEY

Mayor Eddie McCloskey, redheaded Mayor of Johnstown, played a principal role in the liberation of Schenck.

"Tipped off" by one of the guards that Schenck was being held captive, McCloskey and Sheriff Ira McCloskey of Clearfield county—they are not related—effected Schenck's relief and brought him to Johnstown, where the prisoner was questioned by Mayor McCloskey and by federal agents from Pittsburgh.

Following the quizzing, authorities expressed themselves as satisfied that Schenck was innocent of any complicity in the kidnaping of the baby.

Against this expression, however, Devine testified in his own defense that he was nearing solution of the mystery and would have cleared up the case within two weeks if he had been left to work with a free hand in the case.

The claimed solution, he asserted, "would have involved Schenck."

SENATE GIVEN DAVIS SEAT CERTIFICATE

Secret Pinchot Note Presented With Papers

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—The certificate of election of James J. Davis (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, was presented personally to Vice President Curtis today by Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of State of Pennsylvania, accompanied by a secret communication from Gov. Pinchot, which was not made public.

There has been some question whether Davis would be permitted to take the oath tomorrow in view of the indictment pending against him for alleged violation of the lottery laws in connection with promotion activities of the Loyal Order of Moose.

Davis' trial, postponed several times, is due to come up in New York Monday.

Vice President Curtis said he would present the certificate of election to the Senate today along with the separate communication for submission to Secretary Thayer, of the Senate.

Beamish said the letter requested that its contents be withheld from publication "to keep from prejudicing the case against Davis."

Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, said Pinchot's letter accompanying the certificate of election was placed in the safe of the Senate Secretary, where it would remain until after Davis' trial. He said:

"You may be sure it won't be read before Davis is sworn in tomorrow."

Instructions on the letter said it was not to be opened until after Davis' impending trial on charges of violating the lottery law in connection with the Loyal Order of Moose, was completed.

Several months ago, Pinchot said he would certify Davis' election with an accompanying letter dealing with Davis' qualifications.

7 MORE STATES TAKE BANK ACTION

Wisconsin, Georgia, New Mexico Order Holidays

Associated Press.

Swift action to protect bank deposits was taken in seven more states today.

Wisconsin declared a two weeks' banking holiday, Georgia and New Mexico four-day holidays.

The North Carolina General Assembly accorded dictatorial powers to the commissioner of banks. Virginia authorized two important banks to restrict withdrawals. Three banks of Kansas City, Mo., restricted their business on their own initiative.

The Lower House of the Arkansas Legislature passed, without dissenting vote, a bill suspending all private and public debts for 90 days.

States in which some kind of banking action has been taken numbered 30 this afternoon in addition to the District of Columbia. The action ranged from optional to mandatory holidays, and from optional to mandatory restrictions on withdrawals.

Holidays of various duration obtained in 18 states, restrictions, in whole or in part, in 10 states and the District of Columbia.

Three banks in Austin, Tex., voted to open their institutions for restricted business despite the state's five-day holiday. They will allow daily withdrawal of $15 from any one account.

W. J. Barnett, bank commissioner of Oklahoma, predicted that the depositors in more than 450 of the state's banks would be able to obtain a small percentage of their deposits by Monday. The holiday in Oklahoma is mandatory.

State Checks Unauthorized Limitations by Banks

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—The Department of Banking disclosed today officials of several institutions have been called in to explain their restriction of deposit withdrawals without obtaining the department's approval.

First Deputy Robert W. Doty said this procedure is being followed wherever unauthorized limitations are discovered. He asserted state-supervised banks must either operate under the full emergency regulations prepared by Secretary William D. Gordon or eliminate restriction of withdrawals.

National banks using the authority granted Monday by the Legislature and Gov. Pinchot must obtain approval of the Comptroller of the Currency, Doty said.

Dr. Gordon asserted yesterday only 13 of the 485 state-supervised institutions in Pennsylvania had been authorized at that time to limit withdrawals.

He said some banks which had misunderstood the Legislature's action and announced restrictions Tuesday had reconsidered their decision and withdrawn limitations.

RAINEY TO AID ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The victor in a bitter fight for Speaker of the next House, Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, today pledged the full support of House Democrats to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The veteran Progressive Democrat not only declared he would "go down the line" for the new President, but said a steering committee plan evolved by him assured the aid of the entire Democratic membership.

Rainey emerged victorious on the first ballot of the Democratic caucus on the speakership. He polled 166 votes to 112 for Representative John McDuffie, of Alabama; 20 for Rankin, of Mississippi; 2 for Jones, of Texas, and 1 for Bankhead, of Alabama.

The same caucus named Representative Joseph W. Byrns, of Tennessee, who withdrew from the speakership to aid Rainey, majority floor leader. Representative Greenwood, of Indiana, will be named whip and Representative Thomas Cullen, of New York, chairman of the Tammany delegation, is slated for the post of assistant leader.

Pastor Defends Kline, Blames Public Apathy

Mayor 'Good Man' When He Went In, Says MacGowan

Mayor Charles H. Kline was a good man when he went into office, Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield church, said yesterday before the Outlook Alliance of the Congress of Clubs.

"But even a mayor can become a scapegoat for our sins."

Dr. MacGowan made the comments in an adress in which he laid the political difficulties and disruption in public places to the average citizen, rather than on elected representatives. He said:

"What happens to our representatives when they go into office is caused by our own desertion of them when we put them in there. For lack of our sympathetic support, they suffer from the intrigues of unscrupulous manipulators.

"The cure for our ills is not in putting our representatives in jail, but in getting our own hearts right, and working in our wards for better government.

"The fault is with the individual voter, and the remedy lies in a deeper sense of responsibility to our city."

He deplored what is in the air today, contrasting the exorbitant salaries paid mammy singers, keyhole columnists and others of today with the poverty and lack of appreciation for such immortals as Stephen Foster and Joyce Kilmer. The speaker stressed the necessity of getting back to fundamentals in religion. He urged that his hearers observe Lent and, spiritually, "get down on their knees."

CERMAK GAIN CONTINUES

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—The condition of Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, was described as the "best since a week ago" by his personal physician and son-in-law, Dr. Frank Jirka, today.

Dr. Jirka's statement followed an official bulletin which said the Mayor had a comfortable night, sleeping most of the time and awakening "feeling quite rested."

His pulse at 7:45 a. m., was 110 and his respiration 28, the bulletin said.

Earlier, Cermak's physicians had announced he was still a "very sick man" but they added that "some hope of recovery may be held."

SENATE VOTES UTILITY QUIZ

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—A congressional investigation of public utility holding companies in the next Congress was assured today by Senate approval of a House resolution.

The resolution, offered by Senator Barkley (Dem.), of Kentucky, and speedily agreed to, provides that members of the Senate and House Interstate Commerce Committees together shall continue the investigation begun by the House committee during the present Congress.

The purpose of the inquiry is given as "obtaining information necessary as a basis for legislation." The committee will have full power to subpena witnesses and is authorized to investigate the control and financing of interstate public utility corporations, except railroads.

MacDonald Seeking To Save Arms Meet

LONDON, March 3.—(AP.)—In an effort to end the continued deadlock of the world disarmament conference and to prevent what is regarded in some British quarters as its threatened breakdown, Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir John Simon, his foreign secretary, decided today to go to Geneva as soon as possible.

put forth in congress today, while a measure to give the comptroller of the currency power to limit withdrawals from banks in the District of Columbia was pressed forward in both houses. It passed the Senate, and approval by the House was expected later today.

Measures in the Senate to deal with the banking problem would allow postal savings checking accounts, and empower the incoming President and the comptroller of the currency to take such steps as they considered necessary to secure bank deposits.

Chairman Steagall called the house banking committee to be ready to assemble, shortly after both President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt had disclosed that they had no intention of issuing statements dealing with the situation.

The Alabama Democrat told the members "there is something important in the wind."

Members of the House committee said they understood that the special session of the new congress would be called by President-elect Roosevelt on March 13 if not before because of the banking situation. They predicted that Mr. Roosevelt probably will issue the call tomorrow after he is inaugurated.

Prisoner Hangs Self to Avoid Trial by Men

Anthony Trinciante, 50, of Shetland avenue, a prisoner, hanged himself from the bars in his cell in the County Jail today with his necktie. Pinned to his shirt was this note, written in Italian:

"When this is found I will be dead. I am innocent of any wrong and the police have charged me with a very scandalous crime. I will not be tried by men, I desire to be tried by God. I am going to a higher court."

Trinciante was jailed, pending hearing in Morals Court on a charge of suspicion person which police said was based on a morality charge.

Couzens Reveals R. F. C. Program to Aid Banks

DETROIT, March 3.—(AP.)—Senator James Couzens, who came here this week to aid in unraveling the Michigan banking situation, said today that he had been advised the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has "undertaken a national program," to deal with banking difficulteis.

Senator Couzens said he talked over the telephone with Charles A. Miller, president of the R. F. C., in Washington last night. Couzens declared:

"The program he recited over the telephone briefly is:

"That all loans must be predicated on adequate security. That was fundamental. Then, whenever any state is operating under a moratorium authorized by law, the R. F. C. would advance money to any bank within that state to pay depositors whatever percentage of deposits had been agreed on in that community and sufficient money to maintain reserves on a very strict adherence to the rule that every depositor must be treated alike.

"It is further provided that, should any applicant have money on hand to pay the agreed perceneage of deposits, that applicant should not receive a loan; that in the case of any bank that had only part of the necessary money to pay the percentage agreed on, a loan would be made to make up the necessary amount."

Senator Couzens added that he wished to emphasize that "it is wholy at the hands of the comptroller of the currency whether he is satisfied that any national bank, anywhere, shall be permitted to keep open."

Ford Bank Consolidation Program Abandoned

DETROIT, March 3.—The Ford plan for consolidation of the Guardian National Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank has been abandoned, it is announced in a joint statement from the two banks.

The First National announced that it is going ahead with a reorganization as soon as proper legislation is put through by the state legislature. Under the plan depositors will receive part cash and the remainder in certificates.

LANSING, Mich., March 3.—(INS.)—The McNitt-Creen bill establishing emergency bank dictatorship in Michigan, vortex of the nation's banking disturbances, was sent from committee to the House of Representatives today. It appeared to have little chance of passage before March 11.

CAIN PAYROLL GIVEN CUTS

County Controller Robert G. Woodside today refused to participate as a member of the salary board and slash the payroll of the County Treasurer's office. Woodside held that with Treasurer Robert S. Cain absent, the Commissioners could not act as a salary board. Woodside's place as secretary of the board was filled by the election of W. T. Reese, the Commissioners' clerk.

The board, over the protest of Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, eliminated four clerkships in Cain's office, dropped his chauffeur and cut $15,000 from the payroll, including setups for extra help. Then the Commissioners passed the matter over to Treasurer Cain to effect a 15 per cent salary reduction in his office.

Cain had sent a letter offering to take a 15 per cent cut for his office. Cain is said to be in Washington and could not attend. The Commissioners objected to allowing Cain to make the salary cut, contending that to do so would forestall the Commissioners in their desire to equalize salaries.

Mansfield defended the right of the elected officers to fix the salaries of their own employes.

AWAITS SON'S 'BIG DAY'

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—"Where is the President-elect?"

A handsome, white-haired woman asked the question on the seventh floor of the Mayflower Hotel this morning.

"Where is he? I would like to get to him to say good morning!"

There was a silence, and then a secret service man with an eye for faces, stepped forward.

"Of course," he said, and escorted Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the next President, into the official suite.

One of the few women in history to see their sons take the oath of office as President of the United States, Mrs. James Roosevelt is an important figure in the inaugural pageantry, historically, socially and pictorially. Although well in her seventies, she has the carriage and the complexion of a woman half her age. She has always been devoted to her only son, and recently completed a book about him.

Tomorrow will be the biggest day in her life, and she already is enjoying it in anticipation.

Link Extortion Suspect To Lindy Kidnaping

TRENTON, N. J., March 3.—(INS.)—The arrest in Philadelphia today of Robert Ahier, former Trenton woodworker, for attempting to extort $25,000 under threat of kidnaping the child of his former employer, today spurred fresh activity in the Lindbergh kidnap murder case.

Ahier, of German extraction, sent three threatening letters to Frederick J. Leuckel, wealthy Trentonian, who owns the mill working business of A. K. Leuckel and Company here. Trenton and Philadelphia police set a trap at Philadelphia today and caught Ahier.

Until five months ago Ahier was employed in the millwork plant of Leuckel. The plant produces wood products, such as window sashes and door frames, and uses a wide variety of woods.

The fact that the Lindbergh ransom letters were inter-woven with marked evidences that their author was of Teutonic extraction has served to sharpen interest in the Lindbergh case.

Naughty 'Cleo' in Mars Preaching and Farming

By CHARLES A. SMITH

International News Service.

LONDON, March 3.

"Hello, is that you, Cleopatra?"

"Yes, but I'm not Cleopatra any more. Now they call me Oomaruru."

"Well, Oomaruru, what are you doing these days?"

"I am trying to atone for the mischief I caused during my lifetime by teaching godliness to the Martians."

This, somewhat roughly, is a transcription of a telepathic conversation Dr. Mansfield Robinson, British scientist, claimed today to have enjoyed with the lady responsible for so much trouble in the days of the ancient Romans.

In 1924, Dr. Mansfield precipitated a world-wide controversy with his scheme for radio communication with the planet Mars. He furnished the British government with a problem by filing a radio message to the heavenly body by the ordinary post office route and insisted that transmission be attempted.

Now, Dr. Mansfield asserts, he has succeeded in bridging space with the aid of Mrs. St. John James, a medium and wife of a clergyman.

Last night, he says, he talked with three residents of Mars, one, he declared, was Cleopatra. He explained that the name Oomaruru means "The Loved One." Cleopatra, he added, is now the wife of a Martian farmer.

MRS. ROOSEVELT DEVOTES DAY TO LARGE, FRIENDLY FAMILY

NEW FIRST LADY FINDS TIME TO SIGHTSEE

Calls on Godmother, Takes Dog for Walk, Attends Receptions

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, soon to be mistress of the White House and official first lady of the land, spent most of today presiding over her large and friendly family.

Supremely unconscious of the encroaching formality of her new position, she went calling on her godmother, Mrs. Henry Parish, of New York, and Mr. Parish; she took her dog, Meggie, for a walk; she played with her grandchildren, "Sisty" and "Bruzzy" Dall; she knocked on doors up and down the seventh floor corridor of the Mayflower Hotel, saying "Hello, how are you?" to various members of the Roosevelt clan.

GOES SIGHTSEEING

She then went sightseeing with a friend—to the Adams Memorial in Rock Creek Park, which she declared is "the most beautiful thing in Washington!"

Then, settling herself in her suite alongside that in which her husband was conferring with his advisers, she prepared to keep two public engagements which could not be broken without disappointment to many visitors; a reception at the Women's National Democratic Club and another at the Congressional Club.

They are official engagements, but Mrs. Roosevelt made them seem informal. Everything the new first lady does is simple and unpretentious.

Her comings and goings at the official suite are not exits and entrances, for she slips in and out so quickly that even the secret service men on duty there have difficulty keeping track of her. She likes to be unnoticed.

With the President-elect she will go to the White House to call on President and Mrs. Hoover late today.

Both luncheon and dinner will be taken in her suite, she said, and the only thing she will do this evening will be her good-bye radio talk.

She wants the opportunity to visit with the family. Indeed, because of the family the buffet supper tomorrow night will be held as scheduled, although everything "social" has been called off out of respect to Senator Walsh's memory. Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"My husband felt that we might never again get so many of the family together."

"How many Roosevelts are there?"

LOTS OF ROOSEVELTS

Mrs. Roosevelt wrinkled her brow.

"Well, do you mean by the name of Roosevelt—and if so, which branch?"

She said she had a hard time keeping them all straight herself, but she knew there would be about 75 members of the family at supper, including some Delanos and Halls.

The "children" are going to the inaugural ball tomorrow night, Mrs. Roosevelt announced. They changed their minds when John Walsh, brother of the late Senator, assured the President-elect that he did not want plans upset any more than necessary.

PINCHOTS LEAVE FOR INAUGURAL

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot were to leave today for Washington to attend the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Pinchot plans to remain in Washington until late Monday or Tuesday to attend the governors' conference which Roosevelt has called for Monday at the White House.

The Governor and Mrs. Pinchot and five state officials are to represent Pennsylvania officially at the inauguration. They are to be in the parade in three automobiles. In one car are to be the Governor and his wife; in the two others, Lieut. Gov. E. C. Shannon, Adjt. Gen. David J. Davis, Philip H. Dewey, secretary of internal affairs; Gen. Edward Martin, state treasurer, and Representative Grover C. Talbot, speaker of the House.

Corum Sees New Epoch's Dawn With Roosevelt

By BILL CORUM
International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 3.—This probably is—and serious now—the most portentous presidential inauguration in 50 years. Not only does the state of the times make it so, but in time to come, the historian is likely to put his finger on this page and say:

Here ends the last of the old Presidents and begins the first of the new.

When Mr. Hoover was sworn into office on a rainy March 4 four years ago, the black clouds of depression and disaster were just beginning to gather. They were then, you might say, no larger than the man's hand when he raised it for the oath.

Tomorrow Mr. Hoover, his hair grayer than it was on that fateful day, his face lined with care, his shoulders stooped from the weight of prodigious tasks, his always reluctant smile more reluctant still, will step down and the "new deal" will begin.

In one of his rare flashes of humor, Mr. Hoover once called the "new deal" the "new shuffle." Whatever it was it has shuffled him back into private life with his hand only half played. But the game goes on.

There is some strange streak in me that makes me forever want to wave my hat and cheer for lost causes, and so when the retiring President rides by tomorrow, along with thousands and thousands of others, I'll be cheering for him. This is Mr. Roosevelt's inning. He doesn't need our cheers, but rather our loyal support.

Through four of the foggiest, most treacherous years in the history of this country, Mr. Hoover strove manfully and did his best. As to how good that was, the future holds the answer.

And let us all hope and trust that beginning this day the future will bring only roses.

DR. R. S. CLARK — A SMALL PATIENT — NURSE EDNA BOOHER

A ROUTINE MOMENT IN THE BUSY PEDIATRIC CLINIC AT THE WEST PENN HOSPITAL

CAPITAL TREK BEGINS HERE

One of the heaviest passenger movements to a presidential inauguration in recent years was under way today with more than 1,000 people scheduled to leave Pittsburgh for Washington in special parties, according to local Pennsylvania Railroad officials. Hundreds of others taking advantage of week-end excursions, will bring the total to more than 2,000, officials said.

The first Pittsburgh group departed from the Pennsylvania Station at 2:15 p. m.

Five special trains from Chicago and St. Louis left Pittsburgh last night for Washington, while the 11:10 train tonight will operate in five or six special sections. More than 50 extra cars are being held in readiness here to take care of the heavy business.

On the train tonight will be 150 additional members of the Allegheny County Democratic party, 350 members of the Father Cox inaugural party, 100 New Castle High School teachers, 50 members of Islam Grotto, 40 teachers from Munhall High School, 50 members of Trees Carlisle Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars; 40 members of the Drum and Bugle Corps of Chateau Post 258, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and 40 Youngstown High School teachers.

Father Cox announced today that his original party of 300 had been increased to 500, necessitating a special train for his party alone. His train leaves at 10:30 p. m.

Forty or more Democrats from Beaver County have chartered a car on an inaugural special leaving the Pennsylvania Station at 11:10 p. m., according to Charles W. Gorman, Democratic Beaver County chairman.

F. R. to Sign Oath With Al Smith's Pen

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS.)—When President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt subscribes his name on the presidential oath tomorrow he will use the fountain pen Alfred E. Smith used to sign his first gubernatorial oath in 1919, it was disclosed today.

Former Gov. Smith, who originally borrowed the pen from George Herrick, an Albany newspaperman, used it in three successive inaugurals, then turned it over to Mr. Roosevelt when he became Governor.

Revised Program For Inauguration

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—Including revisions made because of the death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, here is the program for the inaugural ceremonies tomorrow:

9 a. m.—Aerial demonstration, probably including airship Akron and 100 military planes, begins.

11 a. m.—President-elect Roosevelt arrives at White House from Mayflower Hotel to puck up President Hoover.

11:05 a. m.—The presidential party, including Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Hoover, leaves White House for Capitol.

12 noon—Vice President Garner sworn in at Senate Chamber.

12:50 p. m.—President Roosevelt sworn in. Delivers inaugural address from stand on east plaza of the Capitol.

1:05 p. m.—President Roosevelt completes inaugural address.

1:15 p. m.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt leave Capitol, heading parade. Former President and Mrs. Hoover entrain for New York.

1:35 p. m.—Luncheon. Entertainment of 300 guests canceled because of Walsh mourning.

2:30 p. m.—Inaugural parade reaches White House. President and Mrs. Roosevelt go to Court of Honor reviewing stand.

5 p. m.—Review ended. Tentative: President and Mrs. Roosevent entertain at tea.

8 p. m.—Tentative: President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertain 60 at dinner.

10 p. m. to 2 a. m.—Inaugural ball at Washington Auditorium. Mrs. Roosevelt canceled attendance on acocunt of mourning.

6 to 11 p. m.—Drills, fireworks, street festival, etc.

Straus Held Likely To Get Cuban Post

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—Jesse I. Straus, New York merchant leader, is regarded in informed circles here as President-elect Roosevelt's choice for ambassador to Cuba.

CLINICS URGED FOR CHILDREN

Increased need of clinics for children has resulted from the depression, according to M. H. Eichenlaub, superintendent of West Penn Hospital, commenting today on an executive meeting of the State Emergency Child Health Committee here yesterday.

Physicians and social students from Pittsburgh on the committee include Dr. Walter F. Donaldson, Miss Gertrude Heatley, Augustus K. Oliver and Dr. Charles H. Marcy. Dr. Samuel McClintock Hamill, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committees, has announced:

"In so far as I know this is the first time the medical profession has been brought into a service of this kind."

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who called the meeting, said:

"Because of unemployment, malnutrition and undernourishment among school children have increased beyond all previous experience. There is nothing before the commonwealth more important than to safeguard the children. The state is to be congratulated that the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania has come to the rescue of the children."

In Pittsburgh 15 hospitals are helping undernourished children, by giving them the proper food or by instructing their parents as to diets.

Ickes Here on Trip To Inauguration

Harold L. Ickes, Chicago Democrat and native Pennsylvanian, who will be Secretary of the Interior in President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet, passed through Pittsburgh last midnight en route to the inauguration ceremony in Washington.

When his train paused for a few minutes in the Pennsylvania station to change locomotives he was asleep.

CROWDS THRONG CAPITAL FOR INAUGURAL

the work of preparation, and new banners were broken out above the promenading crowds, the old capital had something of the air of a boom town of other days. City officials estimated that 200,000 visitors would be here by tomorrow, and that upwards of 75,000 would be in the reviewing stands watching another 10,000 march, while many thousands more jostled for standing room on the sidewalks.

SENSE CHANGE

And even more than in Wilson's day, the atmosphere was charged with a solemn sense of impending change.

None doubted Mr. Roosevelt was planning surprises. None doubted that many of those forms and ceremonies which have grown into institutions of government were about to pass on.

The more thoughtful in the inaugural throngs spoke of a new mode of life at the White House, an epochal scaling down of the wide-spreading structure of federal bureaus, perhaps the application of drastic medicines to the nation's ills. To many, tomorrow's inaugural appeared the beginning of an era.

In general pattern, the inaugural program will follow the precedents established long ago.

It will begin shortly before noon, when President and President-elect ride together to the Capitol, and will end in late afternoon, after the last straggling remnant of the long parade has passed the white-pillared presidential stand in front of the White House.

GARNER CEREMONY

Soon after noon, in the Senate Chamber, a select company of dignitaries will see Speaker John N. Garner take the oath of vice presidential office, administered by his predecessor, Charles Curtis. Then, perhaps a few minutes before 1 o'clock, several acres of humanity, seated and standing on the Capitol plaza, will hear Mr. Roosevelt repeat the pledge of presidential faith and deliver one of the shortest inaugural addresses in history.

From that ceremony, Mr. Hoover will go directly to Union Station and New York, to spend several days before sailing as a private citizen for a vacation cruise to California; and Mr. Roosevelt will ride back along the avenue to the splendors and the trials of the presidency.

Fireworks and a resplendent inaugural ball—the first in years—will close the day, but Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will not be present. Mrs. Roosevelt said that out of respect to Mr. Walsh none of the family would take part in any social functions except a tea and dinner at the White House.

Roosevelt's Oath Will Feature Charity

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—Franklin D. Roosevelt will become the thirty-first President of the United States with his hand resting upon that passage of the Bible which proclaims that "now abideth faith, hope and charity . . . but the greatest of these is charity."

The new President selected the thirteenth chapter of the first Epistle of Paul to the Corinthians as the place at which the 300-year-old family Bible is to be opened.

The Bible has been in the Roosevelt family for three centuries and records the births and deaths of many Roosevelts. The text is in Dutch.

Chinese Girl Freed, Pleads Father's Case

NEW GEE LEE, 18...FREE, HOME, READY TO GO TO SCHOOL

GRIEVES OVER PARENT'S ACT

Joy and anxiety mingled in the Chinese family circle gathered today in the home above the tea shop at 516 Third avenue. Joy at the release of a daughter, New Gee Lee, cleared of narcotic charges in Federal Court yesterday. Anxiety concerning the fate of the father, Lee Fook Chew, who yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of manufacturing smoking opium and shipping smoking opium to other cities. He will be sentenced by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker March 16.

Yesterday afternoon the father entered a plea of guilty to the second indictment, charging him with shipping gum opium to other cities. The charges against his son, George Chick Lee, and Lee Jack Chew, a relative, co-defendants, will be dropped by the government, according to Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz.

Contemplating the opportunity her exoneration gives her to complete her education begun in Fifth Avenue High School, where she graduated last June.

"It makes me very happy to be freed of the charges which have hung over me for the past five months and prevented me from attending post-graduate classes at the high school. My exoneration justifies the splendid faith all my teachers and friends have had in me.

"My only hope is that my father may not have to suffer too severely for his mistake. Three generations of my family have been merchants in the United States and this is the first blot against our name. He has always been a good father and a good citizen until this mishap. Others make mistakes and I know he is truly sorry for his."

Heroine of Miami Inaugural Guest

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The woman who grabbed the arm of the man who tried to shoot President-elect Roosevelt in Miami is going to Washington for the inauguration. Mrs. William F. Cross, wife of a Miami physician, said today she "just wouldn't miss it for anything." The Democratic National Committee has made reservations for her on the platform near the Roosevelt family for the inaugural ceremonies.

Clear, but Windy, Inaugural Outlook

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS.)—Tomorrow's inaugural weather will be above freezing point, clear but with north winds still blowing along the Atlantic seaboard, the United States Weather Bureau reported.

STATE FUNERAL FOR WALSH MONDAY

Roosevelts Pay Visit To Widow; May Also Attend Rites

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—A state funeral for former Senator Thomas J. Walsh will be held at the Capitol, probably on Monday, and Franklin D. Roosevelt will attend if possible.

Plans were formulated as President-elect and Mrs. Roosevelt paid a call of respect on Mrs. Walsh, the Cuban widow of the man who was slated to be attorney general in the next cabinet.

Mrs. Walsh told her visitors she intends to live here in the apartment she expected to share with the former Montana Senator. He died suddenly early yesterday in North Carolina while en route to the capital with his bride after their marriage in Havana last Saturday.

After the funeral services, to be attended by the capital's notables, Walsh's body will be started for Helena, Montana, for burial Wednesday or Thursday beside that of his first wife, who died in 1917.

Roosevelt has called a meeting of governors for Monday, but he said he hoped to be able to go to the capital for the services.

WALSH'S POST FOR CUMMINGS

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(Universal.)—Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, has been selected by President-elect Roosevelt to serve temporarily as Attorney General in the new cabinet in place of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, according to advisers of the President-elect. Formal announcement is expected later today.

Cummings' appointment will be a stop-gap until Roosevelt can select a permanent Attorney General.

After a brief tenure as Attorney General, Cummings will go to the Philippines as Governor General.

Theodore Roosevelt will be asked to continue as Governor General in the Philippines until Cummings goes to Manila.

Cummings, 63-year-old attorney of Stamford, Conn., was temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention of 1920 in which Roosevelt was nominated for the Vice Presidency on the Democratic ticket with James M. Cox. He had been chairman of the national committee in 1919 and 1920. He was chairman of the resolutions committee at the 1924 convention.

Youth, 15, Linked In Roosevelt Plot

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 3.—(AP.)—A 15-year-old American-born son of foreign parents will be arrested, Chief of Police Edward J. Singleton said today and charged with sending explosives through the mail intended for President-elect Roosevelt, if handwriting on that package proves to be the same as that in a threatening letter the chief received on February 17.

The boy, not under arrest now, the chief explained, is being kept under surveillance pending this latest step in the investigation of the mailing of a crude shotgun shell bomb under the President-elect's address.

AID TO SCHOOLS URGED TO SAVE DEMOCRACY

By JOEL DAVID WOLFSOHN
Universal Service.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 3.—People of America should protect their schools if democracy is to survive.

This was the warning of educators in resolutions drafted at the conclusion of the convention of the department of superintendence.

The leaders in the nation's schools called upon the government, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, to help finance the educational system, and also upon President-elect Roosevelt to form a national council of social-economic planning.

DRY ISSUE DODGED

The superintendents dodged a resolution on prohibition, which was offered to the committee which drew the statements of policy. They sidestepped the question, which heretofore has always evoked a resolution of indorsement of the dry laws, on the ground that the question now was one of state sovereignty, of a political nature, and out of the educational field.

However, after adopting the formal proposals offered by the committee, the educators adopted an additional statement directed against all those who, during the course of the convention, expressed disrespectful opinion of school boards, or legislators. They proclaimed:

"In a republic educational opportunity must be available to all as the essential safeguard of democracy as well as the inherent right of every individual.

"This principle is being so seriously attacked today that the American people should rise to an active protection of the schools. Together we need to join in vigorous insistence that this generation of children shall not be deprived of its only chance and that the culture and civilization which we have inherited and which we have developed shall not be impaired or destroyed.

"We recommend that to provide for current emergency loans to the state and to localities for educational purposes, from the Reconstructian Finance Corporation, there should be enacted the necessary legislation by the Congress of the United States."

PUBLIC WORKS' PLEA

The resolution then proceeded:

"We recommend a more revision of our taxation system, a widening of the tax unit, a substantial increase in the proportion of educational expenditures borne by the state and by the federal government with such adjustments in such manner as to equalize educational opportunities throughout the state.

"We affirm the belief that just and equitable taxes based on ability to pay form the most satisfactory means of financing public works of which education is one of the most important."

Questioned on the matter of taxation, members of the committee would not say whether they favored either the income or sales tax. They merely offered the resolution as a suggestion to experts in taxation.

"The present crisis bears impressive testimony to the fact that greater emphasis should be placed on the social studies in the courses recommended for the educational development of teachers.

"To carry out this obligation calls for a national council on social-economic planning as forecast by the President's research committee on social trends, and as cogently urged by the educators who memorialized the President-elect of the United States urging him to establish such a council."

Resolutions of thanks to the press, the American Federation of Labor and others were also adopted.

Henry J. Garling, superintendent of the St. Louis schools, was chairman of the committee on resolutions. Members were Frederick Archer, Louisville, Ky.; W. W. Borden, Whiting, Ind.; George C. Rush, South Pasadena, Cal.; E. W. Butterfield, Hartford, Conn.; John Callahan, Madison, Wis.; Katherine Hamilton, St. Paul, Minn.; E. E. Oberholtzer, Houston, Tex.; Orville C. Pratt, Spokane, Wash., and Belle M. Ryan, Omaha, Neb.

Urge Pinchot to Save Cal. Teaching School

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—The Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association of Charleroi today forwarded a petition bearing 200 names to Governor Pinchot, protesting against proposed discontinuance of California State Teachers' College.

The resolution declares:

"Loss of the college will remove the only means for a primary education by students who can commute from their homes in the upper Monongahela Valley."

Work in Glass, Tin Industries Mounts

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—Improved orders in the glass and tin plate business has caused employment in this city to reach a higher total than in many months. The Hazel-Atlas and Tygart Valley Glass companies report operations better than in six months and at a high point for this time of the year. Tin plate and allied industries are also doing well. The Jessop Steel Company has good orders for the present month.

stored, all else that is good will come with it."

Frank R. Phillips, president, Philadelphia Company said:

"The time for partisanship is past. We should all get together and support the new administration, and develop a solidarity behind the President and his advisers.

"There is no cause for fear, and concerted action will help us. The fundamental conditions are sound.

"What we need more than anything else is confidence—and for the people to start out and do things.

"I opposed Franklin D. Roosevelt as candidate for President. I am for Franklin D. Roosevelt, the President."

Henry Tranter, leading manufacturer, said:

"As soon as election was over I felt, as did millions of other Americans, that our job was to get behind Mr. Roosevelt and support him and his administration, not in a partisan way, but in a national spirit.

"Co-operation will help us solve our problems. We must not take advantage of situations that arise out of the depression, but must help each other, and try to live, as far as we can, as we did in normal times.

"If we never did before, now we must work together."

James C. Chaplin, president, Colonial Trust Company, said:

"With the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt as President of the United States, every American should stand ready to co-operate and assist the new chief executive in his attempt to restore this country to normalcy.

"Whether we voted Republican or Democratic or Socialistic, we owe it to Mr. Roosevelt, to the country, and to each other to see that the President is given every possible chance to succeed in his efforts to lead the country to better times."

J. Rogers Flannery, industrialist, commented as follows:

"During 1917 political partisanship was forgotten and the nation unified behind the leadership of Woodrow Wilson.

"How much more important is the fight against depression today. During the war, the men most materially suffered. But today, every man, woman and child in the country is affected by a condition more serious than war.

"We all recognize in Mr. Roosevelt a man above petty partisanship. His leadership will be successful only in the degree his fellow Americans co-operate and get behind him.

"We should all work for the common good."

Oldest Mill Man Dies by Suicide

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(INS.)—William F. Otstot, 79, the first man on the payroll of the old Steelton planing mill and the last employe when it went out of existence, committed suicide today by sending a bullet through his head.

G. O. P. LOSES STAUNCH AIDE IN M'GREGOR

The death of United States Marshal James C. McGregor yesterday in his home in Indiana, Pa., removed a strong factor in the ranks of the Republican party in Indiana County. He was also well known politically throughout the state.

His death followed closely that of John F. Short, of Clearfield County, whom he succeeded as United States marshal for Western Pennsylvania in 1922.

Marshal McGregor was serving his third term, having received his first appointment from President Harding and subsequent appointments by Presidents Coolidge and Hoover. His last commission would not have expired for nearly two years. Soon after announcement of his death a message was received by Walter W. Meyer, chief deputy marshal, from the Attorney General, directing him to assume charge of the office until a permanent appointment is made.

Marshal McGregor was a lifelong resident of Indiana County. He was born in Marion Center, but resided nearly all his life in the town of Indiana. He had served as postmaster there and also as a deputy internal revenue collector and deputy sheriff, and at the time of his death was a partner in the firm of McGregor and Thomas, automobile dealers, in Indiana, and was a director of the Farmers National Bank of Indiana, and one of the board of governors of the Indiana County Fair Association.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Catherine McGregor, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Bennett, wife of State Senator Edward M. Bennett, and a son, Clark McGregor, of Harrisburg.

103 SCHOOLS ASK AID

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—One hundred and three financially handicapped school districts today asked the State Council of Education for aid.

The Council has $309,000 remaining in the $1,250,000 special aid fund provided by the 1931 Legislature for the biennium ending May 31.

Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction and chairman of the Council, told the Council members that the Legislature in its consideration of proposed changes in the school code, should make an effort to protect the poorer school districts to prevent the closing of their schools.

Difficulties with school district bonds, uncollected taxes, inability to meet high school tuition payments and teachers' salaries combine to place more than 200 school districts in conditions of need, he said.

Bank Robbed, Bandits Escape in Illinois

MINOOKA, Ill., March 3.—(INS.)—Three bandits held up the Farmers First National Bank here today and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash and bank notes.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

State Lenient Levying Check Penalties

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania is not invoking the $5 penalty on persons who have issued a check for a motor vehicle driver's license on a bank which has limited withdrawal of deposits.

H. J. G. Strack, Comptroller of the Department of Revenue, today said that if an applicant for a license mailed a check prior to his bank invoking the emergency privilege, the state would not invoke the penalty.

The $5 penalty, however, will be levied on those who wittingly send in a check which cannot be honored.

GREENLEE BUSY, COURT WAITS

Gus Greenlee, 1323 Wylie avenue, Hill district Negro leader, was too busy to attend Criminal Court yesterday to be tried on a charge of conducting a lottery at 1401 Wylie avenue September 23, so Judge Samuel H. Gardner postponed the case until next Thursday.

Attorney Homer Brown informed Judge Gardner that Greenlee was in Philadelphia, presiding over a session of the National Association of Colored Baseball Clubs. Greenlee is the owner of the Crawford Giants and head of the national association.

Firemen Pick Bedford For Convention City

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 3.—The 1933 convention of the Western Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held August in Bedford, the selection being made by the executive committee after it had made an inspection visit to determine Bedford's ability to handle the convention.

SURPRISE MOVE IN BANK TRIAL

A surprise move by counsel for George Clifford Frank, former president of the Ligonier National Bank, caused the postponement of testimony-taking on 17 counts of embezzlement of bank funds today in Federal Court.

Frank's attorneys, Howard Whitehead and Charles Crowell contended funds consisting of stocks and bonds allegedly used by Frank were not assets of the bank, but placed in the bank by individuals through Frank.

While Judge Nelson McVicar declared he would withhold decision on this until Monday, the government continued prosecution on one count—of misapplying $13,000 of the bank's.

C. G. Gonder, vice president of the institution, appearing as a government witness, traced the course of a $13,000 note.

Shrapnel-Blast Plot Foiled in Havana

HAVANA, March 3.—(AP.)—A hundred pounds of dynamite and 200 pounds of scrap metal, designed to explode as shrapnel, was found today in a truck which was abandoned near policeheadquarters on Wednesday. The explosive was connected with an alarm clock set to ring a half hour after the truck was found, but the alarm had not been turned on.

'BLIND PARADE' OPTIONAL

There'll be a "blind man's parade" in court next Monday only if the constables want it, Judge Samuel H. Gardner, presiding, declared today.

With the Mansfield law signed March 1 by Gov. Pinchot eliminating the quarterly returns by constables in Allegheny County, Judge Gardner said the act would go into effect September 1. In the meanwhile, he added, the court will not insist the returns be made.

The county pays $1,400 in fees to the constables for reporting. He said:

"The court will hear the returns of such constables as see fit to present the same."

Beaver Postoffice Site Costs $15,000

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP.)—The new postoffice at Beaver, Pa., will be located at Fourth and College streets. The Treasury announced today it had accepted the property offered by the Bovard Anderson Company for $15,000.

MAKER OF 'CURE' DEFENDS SELF IN TRIAL

The government today had rested in the prosecution in Federal Court of Leo Banks Barlett, of Dormont, charged with violating the food and drug act in the manufacture and distribution of ''Banbar,'' a preparation labeled as a cure for diabetes.

Bartlett, who went on the witness stand late yesterday afternoon, was to resume testimony today. The government avers the bottles are misbranded and denies "Banbar" contains curative ingredients for treatment of diabetes.

Bartlett was preceded on the witness stand by Dr. Alex Lowry, professor of organic chemistry at the University of Pittsburgh, as a defense witness. He testified that samples of "Banbar" given him for analysis did not contain ingredients described in the testimony of expert witnesses for the government.

Dr. Clyde H. Campbell, chemist for the State Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Food and Drugs, also testified for the defense.

One of the last witnesses called by the government was Dr. Garth W. Boerecke, professor of medicine and therapeutics, Hahnemann Medical College, Philadelphia. He said that from a homeopathic standpoint the preparation was of little value in treatment of diabetes.

'STRIKE' VOTED BY TAXPAYERS

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—Urging the discharge of the supervising principal, the resignation of five of its seven school directors, and reduction of the salary of tax collector from $5,600 to $2,000 annually, 800 taxpayers of Hempfield Township have passed a resolution withholding payment of 1933 taxes until the school board complies with its demands and reduces the school millage from 28 to 18 mills.

The taxpayers charge the school board is a dictatorship and demands that frills be dispensed with in the operation of schools.

Two Men Arrested In Theft of Tires

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—Alleged to have stolen auto tires from the Vacuum Oil Company plant, Greensburg, Louis Manchio, 26, and Richard Tasso, 26, Greensburg, have been arrested by state police.

WELSH MUSIC ON PROGRAM

A unique feature of the musical program of St. David's Day banquet, tomorrow evening at the Fort Pitt Hotel, is a group of famous songs of Wales to be sung in Welsh. These include "O, Na Byddai'n Haf o Hyd," "Yr Ornest," "Nos Calan," "Hen Wlad fy Nhadau," and others. Under the direction of Prof. Maurice Lewis, the following local musicians will take part in the program: Mrs. Nellie E. Miller, Mrs. Gwladys Dove, Howard Price, William Stephens, R. R. Roberts, Mrs. Robert Johns and Joseph Dove. Edward Griffiths will render several old Welsh airs on the harp, for centuries the national instrument of Wales.

The banquet is under the auspices of the American Gorsedd. R. H. Davies, national recorder, will be chairman.

Visiting delegations from Aliquippa, New Castle, New Kensington and other communities have reserved tables.

Religious observance of St. David's Day will be Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, with a chorus of Welsh vocalists.

STREETS HERE SAFEST IN COUNTRY

The safest city streets in the United States are in Pittsburgh, according to the National Safety Council, which today had awarded first prize to this city in the National Traffic Safety Contest among the largest cities of the United States.

Pittsburgh tied with Evanston, Ill., for the grand prize awarded to the city among all groups that obtained the highest score in the judging. Evanston's population is 63,000.

Traffic fatalities here were reduced from 184 to 126 or 27.1 per cent in 1932, compared with 1931. Bureau of Traffic Planning records show there was a decrease of only 7.3 per cent in the volume of traffic in 1932 compared with 1931. The May traffic count showed Triangle traffic increased 1.4 during that month.

There were 444 cities entered in the contest. The judging was based on accident records, accident reporting, traffic engineering, traffic law enforcement, child safety, public education and community safety organization.

Factors cited in the judging of Pittsburgh as the safest big city were the accident record and the uniform model traffic code adopted by City Council. The Bureau of Traffic Planning, the Better Traffic Committee, the Traffic Police Division and the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council have cooperated in a campaign to reduce accidents.

McKeesport Couple Files Divorce Action

Edna Jones Volk, 2414 Riverview avenue, McKeesport, who filed a divorce suit against her husband, Bernard J. Volk, 316 Ringgold street, McKeesport, earlier in the week, has been made respondent in an action which has been filed by Volk. The wife charges cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities, and Volk charges indignities. They were married September 1, 1922.

COURTS EXTEND TRIAL TIME TO SPEED WORK

When Allegheny County courts adopt new rules Monday jury trials will be extended to 3:30 from the present 3 o'clock closing, and the extra half hour a day will add five weeks of jury trials annually, it was announced today by Jack Moore, Chief Clerk of the Court.

Many attorneys wanted to continue jury trials until 4 p. m., but others objected on the grounds that it interfered with office conferences. The new rules have been approved by the judges of the courts in co-operation with a special committee of the Bar Association.

TRIAL ARGUMENTS

General trial arguments, beginning March 11, will be heard each Saturday morning by three judges. Under the old plan there were six weeks of jury trials followed by two weeks of arguments. Arguments on new trials and exceptions to equity adjudications will be heard as heretofore. Jury trials will be resumed on the Monday after the new trial argument week.

A special general and new trial argument list will be heard September 5.

ONE BRANCH UNCHANGED

Motions will not be heard in the assignment room of Common Pleas Court after 3 p. m., there being no change in the hours of operation in that branch of the court.

The new rules have been a matter of consideration for months. A committee of judges and lawyers visited Cleveland some time ago and observed the system used there.

It is expected the new rules will expedite the work of the courts and dispose of an accumulation of cases, some of which have been waiting two years.

HUNGER 'ARMY' ON WAY HOME

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—Leaving behind their Philadelphia comrades, tired and disgruntled "unemployed marchers" are homeward bound today by truck and automobile.

The net result of their dramatic march on the Capitol is a necleus of a state-wide organization to press their demands for $100,000,000 cash relief and other matters which they laid before the Legislature and Gov. Pinchot during their two-day visit.

About 750 of the "marchers" left last night within a few hours of their audience with the Governor.

The 250 Philadelphia marchers, who spent another night in the barren 10-acre state farm show building, are stopping at Lancaster today fo ranother demonstration, on their way home.

Departure of the "army" was marked by little of the fanfare and display which marked its advance. It had been expected that only a few would leave last night, but leaders changed their plans and the motley caravans of assorted vehicles soon headed for home.

Should Old Folks Aid Newlyweds? Asks Elsie

Only Hope for Pair Which Has Waited For Five Years

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Suppose you were 20—golden, glamorous 20—seeing the world through a rainbow mist and longing to throw yourself into its magnificent adventure—

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

From the wisdom of your 50 years of experience, you say:

"Why that's easy. I'd finish college first; learn a trade or a profession, then I'd get a job. Choose my job sensibly, of course, with an eye to its future. Save a little bit of what I earned. And then—just as soon as I'd saved a nest egg—I'd marry.

"No, I wouldn't wait until I was 30 and well off, to marry. I'd marry when I was young, before I'd hardened into pesty habits. I'd marry a girl as young as myself, and we'd have our babies soon and all grow up together. That's the way I did when I was a youngster, myself. That's the way all youngsters should do."

Yes, that's the way youngsters should do.

BUT SUPPOSE THEY CAN'T?

Suppose, instead of being young in 1903, you were facing life in the demoralized world of 1933?

LIVING ON DOLES

Suppose you couldn't save a nickel, much less a nest egg, but had to live on the grudging nickel of the family dole?

SUPPOSE—WORST OF ALL—THAT YOU COULDN'T MARRY, EVEN THOUGH YOU AND THE "ONLY GIRL" OR THE "ONLY MAN" LOVED EACH OTHER MADLY, AND WERE WILLING TO FACE ANY HARDSHIP, ANY SACRIFICE?

What would you do?

You say:

"But that's just a make-believe case. Young people aren't facing tough luck like that. They can always manage some way, if they really want to."

BUT THEY HAVEN'T A CHANCE! THEY'RE TRAPPED—DEPRIVED OF THEIR OPPORTUNITY BY THOSE OF THE OLDER GENERATION WHO HAVE BROUGHT THE WORLD TO THE MESS IT'S IN TODAY. NEVER HAS YOUTH BEEN IN SUCH A DILEMMA. THERE'S MANY A TRAGIC SIGHT IN OUR FRANTIC MODERN WORLD, BUT NONE SO TRAGIC AS THE CHEATED GENERATION!

So, then, what?

Shall the youngsters pass up marriage "until they've saved a nest egg"—which may mean NEVER?

Shall they furtively experiment with that tragic compromise—FREE LOVE?

OR SHALL THEY, AS THE WRITER OF THE FOLLOWING LETTER SUGGESTS, TURN TO THE OLDER GENERATION FOR SUPPORT?

IS IT THE DUTY OF THE OLDER GENERATION, WHO HAVE MESSED THINGS UP, TO SUPPORT THE YOUNGER GENERATION UNTIL IT GETS ON ITS FEET?

WAIT FOR ANSWER

As you read this letter, think of those other young things. Their frightened, discouraged, desperate young eyes are turned on you, waiting for your answer. WHAT HAVE YOU TO SAY TO THEM?

Dear Miss Robinson:

When you read our story you'll know it is a common one, but that doesn't make it any easier for us who have to live it.

I'm 25. My girl is 20. We have been in love with each other since we were in Hi. For five years we planned to marry when I finished college.

But I wasn't able to finish college. After the first year I had to get out, for the folks said they couldn't afford to send me any more. I tried my best to get odd jobs to carry me through, but there were 25 fellows for every job.

Now we're not any nearer marriage today than we were five years ago. We both work when we can find anything to do, but I haven't had a real position for three years. Nor do I see much future ahead, as I haven't any trade or profession.

Yet the girl and I love each other as much as ever. Haven't we a right to that love? Isn't it our right, even our duty, to make a home and have children?

NEED SUPPORT

Yet for hundreds of thousands of young people of our age, love and marriage are ruled out, unless—and this is the point of my letter—UNLESS OUR FOLKS HELP TO SUPPORT US FOR A YEAR OR TWO.

BUT OUR FOLKS CAN'T SEE IT. THEY SAY WE SHOULDN'T MARRY UNTIL WE CAN SUPPORT OURSELVES.

But when will that be? When we are too old to want to marry, probably; or at least, when the girl is too old to have children safely? Must we wait that long?

You know as well as I do that lots of young people aren't waiting. Some of them are getting married on the sneak. Many aren't bothering with marriage at all—just living together in free love. And some are going in for any racket, no matter how criminal, that will help them get money.

We don't want to do that. We want to marry young, and to live clean, fine lives, as our folks did before us. But we can't do it on our own, and the folks won't help. So—what's the answer? AL WILSON.

Well, what IS the answer? What's YOUR answer to those youngsters and their parents? If they were YOUR children, or if YOU were Al and The Girl, what would you do?

Is there no alternative for the millions of young lovers like Al and his girl, except to wait until they can marry and make a home for themselves on their own resources, or do without marriage? What have YOU to say to this question—

SHOULD THE OLD FOLKS SUPPORT THE NEWLYWEDS?

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

'What Do You Think?'

The Sun-Telegraph will pay cash prizes for the best four replies to Elsie Robinson's question, "Should the old folks support the newlyweds?" It will pay $5 for the best answer, $3 for the second and $1 each for the third and fourth best replies.

These opinions must not exceed 50 words in length and must be postmarked no later than 9 p. m. Monday, March 13, or turned in at the counter of the Sun-Telegraph Building or at the Downtown Sun-Telegraph office, Fifth avenue and Market street, not later than that time. Address your reply to the Question Editor of the Sun-Telegraph.

From time to time other questions will be raised by Miss Robinson. Watch for them. Her regular column entitled "Listen World" appears regularly on the editorial page of the Sun-Telegraph.

The 'What's-What' of a Really Good
Permanent Wave
Modern Methods of permanent waving embody all the four important points necessary to make women WANT to return to a beauty shop.
The concerns which appear in the advertising columns of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph have not lost their confidence in the present or the future of their industry!
• • • •
They continue to operate their business on a sound basis, offering quality beauty service at sane prices.
• • • •
Get into the habit of reading the Sun-Telegraph to find YOUR beauty shop. A trip to it each week will well repay you!
Speed . . . Comfort . . . Simplicity . . . Perfect Results
Today's beauty shops have invested immense sums in machinery to give women the Speed which they want. Modern hair dryers are able to accomplish this with a hitherto unknown ease and efficiency . . . in 20 minutes!
To be Comfortable is the next point of interest to women everywhere . . . and here, too, the shops have taken long strides. The new permanent waving machines have been made with an eye to the comfort of the customer—eliminating the old-fashioned pulling and twisting of the scalp!
The fewer the details, the quicker and more comfortable the permanent . . . and Simplicity is the keynote today!
The reputation of a shop depends upon the excellence of the work and the materials used! No reliable shop will jeopardize good will by using inferior supplies. Some of the shops have even gone so far as to put in special tanks which soften the water used for shampoos! Thus today's permanent wave is assured of Perfect Results through the skillful work of operators (a matter of two to three hours) . . . excellent supplies . . . and the most modern of machinery!
You "get what you pay for" . . . and with the above points taken into consideration, the Pittsburgh beauty shops appearing in the columns of the Sun-Telegraph are to be complimented on offering quality service at prices within reach of everyone!

BRISBANE SEES SLUMP CURE IN CURRENCY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—Arthur Brisbane of "Today" talked about tomorrow to some 500 big business men at a commercial club luncheon here yesterday. A vast network of radio listeners were also "hooked up" by the National Broadcasting Company.

Mr. Brisbane told them how the depression could be smashed, according to his views of the country-wide situation.

Introduced by President Robert C. Newell of the club as "this eminent American," Brisbane declared that "if the government would call in half of its $20,000,000,000 bonds and in its place issue non-interest paying currency, and if this currency were spent, the depression would be broken."

REFUSES TO PROPHESY

He continued:

"I have been invited here as a prophet to answer the question: 'What is coming?'

"I don't know. Neither does anyone else. But civilization survived the Hundred Years' War, the Seven-year War, the Black Death and other catastrophies. If 30,000,000 of our people had died within the last six months, of pestilence, it would be comparable to the Black Death.

"As it is, we are only a little pale in the pocketbook.

"We know the fundamental thing that happened, and that was the war—a big war, a murderous and costly war that was not ours into which we went as cheerfully as so many children going to a soda fountain. We sent 3,000,000 men across the ocean and we sent ten thousand millions of dollars and spent other thousands of millions here, poured them out extravagantly and recklessly. And we are paying for it.

HUNGER WASN'T 'LOCAL'

"During the war we forced 4,000,000 young men to accept food, uniforms, arms and pay from the government. We had no trouble doing that and we didn't say that hunger here in this country was a local matter. We didn't say that hunger in Armenia was a local matter or in China, or Russia, or Turkey, or Belgium. We easily found millions and millions and millions to take care of people of those countries.

"What's the matter with us? Can't we take care of people in our own country? That's a more important question than any other.

"Now we have 12,000,000 people idle. We can't find work for them. We can't provide public funds. Something will have to be done about that.

AID FOR PRESIDENT

"Of course everybody knows that the President who leaves day after tomorrow has done his very best. Now every one, no matter what his interest in politics, should give his fullest support to the man we picked out for the most difficult job that was ever undertaken in the world.

"I think the new President has plans to put people back to work. We abhor the dole, and should. In Europe they think it is better than revolution. It is. But here there can be no revolution. If one part of the country was ready for it, another would have a fine crop coming up and would want to wait.

"Something will come along to end this depression. I believe the developments of airplanes, the building of bridges and bombing fields will help. Defense is in the air."

Five-Year Sentence For Store Robberies

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—Convicted of breaking into the Mt. Pleasant Supply Company store and a chain store in Bolivar, helping to carry away more than $1,000 in merchandise, Weymer Zack, Graceton, Indiana County, has been sentenced to serve from five to 10 years in the Western Penitentiary.

Zack and five others were convicted, the others being sentenced recently.

MUSIC

Morning Musicale
Hotel Schenley

PROGRAM:
Trio—Opus 1, No. 3: Allegro Con Brio.. Beethoven
Songs:
Stornellata Marinara ..... Cimara
Ninna Nanna Cassaca ..... Bizelli
In Mezzo al Mar ..... Sadero
Trio—Opus 8: Allegro Con Brio ....Brahms
Song Cycle:
Loves Sorrow ..... Clough Leighter
Dearest, When I Am Dead.
And if He Comes Again.
The Day She Died.

The Schenley Morning Musicale drew a happy audience again yesterday and gave us a new trio, the Schenley Trio, Mary Redmond, violin; George Wilkins, cello, and Hulda Lefridge, piano. Margaret Garrity, soprano, also sang.

Mr. Lissfelt

It is regrettable that the trio did not play a complete work. They were hardly in the mood of a composition when it was over and the fragments gave no idea of what they were capable as understanding musicians. I should say rather play miniatures so that each piece might be an entity during the program than give us just a few measures of such excellent work as Beethoven and Brahms have done in just these trios. Moreover, the taste we had of that music from these players whetted our thirst for more.

Miss Garrity sang three splendid Italian songs and, with the trio accompanying, a melodious song cycle of Clough-Leighter. The instruments lent a lightening effect to poems that might have become a little mournful and Miss Garrity's voice was able to avoid the lugubrious. In fact it went somewhat beyond brightness in the climax of the last song and become too white for real beauty of tone. By request she sang "Les Filles de Cadiz" as encore.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

VANG'S WHARF PLAN ASSAILED BY CHAMBER

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday disapproved the so-called Vang wharf plan and voted to ask City Council to reject the ordinance as being without public advantage and contrary to sound public policy.

The chamber held that not only in 1930, but as lately as May, 1932, it had requested Council and the Board of County Commissioners to take action jointly to improve the river fronts. It condemned the Vang ordinance because it would put the whole cost on the city instead of providing for joint action of city and county.

After pointing out that the Vang ordinance has been condemned by the City Planning Committee, the chamber report continues:

"The proposed agreement would impose upon the city an expenditure of $350,000, involving an increase of taxation, and at the same time would require the city to give up all the revenue that it now derives from wharf parking in order that all revenues obtainable from such a source might be secured by a public service corporation to be organized by Vang, said corporation to be given a 15-year lease on the wharf from Stanwix to Ninth streets free of all rents and taxes. This is not an advantageous business arrangement as far as the city and the city taxpayers are concerned.

"The proposed agreement is lacking in the essential element of mutuality of obligation; it binds the city to do certain definite things and assume specific financial obligations while Vang's obligation, especially as regards finances, is indeterminate and vague."

VETS' AID SEEN AS TAX BURDEN

Contending that 56 per cent of patients in government veterans' hospitals do not claim service connection disability for admittance, Carlton Ketchum, local executive of the National Economy League, declared such expenditures caused unreasonabe increases in taxation, when he addressed the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh at a Fort Pitt Hotel luncheon.

Ketchum held that development of service ailments should have ceased by 1925 and that treatment of new cases was an undue burden on taxpayers.

Baltimore Pastor To Take Pulpit Here

BALTIMORE, Md., March 3.—(AP.)—The Baltimore Presbytery yesterday granted the Rev. William V. Parson, pastor of Babcock Memorial Presbyterian Church, a letter of transfer to the Presbytery of Pittsburgh in order that he might accept a call from the Brighton Road Presbyterian Church there. He will assume the pastorate of the Pittsburgh church the first Sunday in April.

Curley to Accept Rome Appointment

BOSTON, March 3.—(AP.)—The Boston Globe says it has learned that Mayor James J. Curley, of Boston, has decided to accept the post of United States Ambassador to Italy, "informally offered him by President-elect Roosevelt."

About two years ago Mayor Curley was made a commandatore of the order of the Crown of Italy by King Victor Emmanuel.

Reserve Officers Name Judge Smith

Common Pleas Court Judge Ralph H. Smith last night was named vice president of the Pittsburgh Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, meeting in the Westinghouse Building. Capt. James Hood was named president; Capt. Charles H. Fleming, vice president, and Lieut. V. C. Neeson, secretary-treasurer. Judge Smith is a lieutenant in the infantry service.

'Coolidge Porridge,' Cafeteria Feature

At the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries' cafeteria, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, a new dish named "Coolidge Porridge" is being introduced to Pittsburghers. It is made of whole wheat and rye, served with milk and sugar. It is a "thrifty" dish, and that is why it is named after the former president, it was explained.

Federal Men Take Liquor in 4 Raids

Confiscation of liquor was reported by prohibition agents in four raids tyesterday. A speakeasy in East Ohio street and another in Columbia avenue, a house in Braddock avenue, Braddock, and a store in Fifth avenue, Rankin, were raided by the agents. Three men were arrested.

46 STATES SEEN AS RATIFYING REPEAL

NEW YORK, March 3.—A forecast that 46 states will ratify the new repeal amendment to the Constitution is contained in the March 4 issue of the Literary Digest.

The statement is based on an analysis of the 1922, 1930 and 1932 nation-wide polls on prohibition taken by the magazine. All of these polls showed overwhelming wet majorities. The magazine says:

"The drys must hold 13 states in line. Can they do it?

"Not more than two states, let alone 13, will vote against repeal of prohibition, as shown by the Literary Digest polls.

"Kansas and North Carolina were the only dry states in the latest poll, and this by scant margins."

Reviewing the magazine's record in conducting presidential polls and declaring the forecast of winners in all instances had shown an error of less than 5 per cent, the article continues:

"In view of this record and with the results of the 1932 prohibition poll in mind, it would seem that the drys would be unable to get more than one or two states to vote against ratification of repeal."

The 16 states in which the magazine says the drys count their chances best are taken up as follows:

"Of these the only two voting against repeal in the Literary Digest's poll of 1932 were Kansas with a dry percentage of 50.23 and North Carolina, 50.05.

"The wet percentage of the other states as they voted in the poll were: Oklahoma, 54.8; Iowa, 63.4; Georgia, 63.8; Utah, 69.6; Nebraska, 62.9; Kentucky, 67.4; Tennessee, 51.6; North Dakota, 76.5; South Dakota, 69; New Hampshire, 68.9; South Carolina, 60; Alabama, 55.4; Mississippi, 56.2; and Florida, 74.9."

MY BEST WAR STORY

By CHARLES B. SHAPIRO,
2004 Murray Avenue,
Pittsburgh.
(Co. A, 315th M. C. Battalion, 80th Division.)

Company A had moved steadily forward in the Argonne Forest for four days. On the morning of November 4, 1918, we were resting in an ammunition warehouse the Germans had evacuated the night before.

We were hungry and tired, but the thing that bothered us most was thirst. We had not had water for days, and Kipling's Gungha Din would have looked like an angel with a jug of ambrosia to us. I grabbed my canteen and those of several of my buddies and started to look for any liquid that flowed.

The German dead were strewn everywhere. I stopped to look at one who had been a German machine gun officer. I noticed that he had three canteens, all full, and on tasting the contents, I found one contained coffee, another wine, and the third brandy. I took one grand big drink (not coffee), and gathering up the canteens and some others nearby, I started back. Passing Sergt. George Schratz I gave him a big "hello" that he would have recognized even with a cold in the head. He bawled:

"Where did you get it?"

I had only given a few words of explanation when the whole company was out there turning over the bodies in search of more liquid.

(The foregoing story was a prize-winner in the "My Best War Story" contest being conducted by veterans of Allegheny County. True accounts of war experiences may be mailed by veterans, relatives and friends to the "Best Story" Committee, Fulton Theater, Sixth street, Pittsburgh. They must not exceed 300 words. The winner each day will be awarded four tickets to the theater's showing of the war film, "The Big Drive.")

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal.—(INS.)—Billy Gilholm, 9, wanted to make a strong impression on the lady of his heart, Ginger Barnes. He succeeded but it cost him two broken arms.

Billy catapulted his bicycle from the roof of a 35-foot building, smashed the machine and fractured both arms. Billy didn't mind, however, because Ginger is convinced he is a real "man."

Relief Fraud Costs Joilet Man $1,000

JOLIET, Ill., March 3.—(AP.)—The $112 worth of relief Rade Ostovich was charged with getting from the Will County relief commission at a time when he, his wife and daughter had the tidy sum of $7,500 in the Postal Savings Bank, cost him plenty. He pleaded guilty to defrauding the commission yesterday and was fined $500 by Judge Ralph C. Austin. He paid in cash, following which he took $500 more from his savings and presented it to the commission as a gift.

NICOLA TO ASK RETRIAL IN TAX EVASION

A motion for a new trial for F. F. Nicola, 72, real estate operator, convicted yesterday in Federal Court of a $26,394 evasion in income taxes for 1928, will be made within the next four days.

The defense plan to ask for a new trial was announced to Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker by Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, of defense counsel, immediately after the jury returned its verdict.

The jury deliberated nearly 23 hours and went into court twice for further instructions.

The suit involved a voucher for $101,250 received by Nicola from the Miller Printing Machinery Company as a commission on sale of patents. The government charged that he turned it over to the Point Improvement Company instead of applying it to his personal income, for the purpose of evading the income tax on it. Nicola holds controlling interests in both concerns.

The aged defendant appeared surprised at the verdict, and left the courthouse soon after it was announced.

In the prosecution the government was represented by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh and Attorney John A. McCann, Pittsburgh representative of general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Here's one for you to rack your brain on. A tip will be furnished tomorrow.

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Here's another Cipher by our leading woman cipher fan, Mrs. Henrietta Bradwell, of Carnegie. It's No. 66, and hard enough. You should be interested in solving this message. Let's hope you can.

Mrs. Bradwell calls this cipher easy, but don't think it too easy.

Cipher No. 65 wasn't so hard. After the tip yesterday you should have completed it in 10 minutes. This one was written with Roman numerals. The alphabet was unchanged: "A" was 1, and "Z"—26. The odd letters were in the cipher to make it harder.

Did you solve it? It was easy after you obtained the correct method. The answer was:

"This should really be rather easy. What do you think?"

POPE ORDAINS 'HOLY HOUR'

VATICAN CITY, March 3.—(AP.)—Pope Pius today called upon the world to observe a holy hour April 6 of expiatory prayer on the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane, "so all souls may be lifted in union toward God, thus inducing pacification of the peoples and alleviation of the evils created by the crisis."

The Pope himself will descend to St. Peter's to venerate the sacrament of the hour.

The appeal was made in an open letter addressed to Cardinal Marchetti-Selavaggiani, the vicar of the Rome diocese, in which he requested the clergy and the faithful to observe the hour.

Referring to Mexico, Spain and Russia, the Pope said he hoped "this prayer will be especially efficacious for those countries where the Redeemer is most outraged so they will return to the good path."

Attacked With Razor, Wounded Man Says

While one of two men held his arm, another slashed him with a knife or razor, Anthony Doran, 36, of 3922 Woolslair way told homicide detectives early today in West Penn Hospital. Doran, suffering from a laceration to the right side of his face, was found in a semi-conscious condition at Fortieth street and Penn avenue.

PANIC AVERTED IN BUS CRASH

A level-headed driver of an overland bus, loaded with 35 men, women and children, en route to Washington for the inauguration, narrowly averted a panic among his passengers as the bus swayed dizzily in Penn avenue, after a collision with a truck near Braddock avenue.

The truck struck the rear end of the bus, breaking a window, causing injury to one man. He was C. W. Piersol, of Indianapolis. After receiving treatment at Columbia Hospital he resumed the journey to the capital with other passengers.

William J. Brunner, of Lowrie's Run road, near Bellevue, whose cool-headedness possibly averted a more serious accident, was given a Traffic Court summons on a reckless driving charge. Edward Settinger, of 2581 Charles street, operator of the truck, also was given a summons.

PAROLE 4-TIME RUM VIOLATOR

Stanley Seletyski, of Main street, a four-time liquor law violator, was on a three-year probation today, after Federad Judge F. P. Schoonmaker has suspended a two-year penitentiary term and a $500 fine imposed yesterday. He was warned that if he again violates the law he will serve the original sentence.

Akim Solop, of Olivia street, McKeesport, convicted of violating the dry law, was fined $500 and sentenced to serve three months in jail. He was a prior offender, having been fined $400 in November, 1926, and $500 in November, 1928. Juries returned verdicts of acquittals in trials of Thomas Bosco, Cliff street, and Frank Kamatic, Pittsburgh, tried on dry law charges.

The jury in the trial of Mike Manganaro, charged with possessing and transporting five gallons of moonshine whisky, failed to agree and was dismissed after deliberating 18 hours.

King to Hold Court 5 Days to Meet Crowd

LONDON, March 3.—(AP.)—King George V will hold royal courts at Buckingham Palace May 11, 12, 17 and 18 and June 23, it was announced officially today.

Names of Americans to be presented probably will be made public next month. So many wanted to be presented this year the number of courts were increased from four to five.

GAS MEN TALK OF EXTENDING ADVERTISING

Topics of discussion at today's session of the annual natural gas sales conference in Hotel Schenley were to be the extensive use of employe-selling campaigns, reinforced by co-operative local advertising to develop the sales of gas refrigeration. It was the closing meeting of the two-day session.

Mr. Scofield

George L. Scofield, general sales manager of the Republic Light, Heat and Power Company and the Dominion Natural Gas Company, Ltd., of Buffalo, N. Y., was to discuss employe selling.

Other speakers on today's program were C. E. Bennett, of the Binghamton Gas Works, Binghamton, N. Y.; H. H. Wampler, of the Faraday Refrigerator Corporation, Dayton, O. and E. M. Tharp, of the Ohioi Fuel and Gas Company, Columbus; Carlton G. Ketchum, of the Ketchum, Inc.; Leo A. Green, of the Steam Fitters and Helpers Union, and L. R. Nourie, of the Dispatch Oven Company.

Advertising campaigns in natural gas districts like Pittsburgh was urged yesterday by William H. Hodge, vice president and manager of sales and advertising for the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, Chicago. Hodge explained use of newspapers and other recognized media could sell and resell the public on the advantages of a plentiful and low-priced gas supply.

URGES 2-YEAR CAMPAIGN

He said resources should be combined in the advertising campaign and that it should run for two years and begin as soon as possible.

Arthur Hewitt, president of the American Gas Association, who made the keynote speech at yesterday's meeting, declared Canadian gas companies have not let down on advertising and have sponsored intensive sales efforts during the past three years. He said:

"Our advertising expenditures are no less today than on the boom days of 1929. We are simply trying to spend our advertising money more intelligently. We are going to see the thing through and it is our conviction that we have already seen the worst."

Speaker

WILLIAM H. HODGE
Mr. Hodge, vice president and sales and advertising manager of the Byllesby Engineering and Management Corporation, who addressed the Eastern Natural Gas Conference at the Hotel Schenley on "Utility Advertising Today."

HITLER SCORES 'MARXISTS'

BERLIN, March 3.—(INS.)—The government's anti-radical campaign went forward at high speed today while Chancellor Adolf Hitler's condemnation of "Marxists" rang in the ears of thousands of voters who will go to the polls for the Reichstag election on Sunday.

Addressing 20,000 followers in the Sportpalast, Hitler condemned "14 years of Marxist rule in Germany."

COUNTY GETS 12,000 PAIRS OF SHOES

Twelve thousand pairs of shoes—the first of approximately 100,000 pairs ordered—have been received by the Allegheny County Emergency Association from the State Emergency Relief Board.

Announcing receipt of the shoes today, Director S. E. Claney, of the association, said:

"With 60,000 needy families in the county, making about 300,000 persons, you can see that 12,000 pairs of shoes are only a drop in the bucket."

To facilitate distribution of the shoes through county districts, the county has been divided into zones and arrangements made for distributing points in the following places:

Etna, McKees Rocks, Tarentum, Homestead, Turtle Creek, McKeesport, Coraopolis, Mt. Oliver, Clairton and Carnegie.

On the assumption that Pittsburgh already has money for shoes, no provision has been made for the city's shoe need through state relief.

Relief heads at Harrisburg are of the opinion that eventually 1,000,000 pairs of shoes will be distributed throughout the state, with 149,000 pairs already furnished and 150,000 more ordered. Purchases were financed by money appropriated by the Talbot Act and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

All shoes are being bought from Pennsylvania manufacturers if they are able to fill the orders. However, it is impossible to purchase some adult shoes within the state, it was reported.

Escapes as Car Hits Auto, Truck, Pole

Although the automobile he was driving struck another car and a truck and knocked down a pole in West Liberty avenue at the Beechview junction, E. W. Ungerer, 38, of 105 Shady drive, west, Mt. Lebanon, escaped with a cut on the nose late yesterday, according to Dormont police. Ungerer was arrested on a reckless driving charge and later released on $1,000 bond, police said.

Workers' Council To Rally Thursday

The Workers' Unemployment Council of Indiana County, Black Lick Unit, will hold a public meeting next Thursday night in Slovak Hall, Palmertown. Demands for tax readjustments and 25 per cent reduction in salaries of public officials receiving more than $3,000 will be discussed. Guy McConnell, vice president, has announced the organization is not affiliated with Communist groups.

2 Temporary Dry Injunctions Granted

Temporary injunctions were granted in Federal Court on complaints filed by prohibition authorities against an alleged barroom and drinking rooms, second floor, 4060 Penn avenue, of which Edward Shonts was said to be proprietor, and a store and drinking rooms, first floor, 1517 Brighton road, of which Nathan Marsh was named as the owner. Final hearings will be held June 6.

Missing Man Home After Thugs' Attack

C. L. Kline, 28, missing Dauphin (Pa.) man who was sought here after his truck was discovered in Chartiers avenue, West End, has returned to his home. He said he was attacked and beaten by two Negroes as he was en route to Mt. Carmel for a load of coal and the truck stolen. The truck was returned to Dauphin by a relative, Charles W. Garman, who notified police of the return of the missing man.

Heart Fails Fireman, Father of 6, at Blaze

James Burns, 45, of 248 Second avenue, Homestead fireman, died early in the Homestead Hospital from a heart attack suffered while fighting a small blaze in Locust avenue, Homestead, shortly before last midnight, according to a Coroner's report.

Burns, father of six children, had been a member of the Homestead fire department for several years, members said.

Tool Company Sales Show Marked Gain

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 3.—January sales of the Latrobe Tool Company were the best in 18 months past, stockholders of the organization have been advised. Prospects for March are considered good, and January volume of orders may be surpassed, officials said.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

That fact about Dr. Raymond Ditmars, the famous Curator of the Zoo, is a pip . . . The doctor, who is also America's best known reptile expert, owns some property in the Bronx . . . Recently he learned that some of his tenants were undesirable—in fact—they were running a hooch-house—so he ordered them to get out . . . His answer was a threat . . . For two days he received telephonic warnings of the dire things that would befall him and his tribe— if the tenants were not allowed to stay . . . The joint, you see, was a gold-mine . . . Finally, an individual with a very tough voice got on the phone and informed the curator that if he tried to dispossess them legally, or call the cops, he would be sorry, indeed . . . Sorry, they added, if he lived long enough to know what happened . . . So Dr. Ditmars, who can handle any sort of snake, reptile or human, told them that unless they got out of his building that day—that their place that night would be crawling with cobras and other poisonous pythons! . . . The poison, he added, from these pets, worked faster than the fastest trigger finger . . . The speakeasy owners haven't returned yet—and Dr. Ditmars, who is against prohibition (but who, as a good citizen, wanted to uphold the law) doesn't know what to do with the stranded whoopee parlor!

Swell simile from Len Golos . . . It hits most of us right between the orbs . . . "It passed quicker," he says, "than the 15 minutes more sleep you try to grab—after wakening" . . . Reminds me of a former favorite, to-wit: "The world would be a sweeter place to live in if we could only sleep as soundly when we want to go to bed—as we do when it is time to get up!" How mercilessly true!

Makes me shudder when I think of how Fritzi Scheff, the darling of her time, was forced to give a radio audition—and because one of the ad agency "minds" didn't know good canarying when he heard it—she didn't get the job . . . Very funny. The comments about forgetting old feuds. But I can't . . . I found out too long ago that "Every Knock Isn't a Boost!" and that only a fool makes an apology—but a bigger one accepts it! . . . I'd rather write a line about the Selbys, anyhow, whose exciting dance routines with Cab Calloway's Cotton Club crew at the Capitol were plenty dandy . . . The Calloway symphonies and the torrid tempos of the Selbys . . . Hotter than a Hemingway chapter.

J. B. Fagin (he authored "And So to Bed" and other fine plays) died in Hollywood—and his bride decided to take his remains home to England for burial. She shipped from Wilmington, Cal., on one of the passenger liners—which ply between the coast through the Canal and Plymouth. And discovered much to her horror that there wasn't another passenger aboard! . . ."Outward Bound?" . . . Tickled about Anna Q. Nilsson's comeback effort in "Hedda Gabler" out there, too. Anna opens there shortly after five years in a sick bed. Here's to her! . . . Good old Hellinger! Must be almost eight years ago when we talked that night for hours in Reuben's. He talked, I mean—and for once I did the listening. "Some day, old pal," he began, "I'm going away—far away. I'm going to leave all this to you—you can have it. 'When I get to Siam I'll send you a postcard" . . . As the second hour ended Mark said: "You haven't been listening. You're laughing inside of you" . . . No, I'm not, I told him. I understand Mark, I understand. All I ask is that when you go that you take Harry Hershfield with you, he makes me sick! . . . I was feuding with Harry then—about what I can't recall . . . I fight with so many people—and for so long—I always forget why or how the quarrel began . . . At any rate, I broke Mark's spell with that crack—and Mark almost wept . . . Every now and then he would say, "Some day—I'm going to Siam, watch and see. And leave broadway to you, old boy" . . . Just now came a cable—from Bangkok—no signature . . . It said: "Remember that night in Reuben's . . . But where's Hershfield?" . . . I miss Hellinger—and his calmness—and his Helen Morganatic tears . . . And the way he always could cool me off—when my temper got on fire . . . And I top him by five years around the temples, too! . . . So now he's in Siam . . . Where the dawn comes up like thunder, and all that other sorta Kipling . . . I go to the newsreels for the same pastime—and come out happier—that I'm only a five-cent call—from the ones who matter most.

Loretta May Delay Trip For Film

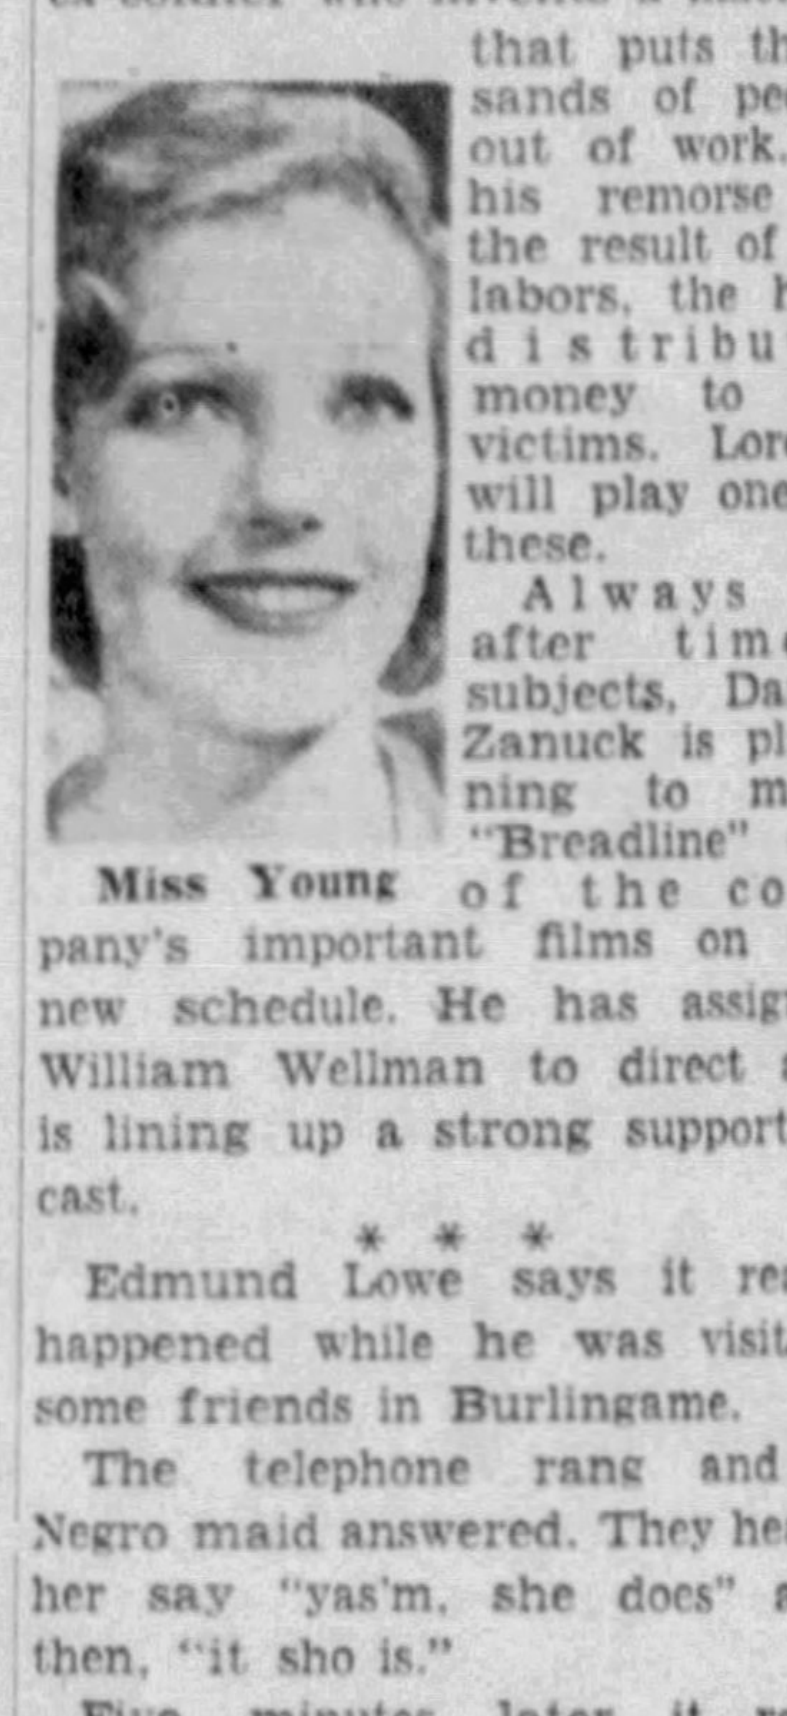
By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 3.

A chance to play opposite Dick Barthelmess may cause Loretta Young to postpone her Honolulu vacation.

Warners want her for the feminine lead in "Breadline," a sensational picture that (and here's tipping you to a real secret) will deal with the much-discussed technocracy.

Robert Lord and Wilson Mizner are now writing a story of an ex-soldier who invents a machine that puts thousands of people out of work. In his remorse at the result of his labors, the hero distributes money to his victims. Loretta will play one of these.



Miss Young

Always hot after timely subjects, Darryl Zanuck is planning to make "Breadline" one of the company's important films on the new schedule. He has assigned William Wellman to direct and is lining up a strong supporting cast.

* * *

Edmund Lowe says it really happened while he was visiting some friends in Burlingame.

The telephone rang and a Negro maid answered. They heard her say "yas'm, she does" and then, "it sho is."

Five minutes later it rang again, and the identical conversation ensued.

The hostess summoned the maid and asked about the call.

"Well," she explained, "lady says: 'Does Mrs. Stevens live here?'. I answered: 'yas'm, she does.' Then the lady says: 'Long distance from Washington.' And I agreed: 'It sho is.'"

* * *

Ernst Lubitsch is eastward bound to confer with Noel Coward on "Design for Living," but he declines to see the play. Doesn't want to get any preconceived ideas . . . Few Hollywoodites know how successful the Masquers comedies have been. Thanks to these short burlesques, for which members donate their services, the Masquers Club has no debts, owns its property and clubhouse, has a sizeable investment in government bonds and a comfortable cash bonus. Theater owners pay more for these all-star comedies than for almost any other shorts.

Mr. Lubitsch

* * *

The departure of the Ely S. Culbertsons has been delayed till March 11 . . . Fox rumors say that no matter what Clara Bow's next story is, it will be called "The Devil's Daughter" . . . Catherine Dale Owen is the latest beauty to receive the attentions of John Warburton. The two were at the Cocoanut Grove for the Junior League "Mother Goose" night . . . Ruby Keeler and Joan Blondell refuse to remove their wedding rings for movie scenes. When necessary, they cover them with tape and makeup. Karen Morley hangs hers on a gold chain around her neck.

* * *

Maybe it's the Peggy Hopkins Joyce influence, but Jack Oakie has taken a house in Beverly Hills and he showed up at the studio the other day in dapper blue suit, grey hat and grey spats. On his finger he sported an emerald and diamond ring. . . . The dent in Sylvia Sydney's dressing-room door dates back to an afternoon when Pola Negri threw a bottle of perfume at it.

Mr. Oakie

Quite a humorous chap, that Hollywood tailor who advertises: "What the well-dressed man will wear this springcoat, with Dietrich shoulders; vest, with deep Garbo V; trousers, with Hepburn flare."

If you think you see James Cagney on your home town street this month, you may be right. Jimmie will take one of those incognito vacations as soon as he finishes "The Mayor of Hell." Won't tell anybody where he is going. . . . They will be thrilled in that midwest missionary society. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending them one of Joan Crawford's hats to sell in a church bazaar. . . . And, take it from Troy Orr, many a Hollywood gal would be willing to go into the hands of a receiver—if she could find one.

Did you know: That Beryl Mercer, who specializes in a Scotch accent, is Spanish, having been born in Madrid?

Special Specials

Three of the passengers on the "42nd Street" special train, pausing in Pittsburgh today, en route to Washington for the inauguration.

New Screen Programs

"The Big Drive" is made up of pictures of the World War actually taken while the World War was going on. Some of the scenes show hand-to-hand trench fighting. It continues in the Fulton.

* * *

Al Jolson, star of "The Jazz Singer," first talkie, will be seen in "Hallelujah I'm a Bum" opening today in the Penn. Madge Evans has the feminine lead. Frank Morgan and Harry Langdon are also in the cast.

* * *

The Stanley today has "42nd Street" a musical revue with Warner Baxter and Bebe Daniels in the leading roles. It has 14 principals and 200 girls. Dick Powell, too, will be seen in the picture.

* * *

Richard Dix, with his "unholy wink" which causes him lots of trouble, is the star of "The Great Jasper" photoplay in the Warner. Wera Engels and Edna May Oliver are in the cast.

* * *

Ben Lyon, Glenda Farrell, and Mary Brian in "Girl Missing," and James Dunn and Boots Mallory in "Handle With Care," comprise the double bill in the Davis and Regent.

Opening tomorrow in the Sheridan Square George Arliss will be seen in "The King's Vacation." Arliss plays the part of a king who leaves his throne to avert a revolution.

* * *

Lionel Atwill and Glenda Farrell have the leading roles in "The Mystery of the Wax Museum" opening tomorrow in the Enright.

* * *

Opening Sunday with a midnight show, the Variety will offer Lili Damita and Charles Morton in "Goldie Gets Along."

* * *

Announcement will be made of the award of prizes offered through the Art Society for original compositions. These are the Martin B. Leisser prize of $100 for vocal quartet and the Mu Phi Epsilon prize of $100 for piano composition.

Doubles

Glenda Farrell, here today in person with other Warner stars, will be seen also today in the Davis and Regent in "Girl Missing," and in the Enright Saturday in "The Mystery of the Wax Museum."

Myra Hess, Pianist, In Concert Tonight

Myra Hess, pianist, will give the final art society concert in Carnegie Hall tonight. The program will open with the Mozart Fantasia and Fugue in C major, followed by the Beethoven Sonata, opus 110. Other works are to be Brahms Opus 119, Intermezzo in B minor, E minor, C Major and Rhapsodie in E flat major, and Chopin Preludes, Opus 28, C major, E minor, F sharp minor, Opus 45, C sharp minor, opus 28, B flat minor, D flat major, F major and D minor.

Points About Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Anne Teeman, who plays the part of Paul Muni's secretary in "Counsellor-at-Law," coming to the Nixon next week, knows the theater from both sides of the footlights. She began her theatrical career as an usher, and won promotion to the box office. Yet that did not connect her with the stage, for she left the box office to become a reporter in Chicago, and in that capacity she was brought into contact with Charles MacArthur, playwright husband of Helen Hayes, and it was through him that she got to the far side of the stage curtain. One of her first jobs was in the support of Mrs. Patrick Campbell in "Sex Fable." She also has had stock experience in San Francisco, Los Angeles and Milwaukee. Miss Teeman played with Bert Lytell in "The Valiant," one-act play for vaudeville, that was among Muni's earlier efforts for the screen.

* * *

"The Red Robin," first production to be staged in Chicago by J. J. Shubert, will open in that city Saturday. Allen Jones and Martha Lorber will play the leads and Nick Long, Jr., will be dancing juvenile. George Hassell, J. Charles Gilbert and Manila Powers, recently seen here with Jones in "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince," also will be in the company.

* * *

Richard Bennett, veteran stage and screen actor, father of Joan and Connie, named the following as his choice of 10 greatest players: Henry Irving, Ellen Terry, Rose Coghlan, Eleanora Duse, Jeanne Eagels, Chaliapin, Sarah Bernhardt, Lionel Barrymore, James A. Herne and Maude Adams.

* * *

Lilyan Tashman, long known as the screen's "best-dressed woman," for years has designed her own hats, and has decided to commercialize her talent in that line, in association with a Hollywood shop. Recently she has been playing on the Los Angeles stage in "Grounds for Divorce."

All in a Day

—By Mark Hellinger—

ABOARD THE S. S. IZMIR, EGYPT-BOUND.—Tomorrow morning early this craft is due to dock in Alexandria. And as I sat down to write this column, the thought struck me that it might not be amiss to do a little summing up. Having gone through numerous countries, hotels and experiences since leaving New York, I don't think it will be any harm to convey a few of the more lasting impressions to you at the moment.

Although this has been the silliest kind of trip, what with jumping back and forth across the Mediterranean and doubling in my tracks on a number of occasions, I think my impressions are practically the same as you might have gained on a similar voyage. Perhaps you would have seen more; perhaps less. But I think that, in the long run, we wouldn't argue about many points.

As I wrote in one column during the early part of this trip, I left New York with no axes to grind. All nations looked alike to me, and I have always endeavored to meet every man on a common plane without regard to creed or color.

This policy I have attempted to carry out as thoroughly as possible. And it is this policy that I will attempt to carry out for the balance of my trip. Roughly, my schedule will take me now through Egypt and up into Palestine. From Palestine, I'll double back again, go through the Suez Canal, stop a short while in French Somaliland and then hit out for Bombay, India. After that—well, we'll see.

Ladies and gentlemen, the summary:

Question—In what country did you find the most hospitality and the people who seemed most anxious to please?

Answer—Germany, unquestionably.

Question—Why do they call that sea the Blue Mediterranean?

Answer—Because the more often you cross it, the bluer you get.

Question—Where did you find the best night clubs and the best dance orchestra?

Answer—Paris.

Question—Where did you find the prettiest women that Europe had to offer?

Answer—Back in the last Ziegfeld Follies.

Question—Where do you think the next great war will have its beginning?

Answer—It may start somewhere else in a small way as a blind—as the World War did—but it will immediately boil over between Italy and France.

Question—In what hotel did you find the best service and the best food?

Answer—The Esplanade Hotel in Berlin.

Question—What city did you find the most grasping and the most selfish?

Answer—Paris.

Question—In what part of Europe do men's shoes squeak the loudest?

Answer—Italy.

Question—What nation impressed you as most likely to become the greatest power in Europe?

Answer—Czechoslovakia.

Question—What nation is dying rapidly?

Answer—Austria, sadly enough.

Question—Which of the ancient sights did you like best on your European tour?

Answer—The Dolly Sisters.

Question—What restaurant would you recommend most highly?

Answer—A toss-up between Horchers and Peltzers, both in Berlin.

Question—What did you think of Tunis?

Answer—Must I think of it?

Question—In what city did you find living the cheapest?

Answer—Athens.

Question—What city afforded you your greatest disappointment?

Answer—Constantinople, with Paris the runner-up.

Question—Who is the greatest figure in Europe today?

Answer—Mussolini—by several million miles.

Question—Where did you find the most peace and contentment?

Answer—In a little fishing village, just outside of Marseilles.

Question—What was the most interesting town you visited?

Answer—Prague.

Question—Who was the most unpleasant individual you encountered on your trip?

Answer—Mr. Coert Du Bois, the American Consul General for all Italy. Mr. Du Bois is suffering from the biggest case of a balloon head I ever witnessed.

Question—What was your most interesting experience?

Answer—Don't get fresh.

Question—What was the most overrated place you visited?

Answer—The gambling casino in Monte Carlo.

Question—What have you missed most on your journey thus far?

Answer—I would say the things I miss most are Walter Winchell's daily column, the meals at Moore's restaurant and my weekly copy of Variety.

Question—In which American picture star do the Europeans seem most interested?

Answer—Joan Crawford.

Question—Why didn't you go to Russia?

Answer—I saw enough misery as it was.

Question—What articles do you regret having written?

Answer—Nine out of ten.

Question—What, to your mind, is the wealthiest nation in Europe?

Answer—France.

Question—Where did you find the best and most hospitable bar on your tour?

Answer—What is a bar?

Question—In what city did you cover the most cafes in one night?

Answer—Budapest.

DOWNTOWN THRONGS CHEER STARS FROM HOLLYWOOD

DECISION NEAR ON RATES BY PEOPLES GAS

Firm Making Survey, Official Says; Cites Revenue Drop

John B. Tonkin, vice president of the Peoples Gas Company, today said that within two weeks his company will announce whether lower rates can be offered the consumers. The company is engaged in a study of the question, he said. He continued:

"If this investigation reveals the possibility of our reducing any of our rates we shall be glad to make the changes effective as quickly as possible. Due to the complexity of our business, and the detailed character of the study which has been necessary, we have not been able to give an immediate answer to those customers who have asked us if a rate reduction is feasible.

"With prices of all kinds dropping rapidly, it may have seemed apparent that natural gas rates should also be reduced. This is not easy for us to do when our profits have shrunk to the vanishing point, when each month shows a decreased volume of business, when collections show a high rate of delinquency, and when a large percentage of the total number of accounts on our books are being handled at an actual loss each month to the company."

Since 1926 the company's sales to industrial consumers have fallen more than 50 per cent, Tonkin revealed.

MISS DORIS M'MANN SINGING FOR CROWDS WHO JAMMED INTO THE HORNE AUDITORIUM TO SEE AND HEAR MEMBERS OF THE PARTY OF FILM PEOPLE BOUND TO THE INAUGURAL

JACK WARNER HEADS MOVIE CELEBRITIES

350 Policemen Have Difficulty Keeping Streets Clear

Hollywood heart thumpers, side splitters and ''brains'' got a great big hand from crowds that jammed donwtown streets today.

The throngs blocked the way of automobiles carrying the stars from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station through the triangle and 350 policemen had difficulty in restraining them. The cars at times had only narrow lanes through which to pass as thousands left the sidewalks to crowd close to the visiting celebrities.

Joe E. Brown, Tom Mix, Bette Davis, Lyle Talbot, Glenda Farrell, George Raft, Leo Carillo, Laura LaPlante, Eleanor Holm, Preston Foster and Claire Dodd scattered roses among their admirers. Thousands greeted them as they left their special train at the Pennsylvania station, and other thousands lined the streets and thronged Horne's Department Store and the William Penn Hotel.

The stars appeared in a public radio broadcast from Horne's auditorium over tSation WCAE, and later were guests of Warner Bros. at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel. All the visitors are Warner Brothers stars enroute to the inauguration in Washington tomorrow.

Jack Warner, one of the producers, and a dozen beauties of the Warner studios also were in the party. Jack Dempsey was scheduled to appear, but it was announced that illness of his mother caused him to leave the train at Chicago and take a plane for Salt Lake City. As the beauties paraded, there were many shouts for Dempsey.

GREETED AT STATION

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar and other city and county officials were members of a reception committee that met the special train at the railroad station. After the parade got under way, the train was opened to the public for an inspection of the kitchen, specially equipped by the General Electric Company.

So eager were the movie fans to see the stars, many carried mirrors which they held above their heads and looked into them to catch beter glimpses of the party.

After the radio broadcast, Joe Brown slipped away with Supt. Walsh to walk from Horne's to the William Penn Hotel. Brown did not board the special train until it reached Homewood Junction, having come from Chicago on another train.

The stars will be guests at a 7 o'clock dinner in the William Penn's Chatterbox. They will appear at the Stanley Theater at 9 o'clock.

The visit was made possible through the co-operation of Warner Brothers and the General Electric Company. The film company was taking this means to announce its latest release, "42nd Street," which opened at the Stanley.

Several of the stars were expected to greet the annual meeting of General Electric dealers which was being held in the Harris Theater by the Ochiltree Electric Company, distributors. The dealers were from Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Consolidation Plans Of Carnegie Led to Frick's Resignation

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

So far as the American public knew, the Frick-Carnegie battle took place in the winter of 1899-1900, a popular belief prevailing that ill feeling engendered by the Homestead strike was the tinder that eventually resulted in a great explosion. Only to a degree is this well founded. There was not one crisis in the relations between Carngie and his partners and Frick; there were three well defined emergencies, any one of which, under ordinary conditions, would have ended in a permanent rupture. The first, that of 1887, has been set forth.

That Frick, as manager, justified Carnegie's foresight, is evident; the circumstance that, on the merger of all the interests in 1892, he became executive head, is a sufficient testimony to success. The Homestead strike, which immediately followed, brought a coolness between the majority owner and the chairman. Carnegie's attitude in this crisis had been correct enough; he had supported his chairman officially and declined, in face of enormous pressure, to supersede him; yet his disapproval of the tactics used was no secret.

The powder had been well laid for the next explosion, which came in the Christmas season, 1894-1895. In this dispute again the merits were not entirely on Carnegie's side. For some time an amalgamation of the Frick Coke Company with W. J. Rainey & Co., one of its largest competitors, had been under discussion. The proposal had never been favored by Frick; he did not like the prospective partner and distrusted him as a possible rival should that gentleman gain admittance into the Carnegie group.

Frick Resigns

Disregarding Frick, Carnegie met Mr. Rainey and seriously discussed an agreement for consolidation, under the terms of which the name of the new concern was to be changed to the Frick-Rainey Company, Rainey executives to obtain important recognition in the merger. Frick's indignation, when the news reached his ears, may be easily understood. Nothing so intimately affected him as the coke company; "every fiber of his being." Carnegie remarked on another occasion, "vibrated" to this, his own creation; and for Carnegie, without his consent, without his knowledge, to plan a revolution in its composition, including a change in name, was a proposal that a lessturbulent nature than Frick's might be expected to resent. The episode of a few years before was repeated. Frick's resignation from the Carnegie company was immediately forthcoming.

Carnegie, ingratiating as was his response, made no offer to abandon his negotiations with the Rainey group. He had not the slightest intention of doing so. The merger did not go into effect, but for other reasons than Frick's opposition. The correspondence continued for a week longer, Frick's letters becoming every day mor: intemperate and insulting.

Carnegie was informed that his behavior was "nonsensical," that his statements were untrue and that he was interfering with matters about which he knew nothing.

Carnegie's tendency to treat Frick as a tired and disagreeable child, and his suggestion for a recuperative trip to Egypt, proved especially annoying—this despite the fact that, in his letter of resignation, Frick had said that he needed "such a rest as is only obtained by almost entire freedom from business cares." Unless Carnegie ceased referring to his physical condition, Frick wrote, "I will take such measures as will convince you that I am fully able to take care of myself in every way."

This sort of thing was rather more than human nature could stand, and Carnegie brought the correspondence to an end in the only possible way.

A Sharp Letter

"New York, N. Y., Jan. 3, 1895.
"My Dear Mr. Frick:

. . . "This is not the first time you have resigned. You came to me and said your own lawyer

West Penn Physician Talks on Sunlight

The advantages and dangers of sunlight were discussed last night in Carnegie Lecture Hall by Dr. Heinz Langer, director of deep therapy and physiotherapy at West Penn Hospital. Dr. Langer declared sun lamps should be used only with the knowledge of an attending physician.

WILL ROGERS SAYS..

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 3.—'Twas a lovely morning, sun shining bright, Arthur Brisbane and the fleet had just returned from somewhere. Orange juice was in every glass. Cameras were oiled and ready to crank on beautiful scream stars. The birds were singing in the eucalyptus trees, the birds were singing why? Because they couldn't read the papers. The papers said the bank clerks had worked so hard lately that they should have a holiday. So as we are all on a holiday, let's take it on the chin and grin. The Rogers, having laid in no supplies against such an emergency, will be living on horse meat, as that's our sole product. I love horses, and I only ask, don't let me know which one we are eating today. I hear they have called a moratorium on inaugurations.

Will Rogers

Yours,
WILL.

COYNE STUDIES INVITATION

Senator James J. Coyne said today that he will not know until Tuesday whether he can accept the invitation of James Rae to attend a mass meeting in Syria Mosque next Thursday, and explain his opposition to the city manager plan of government and election reforms.

Asked if he had received the invitation, he answered:

"All I know about it is what I saw in the newspapers. The invitation must have been mailed to my Pittsburgh office. It did not come to me in Harrisburg where I was until Wednesday night. I didn't go to my office here yesterday."

In inviting the Senator to attend the meeting, Rae referred to the former's recent utterance:

"I am always willing to sit down with any body of citizens interested in the public welfare and discuss matters of public interest."

Our Capital Is Somewhat Agog For Big Parade

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Everything is setting as pretty as an owl on a hen's egg.

The Democrats have oiled the swivel chairs and are ready to take over the government of the people, by the people and what's left of the people.

The parade starts at the Capitol, circles Botanical Gardens and steps hastily by Smithsonian Institution. It will pause at Harvey's famous restaurant for a sigh but no refreshments.

Then it foots by the Treasury building. They can't stop here. They must keep on marching. There will be many a longing glance tossed at the old gold garage.

After that they reach the White House, where there will be speeches, news reels and a reception.

Then somebody will get up and yell, "What! no Mickey Mouse?" and get bopped over the head with a bed slat.

Pick that somebody up gently, brothers, for it will be me.

Reeds Give Dinner To Honor Hoovers

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Hoover last night attended a dinner in their honor by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Reed. White House aides said the occasion was "purely social."

Ohio Man Found Slain Near School

ALLIANCE, O., March 3.—The body of Harry Baker, of Canton, was found late yesterday in a woods near Greenbower school on the Limaville road. His throat and wrists were cut.

DOLAN'S $3,000 BOND POSTED

Tom Dolan, one of the three Toms indicted as proprietors of the Monaca Club, today posted $3,000 bond for trial. The bond was posted at 2 o'clock—two hours before the deadline set by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who had threatened to obtain a warrant for Dolan's arrest.

Dolan's co-defendants, Tom Goslin and Tom Coyne, brother of Senator James J. Coyne, have posted their bonds.

Dolan's bond was on a property at 3406 Fifth avenue, owned by John A. Freyvogel. The property is assessed at $18,800.

Farm and Garden Now Globe-Trotter Topics

Timely talks on garden, poultry and farm problems have become a new weekly feature for radio listeners to the Sun-Telegraph Globe-Trotter each Friday, beginning today on the 12:15 o'clock broadcasts over Stations WCAE and WJAS.

Henry R. Eby, county agricultural agent and director of the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Association, is heard in these discussions. A wide variety of problems will form the subjects. Questions and answers also will be part of the discussions.

Problems confronting the city resident about the lawn, shrubbery and flowers; the city and urban gardener in raising vegetables; the general farmer and the poultry raiser will be answered. Questions are to be mailed to Henry R. Eby, care of Garden and Poultry Department, the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Eby, himself a practical farmer, is a graduate of Penn State College. In charge of the local farm bureau for nearly 11 years, he is thoroughly acquainted with gardening and farming in this district.

ROBBER LOOTS GAS STATION DOWNTOWN

A downtown gasoline filling station was held up at dawn today as police sought a bandit pair who robbed a Wilkinsburg watchmaker and drove off in his automobile after telling him where he would find the machine.

David Meeker, of 3220 Beaconhill avenue, Dormont, was in his fifth robbery early today as a lone robber walked into the Atlantic Refining Company station at 701 Bigelow boulevard, forced Meeker to open a safe and hand over the night's receipts, approximately $40. As he left the station the robber disabled the telephone.

WATCHMAKER ROBBED

Charles E. Watson, of 1008 Coal street, Wilkinsburg, the watchmaker, said the bandits entered his machine at Stanton and North Highland avenues, where he had been stopped by a traffic light.

One of the thugs took the wheel and the other pressed a revolver at Watson's side. During the ride to the park, the pair asked Watson if he was employed. They told him they were out of work and needed the money.

After taking $21 in cash, a watch valued at $40, and a clock and watch tools, the gunmen forced Watson out of the car. One remarked:

"We'll leave your automobile at Paulson avenue and Mayflower street."

Police found that the pair kept their promise. The car was recovered and returned to Watson.

Clyde Hughes, of 4748 Friendship avenue, attendant at the Standard Oil Company service station, Beechwood boulevard and Wilkins avenue, ignored a bandit pair's command to "stick 'em up" and fled from the station last night, police said.

The men asked Hughes for two gallons of gasoline and when he approached them for the money, one whipped out a revolver and ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead, Hughes ran down Wilkins avenue and, the pair, frightened, sped away.

Two armed men early today held up William Reegan, 60, of Braddock ,operator of a Braddock street car, and robbed him of $20 in money and tokens, according to police.

Reegan told police the men boarded his car at Thirteenth street and Talbot avenue, in Braddock, and that while one pointed a gun at him the other searched him. A roll of tokens, his watch and some small change were overlooked, he said.

GAS MIXTURE REPEAL ASKED

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—(INS.)—A double—barreled plan of strategy to hasten enactment of repeal legislation outlawing the statute of 1917 permitting admixture of natural and artificial gas was outlined to International News Service today by D. Glenn Moore, president of the newly-formed Utilities League for Municipalities.

The proposed bill will be introduced in the State Senate next week, he said.

A committee consisting of David I. McAllister, Washington; Robert M. White, New Castle, and Charles H. Stone, of Beaver, is drafting the repealer legislation. Stone is expected to take it to Harrisburg over the week-end and find a sponsor for the bill.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

The body of an unidentified, well-dressed white woman, about 45 years old,, was found in the Ohio River near the Pressed Steel Car Company plant at McKees Rocks today. Morgue attaches said it had been in the water about 12 hours.

The woman wore a gold signet ring with initials, "K. L." on her right hand, a gold cross, a blue polka dot dress, a dark coat with red fox fur on collar and sleeves; low black oxfords, and tan stockings. She was short and weighed about 200 pounds.

New Castle Priest Dies in Auto Plunge

BEAVER, Pa., March 3.—The Rev. Anthony Donalli, of St. Vitus Catholic Church, of New Castle, was killed and two other persons injured when their machine plunged over a 20-foot embankment at West Bridgewater, near here, early today, according to a Coroner's report.

Father Donalli, with Eugene Krah, 23, of Forestville, Butler County, and William Krah, of Ellwood City, an uncle, were en route home from a Catholic rally at Midland when the accident occurred, police said. The latter two were slightly injured.

Jurist Impeachment Articles Presented

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP.)—With solemn formality, five duly designated members of the House of Representatives today presented to the Senate articles of impeachment against Federal Judge Harold Louderback, of California.

Mistakes Police Auto for Own; Fined $10

Because the East End police have an emergency car exactly like the automobile of Boyd Weber, 28, of 2152 Walton avenue, Overbrook, Weber had to pay a $10 fine in Police Court today. Weber was about to drive off with the emergency car, parked beside the East End station house, when Driver Forrest Welton seized him this morning.

Arraigned before Magistrate J. Scott Morgan, Weber explained he had been a member of a bowling party last night and parked his machine in North St. Clair avenue, a block from the police station. He thought the police car was his own, he said, because they are exactly alike.

The Magistrate imposed the fine when Weber admitted he had "a couple of drinks."

TUBE APPROACH BEING CHANGED

County employes today began peeling off the marker-circle in front of the northern entrance to the Liberty tubes—cutting it from 80 feet to 35 feet.

The paring down will permit motorists to shoot straight into and out of the tubes without making a turn to get onto the Liberty bridge, and provide two more lanes on each side of the circle, and one additional lane into Arlington avenue.

A signal system will also be installed.

REFILL FOUR COUNTY JOBS

The County Commissioners, who for economy reasons, dismissed eight women clerks from the transcribing room of the Board for the Revision of Taxes, today had filled four of the positions with other appointees.

George E. Meyers, head of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, stated today that four of the positions had been filled, but he was unable to state just who made the appointments. In dismissing the eight women last week, the Commissioners let it be known that it was an economy move.

Commissioner W. D. Mansfield, when asked about the replacements, said that he had had nothing to do with filling the positions. He declared that he had heard the four jobs were filled, but that he did not know who made the appointments.

Pinchot Blames Road Ruin on Big Trucks

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today charged that heavy trucks are responsible for destruction of rural roads. The Governor said Pennsylvania proposes to lower its legal weight limits to 20,000 pounds gross on four-wheeled trucks; 28,000 pounds on six wheels and 30,000 pounds on combination truck and semi-trailers.

LIBBY LEAVES SON FOR VISIT

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(AP.)—Libby Holman Reynolds left her seven-weeks-old son in the Pennsylvania Hospital yesterday long enough to pay a visit to the estate she leased several months ago near Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Reynolds, widow of Smith Reynolds, has been staying at the hospital, where the heir to part of the Reynolds tobacco fortune is gaining in weight steadily.

The former Broadway singer leased the estate several weeks before she entered the hospital January 10.

Her son was underweight at birth, and since has been kept in a modified incubator.

14-CENT THEFT TRIAL FREES 2

Louis Rech, Jr., 20, of Noble Hill, Sharpsburg, and Richard Gallagher, 21, of 54 Murray street, Sharpsburg, were free today following their acquittal in Criminal Court of larceny of a gallon of gasoline, valued at 14 cents, which they were alleged to have siphoned from a tank of the Sharpsburg Construction Company, Shaler Township, October 2.

The jury, which heard the case before Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose, of Somerset County, placed half the costs on the youths and half on the prosecutor, Elmer Haerich, watchman for the construction company.

It is charged Haerich fired a shot from a revolver which wounded Gallagher in the arm. A charge of aggravated assault and battery against Haerich is listed to come before the grand jury next week.

New Roomer Gone With $300 Hoard

METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Annual Report to the Holders of 42,672,418 Life Insurance Policies

DURING the past year this Company has maintained its strong position in the life insurance field.

Metropolitan's life insurance issued, revived and increased in 1932 amounted to more than Three and a Quarter Billion Dollars.

The income for 1932, the largest in the Company's history, showed an increase over the previous year of $14,859,229.33 and amounted to $921,953,100.70.

The Metropolitan in 1932
—paid to policyholders $562,804,650.79
—added to policy reserves $109,755,306.00
—set aside for dividends to policyholders in 1933, $101,685,956.00
—increased its contingency reserve by $26,550,000.00
—increased its surplus by $13,541,501.95.

The assets of the Company at the end of 1932 were $3,769,372,425.28, an increase of $179,256,771.56 during 1932. New investments made in 1932 amounted to more than $300,000,000 and cash on hand was increased to $64,025,923.35.

After making provision for policy reserves and other liabilities, and after the apportionment of $101,685,956 for dividends, the Company held, on December 31st, 1932, a contingency reserve of $43,000,000, and a surplus of $240,811,739.47—a total of $283,811,739.47.

The strength of a life insurance company lies in the spread of its obligations over a long period of years and in a sound policy of diversification of investment pursued through the years under expert guidance and in accordance with conservative investment limitations prescribed by law.

Metropolitan assets consist of

Cash	1.70%
Bonds—Federal, State and Municipal	7.70%
Bonds—Railroad	18.00%
Bonds—Public Utility	9.03%
Bonds—Miscellaneous	3.28%
Stocks—(Preferred 2.028%; Common 0.002%)	2.03%
Mortgages on Real Estate City 34.42%; Farm 4.38%	38.80%
Real Estate (including foreclosed properties)	2.78%
Loans to Policyholders	12.63%
Premiums, deferred and in course of collection	2.01%
Interest due and accrued, Rents, etc.	2.04%

The favorable mortality experience of the Company in 1932 has followed its careful selection of business and the continuation of its health and welfare activities.

During the year 1932 many leading corporations of the country paid millions of dollars to the Company for contracts covering their employees for Group Life, Health and Accident protection and for future Retirement Incomes under some of which continuing payments on the part of the Metropolitan will extend into the next century.

Life insurance is the most effective way of providing for the future of one's self and one's dependents. Through the Metropolitan approximately one-fifth of the people of the United States and Canada are making such provision.

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Now that Lent is with us once more, even that little entertainment which we seemed to have will be taken away, it's expected.

But Lent is never so dull as it gives promise of being. And since benefits are necessary nowadays, there'll undoubtedly be some during the coming weeks.

Miss Julia Bown Wed at Church Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. C. Elmer Bown, of Wellesley avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Julia Isabelle Bown, to Robert Hood Barth, of Lakewood, O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Miami Visitors

Down at Miami Beach there is gaiety as well as sunshine—perhaps they go together.

A group of Pittsburghers, including the Victor H. Earharts and Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Leslie, were among the guests at the dinner-dance at the exclusive Surf Club there Monday night.

And Mrs. Harper Beegle, of Beaver Falls, was among the high-scoring players at the Surf Club Monday bridge tournament this week.

Mrs. F. N. Beegle, also of Beaver Falls, entertained a party of 60 at the Surf Club Saturday night.

Among the guests at a notable luncheon Mrs. J. Hunter Barton, of Philadelphia, gave at the Surf Club recently were Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. F. N. Beegle.

Epoch Club Discusses Industrial Age Art

Continuing its study of "The Changing World," the Epoch Club took up "Art in An Industrial Age" yesterday morning, meeting with Mrs. Frederick W. Winter, of Beechwood boulevard. A comprehensive paper on "The New Technique in Murals" was presented by Mrs. H. D. James, who illustrated with photographs and a panel of a modern material. Mrs. Frank L. Slocum also illustrated her paper on "Designs for Machine Production," and Mrs. Harold W. Cope completed the program with another interesting contribution, "The Romance of Advertising."

At the next meeting of the club, which will be March 16, in Mrs. A. L. Vencil's home, Briar Cliff road, Dr. L. O. Grondahl, Pittsburgh physicist, will speak on "Modern Trends in Science."

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

A new mink coat anyone will admit is something of a feat in these days of depression. So when Mrs. Harvey Childs, III, blossomed forth in a new mink coat, you can imagine her surprise and disappointment when she read (not in the Sun-Telegraph) that she had appeared in a muskrat coat.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Blair Childs, deserves special mention for her ability to stick to a job. She's one of the few working society women who are faithful to the business world month in and month out.

This charming young society matron is with one of the large department stores.

Louise Reed, who's sitting for Marcella Comes, young Pittsburgh artist, is having trouble recently finding time to pose for her portrait, she's so busy with the fashion show business. She'll be one of the models at the Junior League Fashion Show Tuesday.

Louise is considered a lovely type of the typical American girl by Artist Marcella. We agree with her.

Mrs. William Christopher Hawley, of Edgewood, says that her maternal grandfather's family was one of 30 families that went out from the East to found Galesburg, Ill., and Knox College.

And her great grandmother married George Washington Gale Ferris, the grandfather of the Ferris wheel inventor.

Needlework Exhibits Return to Favor

Exhibits of quilts and needlework are becoming very popular of late with various women's organizations, as a variation of the usual meeting and card party. The Kate Hill Philathia class of the Parnassus United Presbyterian Church, Fifth avenue and Sixth street, New Kensington, is holding a St. Patrick's tea in the lecture room of the church on March 17, from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon and 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

There will be a display of old and modern quilts, needlework and antiques, and a sale of some of the quilts. There will also be a short program.

Lady Howe Sisterhood, No. 311, Dames of Malta, is holding a card party in Oppenheim Collins auditorium at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Brighton Women Hold Pittsburgh Program

Another program on Pittsburgh was enjoyed yesterday by the Brighton Women's Club when the members met with Mrs. H. L. Krause, Morrell street. Mrs. C. N. Rodgers discussed the city's "Diversified Industries" and in a series of five-minute papers the Allied Boards of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce, welfare work, the Buhl Foundation, waterways, the League of Women Voters, the Council of Churches and the Civic Club were treated of.

Metropolitan Opera Adds $50,000 to Fund

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The Metropolitan Opera announced today the August Juilliard Musical Foundation has given $50,000 to the $300,000 guaranty fund for next season.

John Erskine, president of the Juilliard School of Music and of the foundation, said the gift was made on certain conditions, among them that the Metropolitan gives further encouragement to American singers and composers.

Relief Chief Bars Aid to Auto Owners

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 3.—(AP.)—Persons who ride up to Lawrence County relief headquarters in their own automobiles and expect to be given aid will be disappointed. Leaving the car home won't help either. M. B. Hogue, county welfare officer, says applicants for relief who have 1933 automobile license plates will receive no aid this year.

Eastern Star Chapter To Hold Card Party

Mizpah Chapter, No. 49, Order of the Eastern Star, will have a card party at the Oppenheim Collins auditorium on Wednesday afternoon.

SPRING BRINGS REVIVAL OF THE SMART WOOLEN FROCK

THE ARRIVAL of spring always brings with it some new woolen fashions. More often than not, the designer seems to prefer a soft, lightweight — and even sheer — woolen to a silk fabric, except for dresses of distinctly formal character. Weather being what it is, the added warmth of wool fabric is often needed throughout the year; thus it is that many silk dresses are new versions of models that were originally designed in wool.

* * *

THIS YEAR the woolen dresses for spring have, for company, frocks made of the new velvets that look a great deal like wool. At first glance they have the appearance of a light duvetyn; their surface is soft and dull and their texture is that of a woolen fabric.

* * *

ONE OF these new velvets is used for an afternoon dress in honey beige. It is softly draped, with no very definite lines. The blouse follows the curves of the cowl neckline and the sleeves fall loosely off the arms. The only obvious evidence of any shaping is in the placing of the skirt fullness at the center-front.

* * *

THE OTHER dress in the sketch combines brown wool with velvet. The velvet appears at the waistline, on the lower half of the long sleeves and in the ruching that marks the V-shaped neckline.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Happiness of Some Youths Killed by 'Martyr Act'

Is Fred's mama a poor, abused, pathetic soul—or just a good actress?

Fred is sold completely on the "poor, abused" notion, and that notion is raising Cain with his and Stella's romance. So Stella is plenty peeved, especially since she leans heavily toward the actress idea.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wish you would give me some advice. I certainly need it, and I think you're capable of giving it to me—so here I am.

It is one of those cases that you hear about of too much mother—Fred's mother. We have been engaged now for a year and a half. We had planned to get married last June, but she kept drooping more and more as that time drew nearer, and finally, when it arrived, she got sick.

I am sure it was all a put-up job on her part, but, of course, I can't tell him that, even if it is as plain as the nose on your face to me.

Her role is that of the sweet, frail and pathetic mother—a dear, frightened but brave little woman who has had a dreadful time in this rough world. And she has him thoroughly sold on the idea; also on the idea that she will be desolate when she "loses" her only son.

CLAIMS LONELINESS

In reality, she impresses me as being plenty able to care for herself—by means of her "line" and her considerable ability as an actress. So far as I can see, life has been pretty good to her. She was left a widow with enough money so she never had to work, and could live really well, to boot. She never worked a day in her life.

Fred was practically raised in a boys' school, but she managed to kid him that she was "desolate and lonely" when he "had to go" there; and now she has no notion of allowing her life to grow in the least difficult, or finding some other interest besides keeping Fred dancing attendance on her.

I wish someone would tell me how to handle the doting son of a woman who's "just too self-sacrificing and gentle and frail"—to hear her tell it—and who seems, to people not in the know, to be a Lovely Soul, but who, in reality is keeping her only son from being married and making a life of his own.

INTERFERES WITH PLANS

She interferes with everything we do. We plan to go somewhere with friends, and she is so hurt—but don't dream of staying home on her account, sez she, with plenty of pathos. And we don't go.

We plan to go to a show together, and she "just hates to spoil our plans, but she's invited some old friends to meet Sonny." So we don't go.

If I go to her home, she wails pathetically about "losing her only son!" and I know that if we do manage to outwit her and get married, she'll insist on living with us, although she has an income of her own.

Of course, Fred doesn't understand how sly she is. He thinks she "isn't strong" and she's "done so much for him," and so—well what can I do? I'm getting desperate.

STELLA.

Is that a picture of you, Stranger?

Are you hanging onto your boy, strangling his life and wrecking his happiness, by putting on the big martyr act—because you're determined to keep him for yourself?

Or perhaps you're the victim in a situation like that? If so, what did you do about it? And what happened?

If you won out, let's have your story. And if you didn't, let's have it anyway!

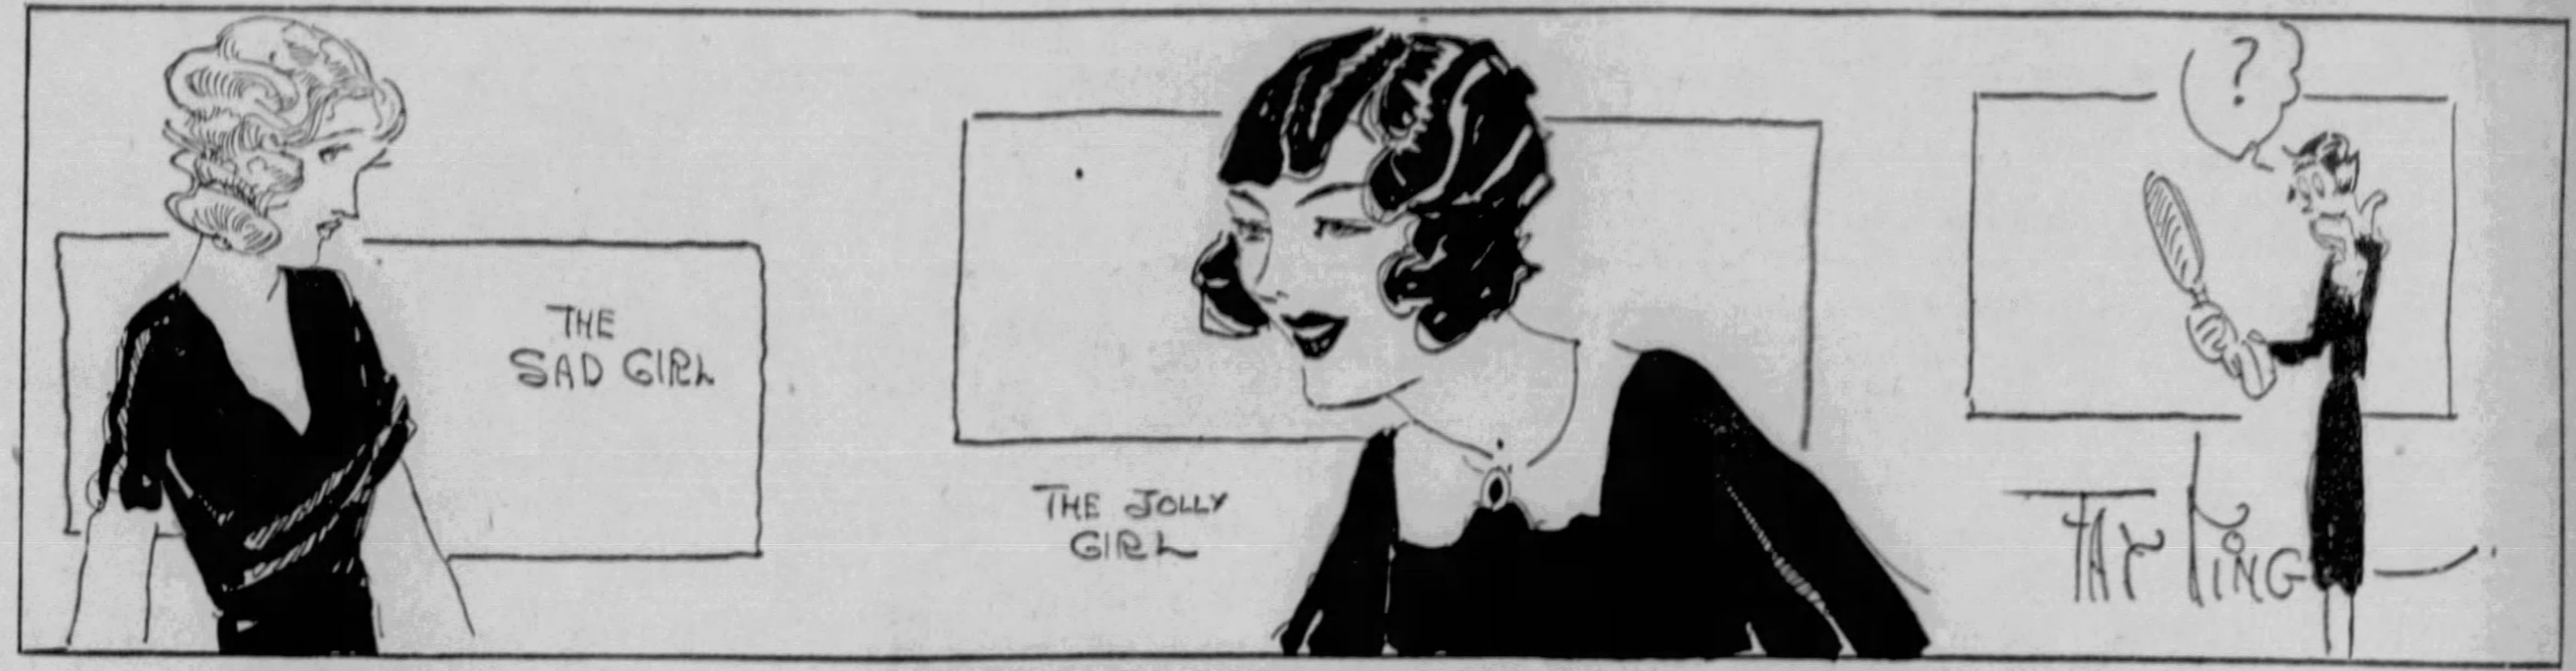
Wistful Expression a Romantic Necessity, Observes Fay King



By FAY KING.

Most of the women I know have a keen sense of humor, but they are clever enough to hide it. For they know that nothing is more fatal than to laugh at the wrong time.

Even the jolly, laughing girl has learned that she must be wistful and sad to inspire romance. For men have a profound interest in the mystery of a woman who is rather unfathomable.

All the wit and mental gymnastics in the world will not interest an admirer half so much as a wistful expression accompanied by a little sigh. All the most renowned portraits of women that men have immortalized in books, poems and paintings have that sweet sadness of expression.

Seriousness inspires, but comedy and jollity are only entertaining.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Ronald Restrained by Devotion to His Mother

Ronald stood erect, almost defiant, for an instant after my father had told him that it was his right to go with the men in the attempt to rescue his sister and Marion from the kidnapers—if he thought he ought. Then he swayed and caught at the back of a chair to steady himself.

"I suppose I see what you mean," he said. "But it is hard—terribly hard—to stay behind. However—"

Harry Underwood, who knew better than any of us how awful was the double burden the boy was carrying in his anxiety for his only and idolized sister, and his remorse for his quarrel with Marion, to whom he had given the first love of his boyish heart, went over to him and put his hand upon Ronald's shaking shoulders.

"Just remember that we all know and understand your full burden, boy," he said tenderly. "But think! Your sister is in terrible danger; your stepfather is missing. If you should go on this expedition, and the worst should happen—a contingency we all must consider—your mother would be absolutely alone. Dare you risk it?"

"You know I dare not," Ronald said unevenly. "But, please, will you go quickly?"

The men turned and went out of the room, and Mary and I stole noiselessly after them. In the kitchen below, from which the Mertons had hastily and tactfully retreated as we came down the stairs, they stopped for last hurried instructions.

JEALOUSY FLARES AGAIN

"Get him back to the hotel as soon as you can," my father advised, "and keep him busy at anything you can invent. Stay at the hotel, and arrange it so that you can be called at any minute. We hope to have good news for you. Now make haste, everybody! Au revoir, Mary." He shook hands with her, then stooped and kissed me.

"Till I see you, my brave, darling girl," he whispered, and I realized that purposely he was omitting that dreaded word, "Good-bye."

Harry and Hugh shook hands with both Mary and me, and, though my hand ached with the strength of Hugh's grip, I gave no sign, only bade both men the same grave adieu with a wish for good luck. And then, suddenly, Dicky and I were alone in the kitchen, and he was clasping me closely and raining down kisses upon my upturned face.

"Tell me," he said huskily, fiercely. "If anything should happen to me out there tonight—promise me you'll never marry that — that — incomparable answer to any woman's prayer—Hugh."

I was clinging frantically to him, trying to steel myself to letting him go into the danger which I knew so well would be his.

"Oh! You don't want to promise," he said, trying to tear himself loose from my embrace.

WILD REBELLION

"You ought to know that I never would marry anybody—Hugh, or any other," I whispered passionately.

"Do you love me?" he demanded, and when I had answered him he crushed me to him, kissed me roughly and then released me on the words:

"Love you! I worship you! Now, remember no matter what happens, you stay at that hotel until I get back. And hurry back there now, as soon as you can."

"All right," I said, with outward meekness. And then he was gone, and so I turned slowly back to the stair, up which I knew I must go to comfort Ronald, my heart was filled with as wild rebellion as I knew was welling up in his.

Ronald was tied because of his duty to his mother; Lillian, by the promise she had made to the same grief-ridden, almost dying woman; and I—because of Dicky's—what? Concern for the children, certainly; I knew that. But I also knew, and rebelled at the knowledge, that jealousy of my association with Hugh Grantland was a strong factor in the ultimatum he had given me.

"Colitis" a Complication of Influenza or Pneumonia

Much has been accomplished in the prevention and treatment of colitis. Numerous textbooks, reports of investigations and articles have been written on this subject.

Yet this disease of the colon is all too common.

"Colitis," as its name implies, is an inflammation of the colon, the large intestine. It was formerly regarded as a nervous disorder, but now it is recognized as a disease caused by an infection. The infection may follow some disease of the breathing apparatus. This may be a common cold, grippe, "flu," or pneumonia. Mucus containing germs is swallowed by the sufferer and in this way it reaches the large intestine.

Let me warn you against the long continued use of laxative drugs and cathartics. Colitis may result from this habit. Excessive use of alcoholic beverages or the eating of irritating foods may be the exciting cause of an attack of colitis.

The sufferer complains of abdominal gas, of pain in the left side of his abdomen. This may be cramplike, and is sometimes so severe as to confuse the physician. The pain is usually relieved by an enema.

Other symptoms are belching of gas or vomiting, loss of appetite, coated tongue, listlessness and headache. In severe cases the sufferer complains of painful and swollen joints. There are likely to be general weakness, tingling or numbness of the feet and hands, hot or cold flashes, faintness, insomnia and backache.

The belief that the trouble really is colitis should be confirmed by X-ray examinations. Too often, vague intestinal disorders may be confused with colitis. Bear in mind that self-diagnosis and self-treatment may prove harmful. Do not take any medicine that has not been prescribed for you by your physician.

Sufferers from colitis should avoid irritating foods. Be careful about eating melons, raw apples, onions, whole wheat, rich pastries, pork, veal, duck, goose and fried foods. Most of these should be omitted from the diet.

The bowel should be cleansed daily by warm irrigations. Never use more than a quart of water at a time, to which should be added a teaspoon of table salt. Constipation can be overcome by the use of agar-agar or mineral oil.

Household Hints

Dates, figs, raisins or currants added to plain bread pudding give a festive air and improved flavor.

Indoor brass is kept bright and clean by scrubbing it in hot, soapy water, to which a few drops of paraffin have been added; a soft brush should always be used for this.

Bran water can be used with good effect for washing cretonnes and embroideries with dark backgrounds. It also acts as a stiffener, and prevents the colors from running.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Mismated eyebrows are a common eyesore, not without an element of humor for the beholder. If the girls must wear their eye scimitars zig-zagged or on a perilous slant, let them be sure to follow the same design for both brows. Beauty shop bosses say that eyebrow weeding has taken on the character of an art, that many a cash customer comes in a-grieving because she has mutilated hers, wants them reorganized, as it were, back to normal.

Distinction of appearance depends more upon posture and carriage than anything else. The costliest robe on a figure that shows a rolling tummy line, hips thrown forward, chest incurved, loses the lines, spirit and smartness that were put into its composition by the designer. The modern girl has a better complexion, more beautiful coiffure, prettier finger nails than her mother had in her young days. But her mother had her beaten seven ways for Sunday when it came to walking, sitting, standing beautifully.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introductions

1—When a lady is being introduced to a group of young people between the ages of 20 to 25, is it proper for her to shake hands, or not?

2—At a party recently I noticed, when introductions were made, one of the girls shook hands with the boys and not with the girls, although the girls were right next to the young men. Is this proper? P.

1—She may if she wishes . . this question of handshaking is such a personal one . . . but, with such a large group it would be better, I think, if she didn't. Usually, as a matter of fact, we don't see people shaking hands very much in acknowledging an introduction, unless it is a special one, or unless the introductions are between men, who always, of course, shake hands when they are introduced to each other. And very seldom do we see a woman shake hands when she is introduced to a group of people.

2—No, this wasn't proper. She should either not have shaken hands with anyone, or with everyone. She must have been a bit "boy conscious," I imagine. I can't think of anything else that would account for this exceptional conduct.

The Hostess

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my 18-year-old daughter introduces her boy acquaintances to me in our home, should I rise and shake hands with them or remain seated?

If I am already acquainted with them, do I rise or remain seated when they enter the room and I greet them? P.

Yes . . . for both cases. You, as the hostess, should always rise when guests enter your home and you are greeting them, whether you are performing the double idea of having them introduced to you and welcoming them at the same time, or whether you are greeting guests that you already know.

And the same thing, incidentally, is true when you, as the hostess, are saying good-bye to your guests. As they rise to go, you rise to shake hands with them and to thank them for coming to your home.

CAMAY THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

-:- PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES -:-

CORNED BEEF—For 6 pounds of beef take 6 tablespoons salt, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salipeter, 6 quarts water. Stir well and pour over beef. Let stand from 48 to 60 hours. Cook in same brine.

* * *

CELERY ROOT BASKET SALAD—Buy celery roots (large) parboil them and cut in shape of baskets, and scallop the edge. Boil beets until soft. Peel and cut into balls with ball cutter.

Set celery-root baskets in oil and vinegar dressing for several hours to flavor them, and beet balls in boiling vinegar, sweetened and spiced to taste.

Fill the drained baskets with the pickled and cooled beet balls. Roll lettuce and cut into shreds and put around the baskets on individual plates.

* * *

MOTHER'S APPLE PIE—Make a crust the same as for custard pie, pare and grate 2 good sized apples, stir in, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs yolks, 3 tablespoons flour.

Milk enough to fill the crust in an ordinary pie tin. Bake until done. Beat the whites of 2 eggs, blend in 4 tablespoons sugar and spread over pie and set back in oven to brown slightly.

* * *

QUICK COFFEE CAKE—2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup butter, 2 eggs, 1-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¾ cup sweet milk.

Sift together dry ingredients and rub together with butter. Beat eggs until very light, add milk and pour over dry ingredients. Stir to a smooth batter. Cover with cinnamon and sugar. Bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

* * *

POTATO CAKE—½ cup butter, 2 cups sugar, 1½ cups flour, 1 cup warm mashed potatoes, ½ cup sweet milk, 3 eggs, 1 square bitter chocolate, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon each, cloves and nutmeg, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup chopped walnuts. Cream butter and sugar, add potatoes, then eggs and melted chocolate, then milk, flour, baking powder and spices, then nuts. Bake in moderate oven.

* * *

HERRING SALAD — To each cup of diced fish, add an equal amount of diced cooked veal, boiled potatoes and raw apple and 1 small onion, and 1 small pickle finely chopped. Mix with vinegar and oil dressing and heap in a symmetrical mound on a flat platter. Insert thin strips of paper radiiwise from the apex. Fill the spaces between alternately with pickled beets and the yolks and whites of hard cooked eggs, all chopped separately. Remove papers, and at the top, place a round of egg with a sprig of parsley and around the base, chopped beets.

* * *

FRICASSEED OYSTERS — 18 large oysters, 2½ tablespoons butter, ¾ tablespoon flour, ¼ pint white stock, ⅛ cup cream, 3 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste, grated nutmeg to taste, 10 small heart-shaped slices of fried bread.

Open oysters, preserve liquor. Remove beards. Put oysters in stew pan with one tablespoon butter and a little oyster liquor. Season with a pinch of salt and pepper and grated nutmeg. Melt the remaining butter in a stew pan. Stir in the flour. Cook slightly without browning and dilute the liquor from the oysters and the stock. Stir until it boils. Simmer for about ten minutes. Then add the cream, the yolk of the eggs and the lemon juice and stir the mixture over the fire for a few seconds longer to bind the yolks. Strain sauce through fine sieve. Heat thoroughly, but do not let it boil. Serve on hot dish, garnish with the fried golden brown hearts of bread and few sprigs of parsley. Serves six.

* * *

DOUGHNUTS—8 cups flour, 1 cup sugar, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 teaspoons mace, 3 teaspoons shortening, 2 cups milk.

Reserve one cup flour for the board, sift remaining flour with baking powder three times and set aside. Cream shortening, sugar, salt and mace, add milk and stir, then add the flour mixture. Work into soft dough and roll on floured board into sheet one-fourth inch thick. Cut out doughnuts and fry in deep fat, turning them frequently. Doughnuts should reach a golden brown color in about three minutes. While hot, roll in sugar. Makes about five dozen.

* * *

FILLED NOODLE PUDDING—2 boxes bread noodles, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, ¼ pound poppyseed (ground), ½ cup walnuts, ½ pound preserve or prunes (cooked and chopped fine), ½ cup butter.

Boil noodles until soft in salted water, then drain and stir the eggs (unbeaten) into the hot noodles as well as the sugar and butter. After thoroughly mixing, separate the noodles into four parts. Grease a baking pan well, sides and bottom. Put one portion of the noodles into the pan, add ground poppyseed, also add about ½ cup sugar, dot with butter, then cover with another layer of noodles, then the ground walnuts, which must also be sweetened and dotted with butter, add another layer of noodles, then layer of plum preserve, cover this with the last layer of noodles and bake until a golden brown. Remove from pan and slice to serve.

* * *

WHITE SEA FOAM CANDY—2 cups of sugar, ½ cup boiling water, 1 cup fruit (raisins, lemon or orange peel, citron), 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Boil sugar and water until it forms a firm ball when tried in cold water. Remove from fire add vanilla and pour slowly on stiffly beaten white of egg. Beat until thick and creamy, then add fruit and drop from spoon on butter plates.

* * *

LENTIL SOUP—2 quarts water, 1 ham-end bone (no fat), 1 large onion, 2 carrots, 2 potatoes, 1 stalk celery, 1 cup soaked lentils, 2 or 3 frankfurters.

Put ham bone on to boil with lentils. After first hour add carrots, onion and celery cut up. Boil about 2½ hours, then add diced potatoes. When ready to cut frankfurters in thin slices and make egg dumplings last.

EGG DUMPLINGS

Beat 1 egg, add 1 tablespoon warm water, gradually add flour with salt and dash of nutmeg. Have the batter thin and drop by spoonfuls in boiling soup.

* * *

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLE — 2½ squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, melted; 3 tablespoons flour, ⅓ cup sugar, 3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored, 3 egg whites stiffly beaten.

Add chocolate to milk in double boiler and heat. When chocolate is melted beat with rotary egg beater until blended. Blend butter and flour, add the chocolate mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Remove from fire Combine sugar and egg yolks Add chocolate mixture slowly, stirring vigorously. Cool. Fold in egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes, or until souffle is firm. Serve with marshmallow mint sauce. Serves eight.

Well-Baked Pies and Cakes Thoroughly Digestible

Substance, Heat and Energy Provided by These Toothsome Foods, Which Should Be Included in the Diet

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Ph. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

How often have you heard people say, "Cakes and pies are indigestible"? Contrary to the common belief, this statement is not founded on fact. It is true only if you eat too much or eat too hastily.

When properly baked, pies and cakes are easily digested. A piece of pie or cake at the end of a meal gives a feeling of satisfaction and bodily pleasure. This sensation aids in the digestion of the meal.

Food that is wholesome and attractive and eaten with relish, stimulates the secretion of the digestive juices. These juices are essential to proper digestion. When they are absent or deficient in quantity "biliousness," heartburn or indigestion occur.

The evid that may follow the consumption of pies and cakes is not in the food itself, but, as I have said, in their hasty eating. Hurried eating of any food will lead to digestive disturbances. In moderation and when properly chewed, no ill effects should follow.

WHOLESOME INGREDIENTS

Of course certain persons cannot eat pie or cake because of some definite stomach disorder. Each individual must decide for himself what foods agree with him. If pies and cakes continually disagree, certainly it is wise that they should be omitted from your diet. But if temperately and properly eaten there are few persons who will need to shun them.

The ingredients of pie and cake are wholesome and nourishing. Wheat flour is the chief product used in the making of cake and pie. Sugar, flour, flavoring essences, butter or other shortening, eggs, milk or cream, baking powder, and fruit and nuts, are the chief articles used in making them.

These ingredients contain important substances which are necessary for the normal growth of the body. For example, the sugar gives heat and energy to the body. The butter gives fat, and the eggs supply necessary proteins. Valuable vitamins and minerals are supplied by the other ingredients.

FOOD VALUE

Cakes are baked in various sizes and shapes. They are eaten plain, in layers, or filled with jelly, marmalade, fruit or nuts and covered with icing. No one will deny the wholesome and nutritious value of all these articles.

The filling of pies is usually fruit, custard, cream mixture, or mince meat. The food value depends upon the kind of filler used. There can be no doubt that the food value of apple, squash and mince pies is unusually high.

In what I have said I do not mean to imply that pies and cakes are to be eaten at each meal. But they should be accepted as foods which give substance, heat and energy to the body. They should be included in the diet and regarded as an important part of the well-balanced menu.

PONSELLE, TIBBETT CONCERT -:- Pre-Inaugural Programs, Mrs. Roosevelt's Farewell -:- ON THE AIR TONIGHT

Radio Brings Jack Benny, Gershwin

Heralding the ceremonies at which Franklin D. Roosevelt will be sworn in as the President of the United States tomorrow, three pre-inaugural programs are listed on the air tonight.

A pre-inaugural concert, originating in Washington and featuring Rosa Ponselle, Lawrence Tibbett and Efrem Zimbalist, is to be broadcast to all parts of the world at 8:30 p. m. over a coast-to-coast NBC-WEAF network, including WCAE, and short wave facilities. The performance is given in Constitution Hall, where boxes have been reserved for both President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt.

At 9:30 on the same chain the next "First Lady" bids her radio listeners farewell, concluding a series of talks in behalf of charity and relief projects. The series previously had been scheduled to end February 24.

The background of the Roosevelt cabinet is reviewed in dramatized form on the eve of the inauguration when "March of Time" goes on the air over CBS-WJAS at 8:30 p. m. Other reenactments include developments in the Sino-Japanese War and the recent aviation murder at San Benito, Tex.

George Gershwin, brilliant young composer, tells the story leading up to his creation of "Rhapsody in Blue," as Edwin C. Hill's "Inside Story" guest on WJAS at 9:30. Gershwin also plays several selections.

On Air

Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera soprano, who sings from Washington over WCAE at 8:30. Lawrence Tibbett and Efrem Zimbalist also are heard.

Farm, Garden Radio Talks Launched

Timely talks on garden, poultry and farm problems become a new weekly feature for Globe-Trotter listeners beginning today at 12:15 p. m. They will be given each Friday at the same hour by Henry R. Eby, county agricultural agent and director of the Allegheny County Agricultural Extension Association, whose articles appear each Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph.

Due to all-day Inaugural broadcasts on NBC and CBS networks tomorrow, Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, will be on the air twice only—at 9:05 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. over WCAE.

Mr. Kaufmann's broadcasts today are scheduled on WCAE and WJAS at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m., his 2:15 period having been canceled in deference to network programs on both stations.

James J. Long, sports columnist of the Sun-Telegraph, gives a complete review of national and local sports activities during his weekly talk from the studios of WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

A special program for children is presented under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum, on WCAE today at 4:30 p. m.

'Fall Gal' Drama On 4 Stations

"The 'Fall' Gal," a dramatization of a young girl's story of a gangster's "ride" as told in the next issue of the American Weekly, is presented on WHBC, Canton, O., at 2 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, O., at 3 p. m.; WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., at 5:15 p. m., and WJAC, Johnstown, at 9:45 p. m.

The American Weekly is distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

Inauguration On Network Tomorrow

Radio's magic will add more than 100,000,000 men and women in every corner of the globe—from Capetown, South Africa, to Auckland, New Zealand—to Washington's Inauguration Day audience tomorrow.

The most elaborate radio set-up in history has been arranged to send a complete and colorful word picture of the Roosevelt Inaugural ceremonies, and the events preceding and following it, over the air.

NBC's two Pittsburgh outlets, WCAE and KDKA, and the local Columbia outlet, WJAS, will pick up the entire broadcast, beginning at 9 a. m., and continuing until 4:30 p. m. The schedule will be approximately as follows:

9:00 a. m., CBS, Preview of day's proceedings.

9:30 a. m., NBC, radio swing around capital.

10:45 a. m., NBC-CBS, trip to White House.

11:30 a. m., NBC-CBS, Vice Presidential Inauguration.

12:15 p. m., NBC-CBS, Presidential Inauguration.

1:15 p. m., CBS, music by United States service bands.

1:45 p. m., CBS, talk by John B. Kennedy, comparing current inauguration with previous ones.

2:00 p. m., NBC-CBS, Inaugural Parade.

A broadcast from the inaugural Ball is scheduled on CBS at 10 p. m., with NBC picking up at 11:30 p. m.

Announcers, reporters and political commentators who will assist in the day-long broadcasts are Floyd Gibbons, Graham McNamee, William Hard, David Lawrence, Charles Francis Coe, Eddie Dowling, Edwin C. Hill, Frederic William Wile, Boake Carter, H. V. Kaltenborn, Ted Husing and Norman Brokenshire.

Isabelle Leighton, authoress and friend of the Roosevelts, will be heard in four periods throughout the day on CBS.

WANTED . . . FOUR SUPPORTS!

Imagine trying to eat a meal at a two-legged table, on a two-legged chair! Something would be lacking—balance! Chairs and tables need four-square support for firm balance. So do radio tubes. And Eveready Raytheon Tubes are the only tubes with 4-pillar support.

IN A big majority of cases, the cause of poor reception, noises, uneven tone, is—defective tubes! The jolts and jars to which they have been subjected, the constant vibration of the dynamic speaker, have upset the delicate balance of their vital elements—due to lack of proper support!

Eveready Raytheon Tubes have 4-pillar support—for protection against tube damage through knocks and vibration. Eveready Raytheons are the only tubes on the market with patented four-pillar protection. All other tubes have only two pillars.

You pay no more for Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes. And in the long run you save—on accurate performance, long life. Insure the pleasure you get from your radio. Equip it with Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes! Your dealer will demonstrate.

First Russian Broadcast Next Week

By AIRCASTER

The first program from Russia arranged for American ears is due next week. But Stalin won't be in it . . . The first program series stressing sex appeal and seeking to capitalize the lure of the Greta Garbo and Mae West movies has been accepted by one of the networks and is being readied for the mike.

An NBC net will air the grand national steeplechase from Aintree, England, Friday, March 24, at 10 a. m. . . . R. C. Lyle, BBC sports announcer, whose excited comment, "This is a hell of a race!" was heard all over the world last year, again will be at the mike. . . .

The Metropolitan Opera season on the air will close with the NBC pickup of "Tristan and Isolde" Sunday, March 11.

Ethel Barrymore will make one of her rare mike appearances Friday, March 10, when she replaces Ely Culbertson on the CBS "Inside Story" broadcast.

The magic carpet will return to police department cases for its Tuesday night dramatizations next week, with Barry Rudd, the smart "dick," catching the culprits.

Goodman Ace, author of the "Easy Aces" scripts, is maintaining a determined air of secrecy about his new plot development. His only assertion is that it will be a wide departure from the past trend of events in the lives of the Aces—a trend in which the underworld meets the upperworld under conditions not exactly comforting to either. It starts to unfold Tuesday.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Girls, here is news. Aliquippa is staging the handsomest man contest. Inside information seems to indicate that the two foremost contenders are Broadway Sam and Our Bill. 'Tis said that the police are backing Our Bill and he'll need plenty of it, says Broadway Sam's campaign manager.

* * *

Jules, do you feel embarrassed? You made statements that the $1,200 answer to the recently printed problem is absolutely wrong and on top of that say that Jim might know his onions but not his numbers, then boastfully announcing $800 is positively right. That Wilkinsburg school lass and a host of others gave $400 as correct. You're not any better than I am.

* * *

Lou Genevieve Pessanel has sent me a list of Chinese and Japanese words and their phonetic pronunciations. I can take a hint. Thanks, Lou Genevieve.

* * *

Mrs. Poyntz, of West Liberty avenue, points out to the Globe Trotter that it is incorrect while mentioning the inaugural proceedings to say President Roosevelt goes down Pennsylvania avenue because he is not the President 'till he comes up Pennsylvania avenue after the oath is administered. A fine point, but well taken.

Mrs. McGuire—A reliable witness visiting in the city from Washington states that the cherry trees are budded already and the gorgeous bloom is expected before Easter.

MAKES dishes GLEAM

● To make your dishes gleam and sparkle like new, add a teaspoon of Climalene to your dishwater... Climalene softens hard water. But more than that... it gives water the power to dissolve grease. Thus you do your dishes in soft, lasting suds with 1/4 the soap in 1/2 the time or less. And your hands stay soft and smooth. It makes clothes snowy white, too. Get Climalene from your grocer today. He has it in the bright, shiny blue box in two sizes, 12 oz. for 10c and 32 oz. for 25c. The Climalene Company, Canton, Ohio.

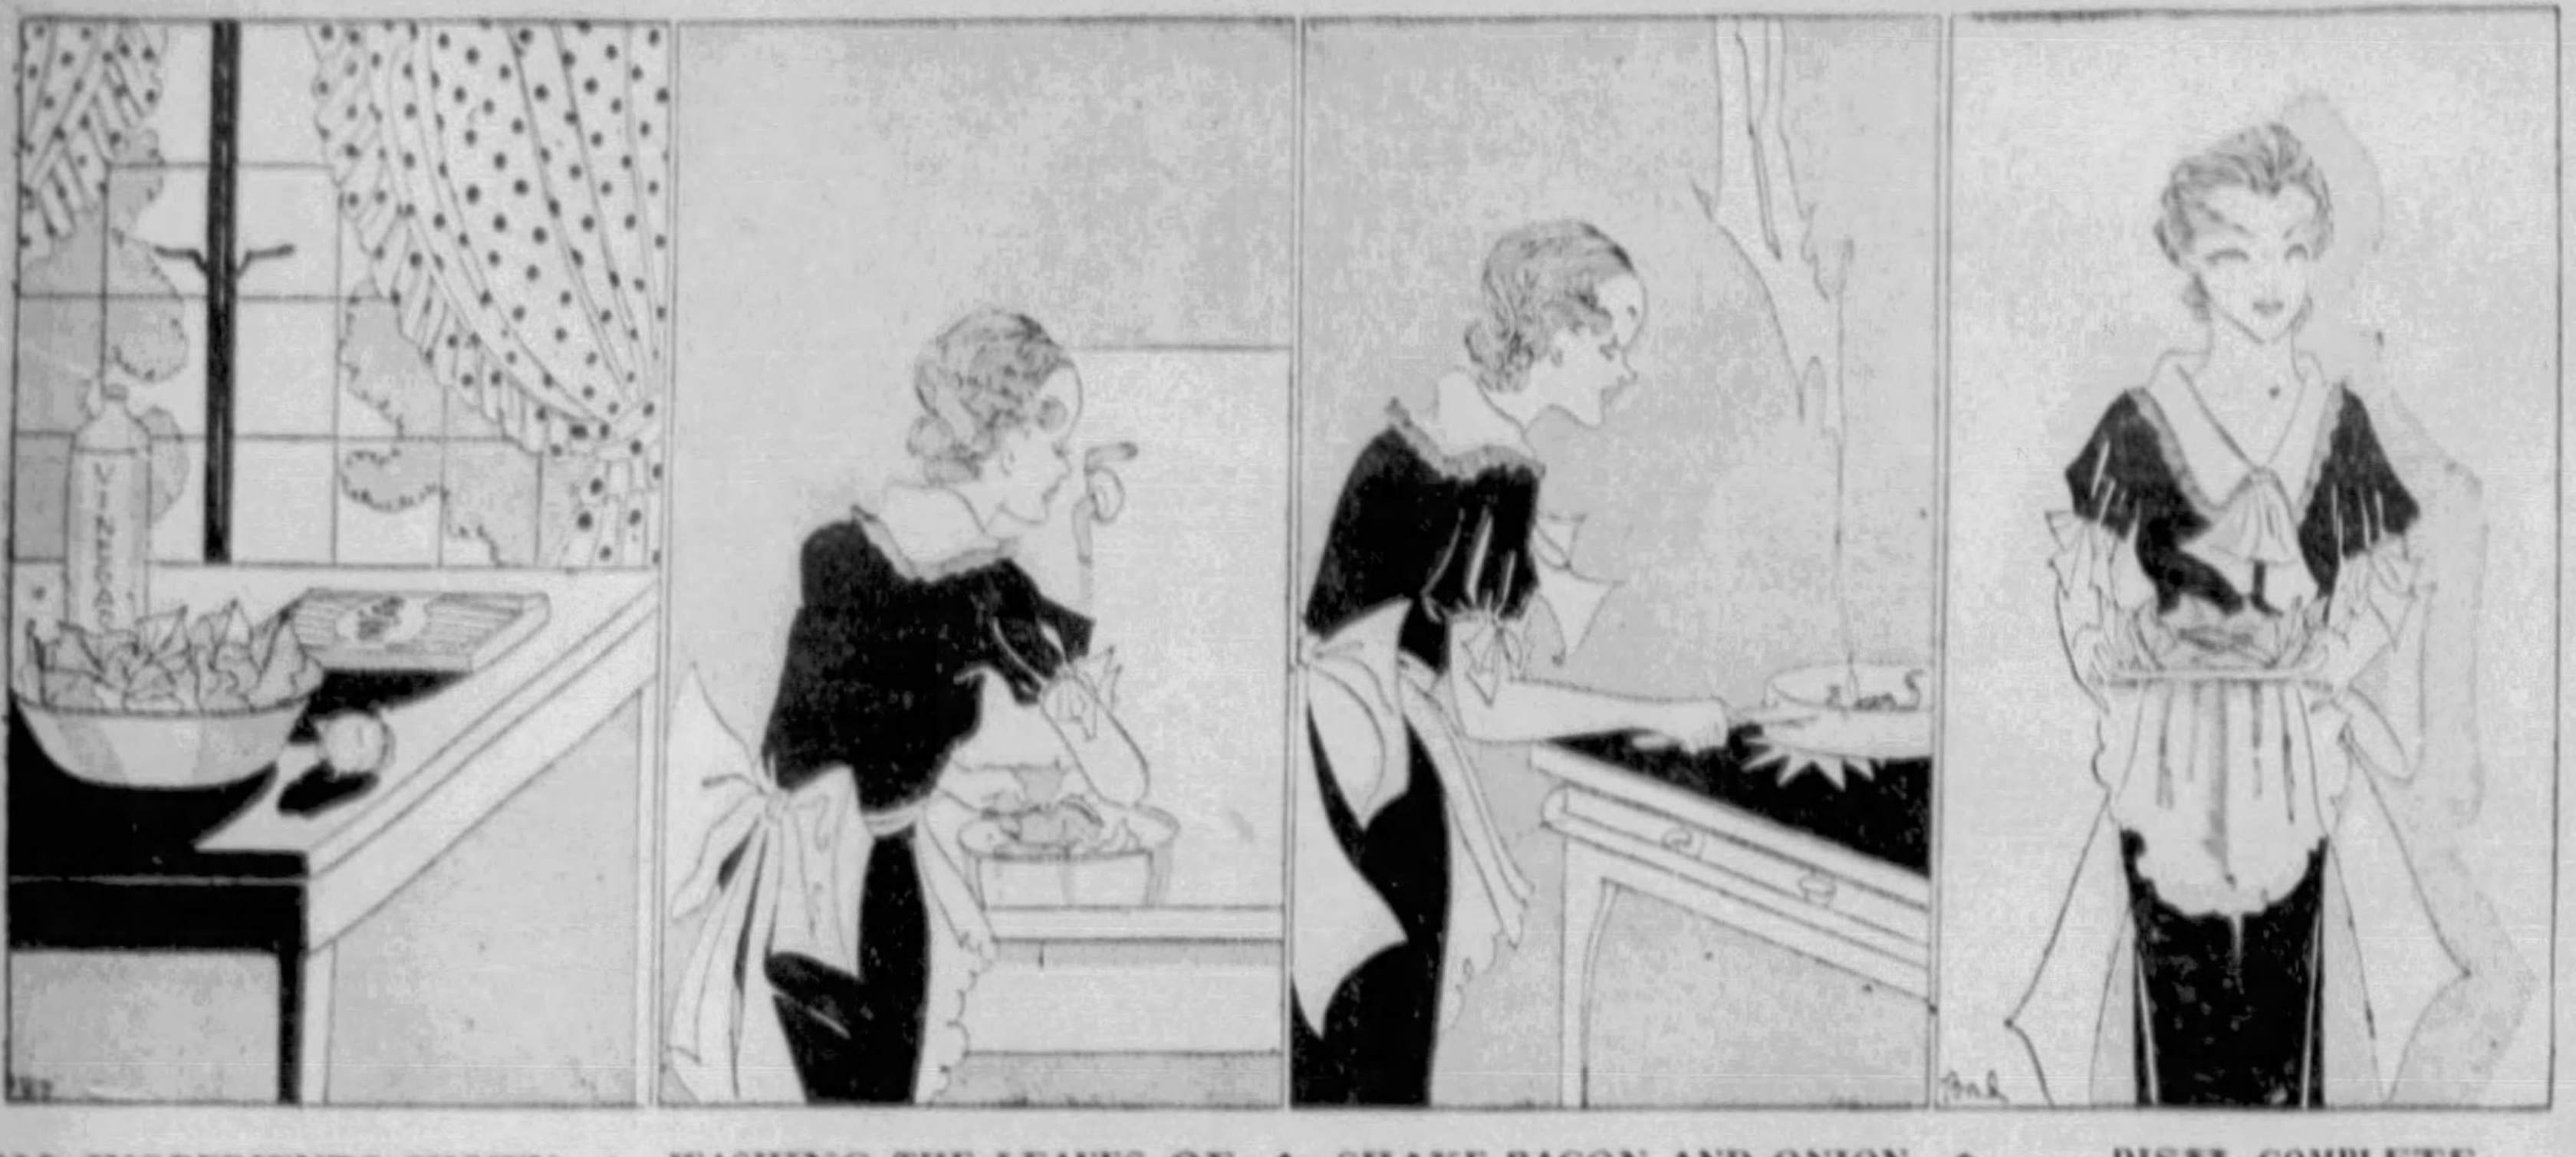
Tasty Lettuce Supper Dish That Is Easy to Fix



ALL INGREDIENTS SHOWN • WASHING THE LEAVES OF LETTUCE • SHAKE BACON AND ONION IN THE FRYING PAN • DISH COMPLETE

If you are fond of lettuce try it this way. This supper suggestion will perhaps appeal to you one of these nights when you don't want to spend much time fussing about in the kitchen.

A medium-sized panful of lettuce leaves, 6 thin slices of bacon, 1 small onion, 1 cup vinegar.

Directions—Wash the lettuce carefully, leaf by leaf, and cut or pull into small pieces. Then cut each slice of bacon into six pieces. Put these pieces of bacon into a medium-sized frying pan and brown carefully over a low flame. If you like the flavor of onion cut up a small one very finely and brown it slowly with the bacon. Toss bacon and onion around in pan from time to time until browned carefully and then pour on the cup of vinegar. Let the vinegar heat slowly, meantime arranging the washed, dried and cut up lettuce leaves in serving dish. Then pour on the boiling hot vinegar with the browned pieces of bacon and onion and serve immediately with boiled new potatoes which have been sprinkled with paprika.

LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE

had decided men were right. I had difficulty getting your shareholders to take you back. I put you back and you knew it.

"Well, you resign again and I have tried my best to be your friend again. It is simply ridiculous, my dear Mr. Frick, that any full-grown man is not to make the acquaintance of Mr. Rainey, or anybody else, without your august permission—really laughable—but I did not do it till you had given approval.

"No use corresponding any more. You are determined to resign. All right. I am forced to agree that the work of the Carnegie Steel Company and the Frick Coke Company is too much for any man. You shall withdraw quietly, and if you wish it I shall co-operate with you and back you and indorse with you for the Frick Coke Company just as I have hitherto.

"No one values you more highly as a partner, but as for being czar and expecting a man shall not differ with you and criticize you, no. Find a slave elsewhere. I can only be a man and a friend.

"Your friend still,
"ANDREW CARNEGIE."

In this manner Henry Clay Frick ceased to be the chief executive officer of the Carnegie Steel Company. That his administration came to an end in January, 1895, is a truth not generally appreciated. His incumbency had been a short one. From July, 1892, to January, 1895, is two a half years, and that brief period represents the time Frick held the premiership of the combined Carnegie properties.

Leishman Succeeds

Mr. J. G. A. Leishman succeeded to the vacancy and, two years afterward, Charles M. Schwab became generalissimo. When Frick resigned the chairmanship he was the owner of eleven per cent. of Carnegie stock. In keeping with the new order, five per cent. of Frick's interest was transferred to Mr. Leishman, and from this time forward Frick never held more than six per cent. The change did not leave him without occupation. The Frick Coke Company, the cause of the latest trouble and the particular darling of Frick's attentions, offered scope in plenty for the man's abounding energies. That he would limit his activities, in future, to that corporation, was taken for granted. What had come to be known as the Frick problem was apparently solved.

The absolute separation of Frick from the Carnegie company, however was not so simple an operation as it seemed. Carnegie individually, and the Carnegie company, owned a majority interest and the affairs of the two concerns were closely interwoven, a relationship that kept Frick a member of the family. Despite the sincerest efforts of Carnegie and Frick to part, a kind of indissoluble alliance persisted between them. They might separate, but the logic of the situation would bring them together again. Let Carnegie's memorandum take up the story.

A New Office

"In the autumn of 1894 Mr. Frick yielded to his second great outburst of passion. For reasons which were considered imperative for the interests of the concern the Board of Managers deposed him from the Chairmanship. Mr. Leishman was elected his successor. After this action was taken by the Board Mr Frick came to me, dejected, haggard, penitent and in sore distress. He asked me if I could not get my partners to create for him a nominal office, Chairman of the Board of Directors, to save him from humiliation. . ."

Carnegie granted the request, but one of his greatest regrets, subsequently was that he did not let this absolute resignation of Frick stand. Had he done so, the decision would have been best for all concerned. The knowledge of Frick's ambitious nature, which he had obtained by this time, should have taught him that such a compromise would not succeed. This dual arrangement has become a popular one in recent years, but the chairmanship of the board is now usually a gracious way of elevating a superannuated gentleman to the retired list.

Frick, at the time he was promoted to such an empty throne, was not a veteran; he was forty-six years old, a marvel of energy and a man of boundless aspirations. To expect that he would be content with his restricted duties—that of presiding at meetings and generally bestowing "advice"—was to expect something that could not be.

Frick made an excellent presiding officer and his contributions to debate were always pointed, but he did not limit his participation to this narrow field. He was continuously reaching out for authority, and steadily increasing it. The result was that, for the next six years, the Carnegie Steel Company had a kind of dual head, the chairman and the president.

Intimate Friends

Mr. Leishman and Mr. Schwab, who successively filled the latter role, were men almost as energetic and determined as Frick himself, and extremely jealous of their prerogatives. Constant friction was the outcome. In most departments Frick did play an active hand, and in the development of the period he was an important, though by no means the predominating, influence. His equivocal position, however, always made him uneasy and irritable, and more than once he impatiently sought to have the Presidency abolished and exclusive power vested in himself an object that was never attained.

One pleasant phase of this era is that Frick's personal relations with Carnegie for a few brief hours improved, after 1895 an intimate touch appearing in their letters not observable before, and the Fricks occasionally became guests of the Carnegies in Scotland.

Frick now and then writes exultingly over the acquisition of a new picture, and the two exchanged views on current happenings, such as the Bryan campaign and the Spanish War. The birth of Carnegie's daughter, in 1897, gave the men a bond they had not previously had.

Frick's tenderest side was his love of children; the death of his daughter Martha, a child of 6, was a pang that never left him. Carnegie would now write about the doings of his Margaret and Frick would respond with anecdotes of his Helen.

This friendly note, however proved to be only a charming interlude. As Frick grew older he became more autocratic; his shortcomings more and more interfered with the harmony of the staff, while the rapid progress of other men, particularly the rising star of Schwab, added to his unhappiness.

Have You the Room I Want?

I am a stranger in Pittsburgh. I just arrived. Many are coming "in" NOW. I want to be near my work, but in a pleasant location, I want a homelike room with nice people. I am only one of hundreds of young men that want the same.

I do not know your street names so I shop up and down the Sun-Telegraph "To Rent—Rooms" advertisements—not up and down the street for signs. You probably have just the room I am looking for. Won't you help me to find your room by advertising it in the "To Rent—Room" want ads of the Sun-Telegraph. Phone GRant 5400.

TWO NEW PLOTS FOR THRIFT GARDENS

Two new tracts of land for thrift gardening have been obtained by the Pittsburgh Community Council in co-operation with the Thrift Garden Committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Committee, it was announced today.

The 40-acre Chess Farm on Noblestown road, three miles from the West End-North Side Bridge, will be plowed within a week. The land will accomodate North Siders. Application for land on the site must be made before March 15 with the Brighton-Woods Community Council, 1127 Woods Run avenue or Manchester Community Council, 1522 Chateau street.

A second 40-acre tract on the Leech Farm will be plowed within a week. Strip or Lawrenceville residents may obtain plots by aplying to the Strip-Lawrenceville Community Council, 2817 Liberty avenue.

Corduroy Pants Trap Railroader As Thief

ERIE, Pa., March 3.—(INS.)—If Bill Owens hadn't worn corduroy trousers, his mother might not have found out today that he was discharged by the New York Central railroad over a month ago.

Police found the marks of corduroy trousers in the snow on the window ledge of a robbed confectionery. They arrested Bill, wearing corduroy trousers.

Police said Bill told them he was fired over a month ago and, afraid to tell his mother the truth, he told her he was only laid off for a month.

At the end of the month, he resumed getting up at 4 a. m. as if to make his run. He loafed about town. Then "payday" came. So he robbed the confectionery of $100 to obtain his "pay."

Giant Thermometer World Fair Feature

CHICAGO, March 3.—At the World's Fair visitors wil see something they never saw before—a 200-foot monument, with a thermometer so large temperature will be visible from almost any place on the grounds.

5 IN BAY RUM CASE HELD

BUTLER, Pa., March 3.—Five store managers arrested here Monday in a raid by county and state authorities as dispensers of bay rum, were held for court under $500 bail each, charged with violating the Snyder act. They were arraigned for preliminary hearings before Alderman S. H. Davy.

Those held included H. G. Patterson, of the McCrory Five and Ten Cent Store; Paul W. Dane, of the W. T. Grant Company; Herbert L. Chapman, of the S. S. Kresge Company; James Pool, of the United Cigar store, and David W. Arndt, of the Woolworth Company.

Patterson waived hearing for court. The others were given hearings.

Plan 2,000 Acres For Relief Gardens

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—A total of 2,000 acres will be planted in relief gardens in Washington County during the spring and summer, some of the plots twice, it is estimated by the Washington County Relief Gardens Committee, which co-operates with the Poor Directors. Contracts awarded for seed and fertilizer totaled $14,382.50. Local firms or agents received all contracts except one for seed which went to Francis C. Stokes Company, Philadelphia, at $3,930.

It is expected that a total of 12,000 gardens will be planted.

SUNDAY SHOW WILL AID COX

The offer of the management of the Brushton Theater to give a food benefit show for Father Cox next Sunday came at an opportune time—just when Father Cox needs it most. The unfortunate feature about the offer is the small capacity of the theater, because Manager Goldberg was successful in securing a dandy picture as the feature—"The Night Mayor"—with Lee Tracy as the star. Movie fans will come many miles to see this picture.

No cash will be accepted at the door—donations of food are the only requirement for admission. Father Cox expects all that attend will be liberal. He hopes that the children will bring no less than 15 cents' worth of canned goods or package groceries and that the grown-ups will bring twice that much. Many, of course, will bring much more.

Father Cox was on the air again yesterday and, as usual, his broadcast brought a flood of subscriptions to the Sun-Telegraph. It looks as though this is going to be the banner week in this drive. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page or by telephone, with the request that Father Cox be given credit for it, brings him a liberal cash commission for his fund for the relief of the destitute.

Mrs. Miller to Talk on City Manager Plan

Mrs. J. O. Miller, chairman of the county government committee of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, will address the members of the Thirty-first Ward Civic and Welfare League tonight in Mifflin School. Her son, Julian Miller, will address a meeting of the Presbyterian Church Adult Bible Class, Sarah and South Twentieth streets. Both addresses will be in the interests of the city manager plan for Pittsburgh.

Ohio Switch Firm To Go on Full Time

ALLIANCE, O., March 3.—Announcement was made today that the American Electric Switch Corporation, of Minerva, will resume operations in full time Monday.

Approximately 60 employes will return to work. This was brought about by the raising of $60,000 to keep the plant in operation in Minerva.

Seek Farmer's Foes After Three Fires

MERCER, Pa., March 3.—Mercer County authorities have doubled their efforts to round up enemies of George Mowry, farmer of near New Hamburg. Mowry's house was destroyed by fire at Christmas and later a barn nearly destroyed. Yesterday, Mowry's new home, under construction, was fired.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Planning the Play

Even apparently lay-down hands should be played with care. There is no greater truth in Bridge than that so frequently expressed that the Declarer, before playing a card from Dummy, should determine, in a general manner, the method by which he will play his hand. The hand below, in which a Small Slam contract was reached, is apparently a lay-down, but actually there were pitfalls which the Declarer, by careful play, avoided.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

North:
♠ 8 6
♡ J 8
◇ A Q 6 5
♣ K Q 8 7 4

West:
♠ Q 7 3 2
♡ K 9 3
◇ J 10 9
♣ J 6 5

East:
♠ J 9 4
♡ Q 10 7 6 4
◇ K 7 4 3 2

South:
♠ A K 10 5
♡ A 5 2
◇ 8
♣ A 10 9 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	3 ♣ (1)	Pass
3 ♠ (2)	Pass	4 ◇ (3)	Pass
6 ♣ (4)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—The correct bid. North does not wish to raise the contract beyond a notrump game, and at this stage it would be foolish to show the diamond suit, which is only four cards in length, when he holds such magnificent support for his partner.

2—South shows his other biddable suit, in view of the fact that he knows the hand can safely be played for game at clubs.

3—This bid is in the nature of a Slam try. Of course, North knows that the bidding will not die, although neither player has forced, and the information in regard to the diamond suit may prove the key to a safe Slam bid.

4—South might possibly have bid five notrump at this point, showing three Aces and the King of a bid suit, but he had a slight fear that the partnership might reach an unmakable Grand Slam, as, outside of his top cards, the hand did not have a great wealth of playing tricks.

The Openig lead was the diamond Knave, which, of course, was won with the Ace. The hand, apparently is a lay-down, particularly if the adverse clubs are not all located in one hand. If either adversary holds three clubs, there is a slight danger, as three ruffs must be obtained in Dummy. In order to test the trump situation, the Declarer led the King of clubs and found that East held none. The drawing of the trumps had to be temporarily abandoned until some of the losers were ruffed; so the Ace and King of spades were taken, followed by a low spade, which was ruffed in the Dummy. South then returned to his own hand by trumping a diamond and led his last spade, and, when West played the Queen, did not ruff, but discarded a heart. West continued with another round of clubs, which was won by South, and the Ace of hearts led, followed by another heart, which was ruffed in the Dummy. Now the contract was safe if West originally held as many as three diamonds. A diamond was led and trumped with a low trump, and the last heart led and ruffed in the Dummy. Dummy's last diamond was ruffed with the Ace, and while West still had a trump remaining, he could not make it.

The reader will observe that the contract could not have been made if South had elected to draw the adverse trumps immediately.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Will you please give the correct bidding of these hands?

North, Dealer.

North:
♠ A J 7
◇ A Q J 3
♣ A J 9

South:
♠ K Q 10 8 3
♡ A Q J 5
◇ K
♣ K Q 3

Answer: The bidding should be as follows:

North	South
1 ◇	2 ♠
3 ♠	4 ♡
5 NT	7 NT

North's bid of five notrump is in accordance with the Culbertson System of 1933 and shows three Aces and the King of a suit previously bid by the partnership.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Times Change for Hafey. Mack's Successor Open. Old Rules Now Ignored. Rush for Pirate Seats. O'Doul Built to Last. Naming Round Winner.

EX-HOLDOUT BECOMES EARLY STARTER

AMONG THE UNUSUAL features of the early baseball situation, picture Chick Hafey all signed up and set to go through an entire spring training trip. Times have changed for Hafey. During the years when he was the Cardinals' star hitter and outfielder, usually he was a firm holdout at this stage, and sometimes he did not appear in the lineup until well into the playing season. Even after his transfer to Cincinnati last year he was missing from the Red array in the first 11 games and did not play until April 24.

Chick Hafey

It is hoped to have Chick in the game from the start this year, and there is no doubt that his service will mean a lot to the Reds. Illness last season kept him out so much of the time that he appeared in the outfield in only 65 games, serving as pinch-hitter in 18 other contests. The result was that he drove in only 36 runs against 95 the year before. That's largely why the Reds lost more games by one run than any other club in either major league. Hafey's bat often represents the difference between victory and defeat in a close game, and if Chick is in action regularly this year he is certain to be of great help to Donie Bush in the latter's efforts to lift the Reds out of the cellar.

THE SHIFTING OF Eddie Collins to the Red Sox as business manager and part owner leaves open again the question as to who will succeed Connie Mack as manager of the A's when the veteran of 32 campaigns at the head of one club finally decides to retire.

It had been thought that Collins would be the man to take Mack's place, but Eddie has been thrifty, and evidently prefers buying into a club to life on the bench as a manager. He had one experience managing the White Sox from 1925 to the middle of 1927 and it didn't turn out any too well.

AS WAS THE case when Collins filled the same role on the bench, the spirit of an old baseball rule is ignored in the appointment of the non-playing Bing Miller as captain of the A's. The intention of the rule was that the captain of a team should be a player. It provided that in a game each team shall consist of nine men, "one of whom shall act as captain." In late years they have created a loophole by changing the word "shall" to "may."

But no more attention is paid to that rule than is given to the regulation stipulating that only the manager or captain may address the umpire to protest a decision, and then never on a question of judgment, but only on a question of the interpretation of a rule.

THE INCREASE IN baseball interest hereabouts as a result of the improved pennant chances of the Pirates this year is reflected in a growing advance sale of seats for the season at Forbes Field. Ever since it was announced that the price of a box for the season had been reduced from $220 to $165, meaning eight box seats for 77 games, exclusive of admission, Vice President and Secretary S. E. Watters has received a number of applications daily. He reported four more today. The Pirate vice president still has not only some entire boxes in choice locations in all three tiers of the grandstand, to be sold for the season at $165, but also a number of odd box seats that may be purchased for the season at proportionate rates by patrons not desiring a whole set of eight chairs. As the supply is limited, he urges that those wishing to make season reservations send their applications to him at once at Forbes Field or at the club offices in the Flannery Building.

Lefty O'Doul

THOUGH LEFTY O'DOUL, batting champion of the National League in 1929 and 1932, will be 36 tomorrow, he is one veteran in whom baseball form students do not look for an early falling off. They are convinced he will last longer than most stars because of his build and his spirit.

No athlete takes better care of himself than does O'Doul. His legs are sound, his eye keen, and he is as slim this year as a racehorse. Besides, baseball still is play to him. He finds as much pleasure in the game as he did when he first broke into the pro ranks as a pitcher for San Francisco 16 years ago.

DAZZY VANCE did not actually check out as a member of the Brooklyn club until he visited the Dodger training camp at Miami the other day and gathered up his personal baseball property when the club trunks were unpacked.

Vance collected his gloves, bats, shirts and shoes and returned to his home in Homosassa to wait for more wires from Branch Rickey. Dazzy confirmed the report that he had notified Rickey that he would not accept the Cardinals' invitation to go to St. Louis and talk over terms.

A NEW YORK writer reports that one of the favorite stories going the rounds among the sportsmen at the yacht clubs concerns the fact that passengers aboard the stricken steamer Tahiti were taken off the boat the day AFTER she sank. The ship was disabled near the International Date Line, where the calendar is thrown back one day, and after the passengers were removed she drifted across the line and sank the day BEFORE she got into distress.

THE RECENT BOUT between Young Corbett and Jackie Fields in San Francisco brought more than a shift in the welterweight championship. It brought something new into the boxing game in the form of a system whereby the referee, at the end of each round, made known the winner of that particular session.

Posting the winner of each round as it is fought has been suggested and discussed in the East several times, without being adopted. The system of having two judges and a referee presents difficulties. Their consensus, announced at the end of each round, might not clearly express the trend each official is marking on his scorecard.

BUT IN THE San Francisco fight there were no judges. There was only the referee, Lieut. Jack Kennedy, of the U. S. S. Relief, and he dramatized a dull job, made a hit with the crowd and perhaps started a new deal for boxing in general by pointing at the end of each round to the corner of the fighter who in his estimation had the edge at the close of the frame.

Lieut. Jack Kennedy

It took a lot of courage to stand before a crowd of 15,000 and give a flock of decisions instead of only one, with every person in the gathering holding an individual opinion, but whether or not it was because Corbett received the majority of the awards, Kennedy's innovation went over big.

SOME BOXING MEN in other parts of the country are advocating a general adoption of the system. They think it would do away with much of the criticism at the end of a bout. A strong finish by one boxer makes some fans forget an early lead that might justify a decision for the other principal and they shout their disapproval. But when each round has been established in their minds as credited one way or the other they know just how matters stand and there can be no complaining at the finish. It is argued, too, that boxing is the only sport in which the customers are kept in a state of uncertainty as to just how the contest is progressing officially. In baseball, football, basketball, billiards, tennis and other games they know just what the count is at all stages.

BLUFFITES SEEK THIRTEENTH WIN IN ROW

By JESS CARVER

Carnegie Tech plus Duquesne plus the uncertainty of the college athletics in general equal a sure pop, hotsy-totsy basketball game.

Hoping devoutly that history does not take the occasion to repeat itself, Duquesne University's varsity basketball team, laying claim to the city and district title, seeks to hang up its second victory of the season and its thirteenth consecutive triumph hand running tonight as it meets Carnegie Tech's Plaid passers in the Tartan gym.

The Dukes to date have beaten Pitt, Geneva, Grove City and West Virginia twice and have won single tilts with Wash-Jeff, George Washington, Carnegie Tech, Adrian and Westminster. The only blot on the Bluffites' record was put there in the second game of the season by Westminster.

TECH RECORD SPOTTY

Carnegie, following a more in and out course, has been beaten by Pitt and the Dukes, by Geneva, Penn State, New York University, Temple, Notre Dame and Western Reserve and has scored single triumphs over Georgetown, West Virginia, Grove City and Temple and has beaten Wash-Jeff twice.

But the situation was about the same a year ago as the Dukes came down to their second meeting with the Plaid. They entered the game with every form player in the country backing them and all they got out of the contest was a beating and the form guys headaches.

One thing the Tartans have in their favor tonight is that for the first time this season, the full strength of the squad will be available. Coach Max Hannum is undecided as to the makeup of his starting lineup. The various combinations he employed Tuesday night against Grove City all clicked, especially in the second half. It is a continuation of that sort of basketball that Tech hopes for tonight.

The most likely starting combination for Tech appears to be one with Smith and Jagnow at the forwards; Ewalt at center, and Rigg and Fergus at the guards.

DUKES LINEUP SET

The Dukes will line up with their regulars in the action. Feldman and Birch are set at the forwards; Brenner is to play center, and Reiter and Moore the guards.

The freshmen teams of the institutions will clash in a preliminary, scheduled to get under way at 7 o'clock.

Pitt may have to meet Temple tomorrow night with a squad far from being in the best of physical trim. The two regular forwards, Capt. Don Smith and Skippy Hughes are suffering with severe colds and are not expected to be able to play through the entire game. Bogda and Back loom as likely starting forwards. The Panthers entrain for Philly tonight.

Pitt will have one, and possibly five, representatives in the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championship meet in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow. Emil Bonavita, sophomore shot putter, will represent the university and a mile relay team also may be selected to compete.

CLASS B SQUASH FINAL TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

George W. Kepler, Jr., P. A. A. star, will play his clubmate, Bill ment at the Keystone A. C. late today. Kepler fought uphill scrimmage into the windup by dint of scoring a 15-13, 9-15, 7-15, 16-15, 15-5 decision over Dr. John O'Loughlin, also a Winged Header, in bitter semi-final struggle yesterday. Hutchins passed into the trophy frame through straight-game win at expense of Charley Woods, of Edgeworth, on Wednesday.

Kepler was down two matchpoints to O'Loughlin in the fourth stanza ere he contrived to pull out the verdict.

Active Chairman Ben Pope of the City Squash Racquets championship committee yesterday released official pairings for the Class A titular affair, which begins at the Keystone tomorrow.

The pairings and starting times follow:

1:00 p. m.—W. McCook Reed, Pittsburgh Golf Club, vs. Dr. G. Stegeman, P. A. A.; Dr. John L. O'Loughlin, P. A. A., vs. William D. Bickel, Keystone A. C.

SCHOOL RIVALS IN TOURNEY GAME HERE

By JULIUS LEVIN

Tonight in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, Ford City, champion of Section VI and one of the W. P. I. A. L. repeaters, plays a second-round elimination battle with Cecil High, champion of Section XIV, and a newcomer in the series.

The Ford City quintet made an enviable showing in last year's tournament, winning two games before it bowed to Braddock, champion of Section VIII, in the semi-finals. Braddock went on to win the W. P. I. A. L. title.

STRONG CONTENDER

Ford City defeated North Union, champion of Section XIII, in the second round, 22-16; Mt. Lebanon, champion of Section IX, in the quarter-finals, 40-17, and lost to Braddock in the semi-finals, 26-10, when the team cracked wide open. Neenie Campbell is coach at Ford City.

Cecil High, coached by John McVicker, has one of the tallest teams in the W. P. I. A. L. It replaces Burgettstown as sectional champion, having defeated that team in a playoff for the title. Dave Weaver, star forward of the team, is hailed as one of the best scoring threats in the league.

South High, champion of Section I, and Perry High, champion of Section II, were clashing in the Pitt Stadium pavilion this afternoon in the second battle of the championship. A victory for South will clinch the title for the Washabaugh quintet. The City champion will represent District VIII in the P. I. A. A. playoff. If Perry evens the series, the third and deciding battle will be played on the Stadium floor next Tuesday.

MONESSEN ADVANCES

A resourceful and intelligent Monessen High School quintet, [illegible] times champion of Section V and three times titleholder of the W. P. I. A. L. crown, took advantage of the breaks last night to defeat Canonsburg, champion of Section XV, in a second round battle in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, 24-2[illegible].

As a result of their victory, the Greyhounds earned the right to engage the Ford City-Cecil winner in a quarter-final contest in the Pitt Stadium pavilion on Wednesday, March 6.

Overtaken by an aggressive Canonsburg team after leading, [illegible] to 5, at the close of the first period, the Greyhounds trailed until three minutes of play remained in the final period. Here Dame Fortune smiled on the Greyhounds when Canonsburg, holding a lead of 21-18, started to fire away at the basket from long range instead of nursing its slim advantage, and the Monessen passers, snaring two of the wild heaves, pulled away on field goals by Hughes and Kudlik.

Monessen's one-point advantage, however, was soon wiped out when Chico counted a double-decker for the Gunners and was fouled by Tucci. He missed the foul attempt and Canonsburg was back in front, 23-22. Hughes, of Monessen, was fouled by Leson in the act of shooting shortly after the next tapoff and he made good on both attempts to give the Greyhounds a 24-23 advantage.

GREZA MISSES CHANCE

On the following tapoff, Greza, of Canonsburg, missed a golden opportunity to win the contest for the Gunners when he broke loose under the basket and without a Monessen man near him, missed a sleeper for what would have provided the winning margin.

The Monessen team as a whole compared favorably with the best the Monongahela valley school has sent to the tourney. Tucci played a whale of a game at guard, continually feeding Hughes and Kudlick with passes that resulted in field goals. Besides his excellent floor work, Tucci electrified the crowd on several occasions by sweeping through the entire Canonsburg defense to register field goals.

Lou Bell played the best ball for the losers. His work on the defense prevented a number of Monessen's bids for field goals.

The lineup:

Monessen.	G.	F.	Pt.	Canonsburg.	G.	F.	Pt.
Hughes,f	2	3	7	Chico,f	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Galaski,f	0	0	0	Leson,f	2	2	[illegible]

CENTERVILLE CHAMP

Centerville High School's basketball team has been awarded the title in Section XVI of the W. P. I. A. L. Centerville was advanced to the title position when Joe Andrews, Bentleyville forward, was declared ineligible when it was admitted that he had not resided in Bentleyville for the necessary five months period.

Bentleyville defeated Centerville in a playoff game for the section title Wednesday evening, with Centerville protesting Andrews prior to the game. The champions will meet Rankin in the Pitt Stadium pavilion in an elemination game tomorrow night.

GIBSON ELATED OVER WORK OF SQUAD IN FIRST DRILL

REGULARS HIT BALL HARD IN WORKOUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 3.—Clear skies and warm sunshine remained with the snappy Pirates this morning as they went through another spirited drill. A wind interfered slightly with the drill, but when the athletes went back to the hotel at noon they were in a happy frame of mind.

The afternoon session promised to be just as interesting.

More than five weeks must elapse before the bell rings in the big league and in the interim, the Pirates must face a gruelling barnstorming schedule, yet Manager Gibson is full of optimism. He shouted:

"Did you see those infielders and outfielders sock that ball out against those faraway fences in their first drill of the year? Our pitchers have so much stuff I thought the late arrivals would have their bats knocked out of their hands but they certainly crossed up everybody."

STARS SHOW CLASS

The initial joust of Pie Traynor and his crew surely was something pretty to gaze upon. Gibby continued.

"Just imagine how those boys will be able to smack that ball after they get rid of their pains and aches, and they won't be nursing their bruises long if this weather keeps up. To say I am satisfied with the Paso Robles training this year is putting it too mildly. I am delighted."

Prexy Bill Benswanger voiced the same sentiments, in fact the whole camp rings with gladness over the fine results obtained thus far.

Gibby has considered the advisability of staging a squad game Sunday, but he may decide to sidetrack this anticipated competition in defference for regular drills. He will push the athletes hard today in an effort to chase the soreness out of their bodies, but few of the players need any prodding.

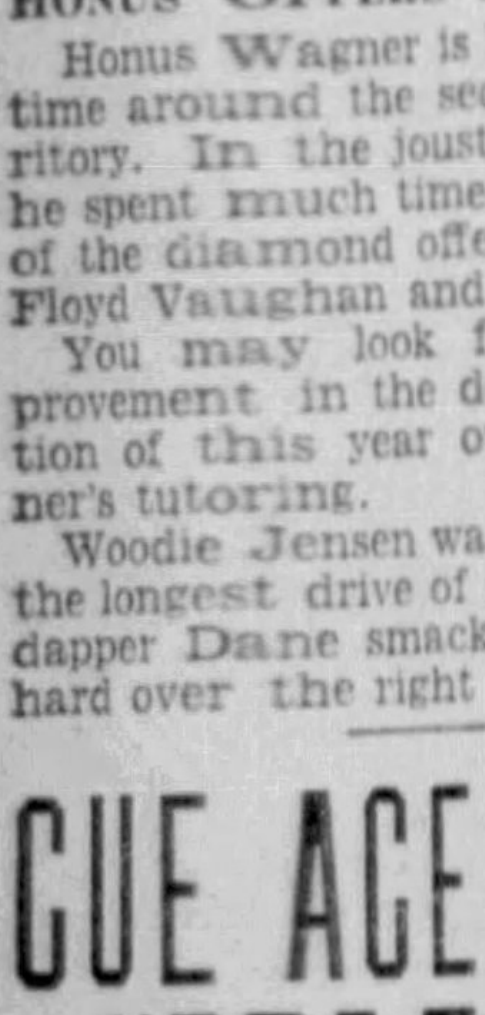
HONUS OFFERS ADVICE

Honus Wagner is having a great time around the second base territory. In the jousts of yesterday he spent much time in the middle of the diamond offering advice to Floyd Vaughan and Tony Piet.

You may look for much improvement in the double-play action of this year owing to Wagner's tutoring.

Woodie Jensen was credited with the longest drive of yesterday. The dapper Dane smacked the sphere hard over the right field wall.

CUE ACES PLAY HERE TODAY



Welker Cochran

Two Californians who are standouts among world three-cushion billiardists, Welker Cochran and Jay Bozeman, Jr., met at 2:30 this afternoon in the first of a series of four 50-point matches at the Tobin Parlors, 536 Smithfield street.

Cochran former world balkline champion, recently won the three-rail crown at the annual tourney in Chicago. He is the only player ever to win both championships.

Bozeman, who finished second to Cochran at Chicago, is renowned for his mustache and his high runs.

Additional exhibitions are carded here tonight and tomorrow afternoon and night.

Cochran this week accepted Willie Hoppe's challenge to a 600-point match for a side bet of $2,000, to be played about March 15.

PIRATES' WHO'S WHO

Our Flag Contenders Answer Quiz, Giving Fans Lowdown on What's What and Why.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent

NO. 8—PITCHER HAROLD LEVERN SMITH

What do you know about Pittsburgh and the Pirates, Hal?

More'n you think, perhaps.

How's that?

I'll try to keep it short. Back in October, 1925, there were some pretty fair world series battles at Forbes Field. I guess you remember that last one in the rain. Well, I was in a Washington uniform and I pitched to the hitters that day. I was just out of Iowa State College and the Senators had picked me up before the season ended. When I went out to pitch to the batters the radio announcer broadcast my name and my mother, out in Iowa, heard it and was thrilled. I did not get any of the world series pie, but I wrote a story every day for my home town paper, the Creston (Iowa) Advertiser, so I had quite a time at that.

Hal Smith

That's a tall story from a tall pitcher, and one with real baseball romance. What are your height and weight, Hal?

I'm 6 feet 3 and weight 190.

And where have you been since your thrilling experience at Forbes Field on that rainy day?

I went South with the Senators in 1926 and was farmed up. Eventually I landed at Peoria, and I began to win ball games. The Cardinals bought me that fall and for four years I played the Cardinal chain-store circuit with varying degrees of success.

How did you break the shackles?

That's another story, but, anyhow, I was free and I don't think the pardon came too late. I caught on with Toledo during the 1930 season and at the end of the year I was able to get my unconditional release. This was what I wanted.

What happened then?

I played with Springfield in 1931. I received a bonus for signing. Kansas City used Springfield as a farm and when it called in its optioned players it effected my purchase. I hit my stride with the Blues last season when the Pirates purchased me.

Fight Results

At Indianapolis—Tracy Cox defeated Jimmy Alvardo, 10 rounds; Willard Brown defeated Jackie Purvis, 10 rounds; Ernie Maurer defeated Henry Hook, 10 rounds.

At Wilkes-Barre—Mack House defeated Petro Corri, 8 rounds; Tony Stetz defeated Jay MacEdon, 8 rounds; Jimmy McLarnin defeated Kirk Martin, 6 rounds.

At Savannah, Ga.—Pat Flaherty and Ray Kiser drew, 10 rounds; Carl Knowles defeated Eric Lawson, 10 rounds.

At Boston—Jose Santa knocked out Johnny Dixon, 3 rounds.

At Santa Fe, N. M.—Babe Colima defeated Billy Fisher, 10 rounds.

AMBRIDGE GETS TROPHY

Ambridge High School was presented the Class A football trophy of the W. P. I. A. L. at an assembly held in the school yesterday. David H. Stewart, a member of the decisions' committee, made the presentation.

Babe New Member Of Hole-in-One Organization

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Babe Ruth walked up to the third hole on the Pasadena golf course yesterday aimed at the green 185 yards away with a No. 2 iron and promptly entered the dream organization of all golfers, the Hole-in-One Club.

Lands and Thomas Take Bike Lead

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Dave Lands, of Irvington, N. J., and Bobby Thomas, Kenosha, Wis., held undisputed possession of the lead in Madison Square Garden's fifty-fourth international six-day bike race early today.

They had covered 1,754 miles, nine laps and led the veteran New Jersey combination of Reggie McNamara and Harry Horan by one lap. Five other teams were another lap to the bad.

In Pro Game

SHANG CHADWICK

Former star of the old Celtic and Fort Wayne teams, now with the Akron Firestones, who, along with his teammate, Cookie Cunningham, and Pip Koehler, former local luminary now of Toledo, and Moon Klinzing, will oppose the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics in the last big professional basketball game of the season here at Motor Square Garden tonight.

STAR GOLFERS IN TOURNEY

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Holders of nearly every important golfing title will unsheath their war clubs here today for a 72-hole drive with six-inch putting cups, for $5,000 in prizes.

Leading the parade will be Gene Sarazen, home professional at the Miami Biltmore course over which the tournament will be played. He is the American and British open champion.

Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Cal., holder of the Metropolitan and P. G. A. match play tournament championships, is another contestant.

LOCALS VICTORS

MIAMI, Fla., March 3.—J. S. Oppenheimer and W. Pickels, both of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the second round of match play in the annual Dixie golf championship over the Miami Country Club course. Oppenheimer is opposing Hugh Mackenzie, of Washington, D. C., in the fourth flight, while Pickels is meeting H. P. Hermance, of Miami, in the sixth division.

Oppenheimer scored a close victory over G. C. Wineman, of Washington, D. C., 2 and 1 yesterday.

Pickels had an easy time in disposing of George C. Weimer, of Miami, 4 and 3.

MRS. GARBER LOSES

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 3.—Mrs. M. K. Garber, of Pittsburgh, Pa., sustained her second successive defeat in the Florida East Coast golf championship over St. Augustine links yesterday. After being eliminated in the tournament proper on Wednesday, she returned to the competition in the beaten eight division of the second flight, only to be put out once again, this time by Mrs. Bernard R. Howe, of St Augustine, 5 and 4.

Miss Kathleen Garnham, of England, the medalist, is meeting Miss Barbara Pyman, of England, in one of the semi-final matches for the title today. In the other contest, Miss Frances Williams, of Allentown, Pa., is tackling Miss Frances Hadfield, of Milwaukee.

GOSS, HYDE IN FINAL

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Leo Goss, of Bedford, Pa., faced William M. Hyde, of Ridgeway, Pa., in the final round of the annual Palm Beach amateur golf championship today.

It was the first time either of the players had reached the final during the winter campaign. The tournament has been marked by upsets from the start. Probably the most spectacular was Hyde's victory over Jack Ryerson, medalist, from Cooperstown, N. Y.

Goss carried on to the final by eliminating W. L. Carey, of New York.

A.-K. Valley Play Gains Semi-Finals

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 3.—Aspinwall battles Springdale and Freeport takes on Vandergrift in semi-final play of the Allegheny-Kiski Valley basketball tournament here tonight.

Freeport won its way into the semi-finals last night by beating Kittanning in a second round tilt, 26-16, following which Vandergrift nosed out Arnold in a fine setto, 31-29.

In consolation semi-finals tonight, Apollo meets Leechburg and Har-Brack plays Oakmont.

New Kensington downed Ambridge, 23-21 in an added feature last night, the battle which brought the winners of W. P. I. A. L., S[illegible] and IV together.

GREGORIO TOPS ALL-STAR CARD AT ARENA

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Mose Butch vs. Vidal Gregorio, Jimmy Thomas vs. Jimmy Mack and Jackie Wilson vs. Ross Fields, 10 rounds each, and Al Farone vs. Harry Weekly, 6 rounds, Arena, North Side.

Johnny Jadick vs. Wesley Ramey, 10 rounds, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pitt vs. Bucknell, Lewisburg, Pa.

Temple vs. W. & J., Washington, Pa.

Johnny Lucas vs. Bobby Burns, 10 rounds, and Pat Haley vs. Joe McHale, 8 rounds, Philadelphia.

Harry Paul vs. Jack Moran, 10 rounds, and Puggy Winter vs. Heckle Schumann, 6 rounds, Chicago.

Jacques Dessimoz vs. Lou Barba, Canada Lee vs. Joe Brown, Jimmy Dean vs. Joe Eavarone and Harry Boyle vs. Frank Janowski, 6 rounds each, Erie, Pa.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The tougher the times the better the boxing show Lew Raymond, matchmaker of the Arena, on the North Side, appears to be able to dig up. Last week, he offered three 10-rounders and a six-round opener that were pips, and tonight he's back with the same sort of a bill with a lot of good names on top at popular prices. Here's his card:

Vidal Gregorio, Spanish featherweight, vs. Mose Butch, of Oakland, 10 rounds.

Jimmy Mack, of Philadelphia, vs. Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, 10 rounds.

Ross Fields, of Cleveland, vs. Jackie Wilson, of Homewood, 10 rounds.

Harry Weekly, stablemate of Ted Yarosz, vs. Al Farone, of the West End, in six-round opener.

GREGORIO RATES HIGH

Gregorio rates up among the best 126-pounders in the world. He has fought virtually all of the stars. He dropped a 15-round decision to Al Brown, the bantamweight champion, and was credited with having bested Kid Chocolate, the featherweight champion, in a match in which Chocolate received the decision in Philadelphia. He boxed Jimmy Thomas at Hickey Park, Millvale, two summers ago, and won the decision.

Butch in his last two starts has technically stopped Matty Mathison, of Buffalo, at Youngstown, and fought a rattling good battle with Fidel La Barba at Motor Square Garden.

Jimmy Mack, Thomas' foe, is a brother of Young Chappie and is touted as one of the fastest and best bantams in the East. Thomas needs no introduction to the local fans.

MOSE SET ON STYLE

Fields won by a technical knockout over Wilson in their most recent meeting, at New Castle, when the referee had to stop the bout in the final round because of a ripped ear. Since then Fields has grabbed a decision against Butch at the Arena, while Wilson has boxed a draw there with Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion.

Quite a bill for a single admission price, as any dyed-in-the-wool fan will tell you.

Incidentally, Butch plans to box righthanded against Gregorio. He surprised everybody by switching back to his old southpaw stance against La Barba.

At Arena

JIMMY MACK

Philadelphia bantamweight boxer, who meets Jimmy Thomas, local Negro star, in one of the three 10-round feature bouts at the Arena, on the North Side, tonight.

Between Rounds

A Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament will be held in Erie on the nights of March 13, 14 and 20 and 21, with the winners being sent to the Allegheny Mountain Association senior championships at the Keystone A. C. here.

Jacquette Elverillo, Negro middleweight, who claims to have scored 37 knockouts in 57 professional fights, wants to meet Jimmy Belmont, Freddie Edwards, Max Elling or Davy Grove.

George Engle, of New York, manager of Tony Falco, writes his man is in good condition and will beat Tony Herrera when they meet in their return bout at the Garden, Monday night. It will be recalled that, in their first battle, Falco was far ahead at the halfway mark, only to slow down and lose the decision. Since then he has grabbed off a win over Harry Dublinsky in the same ring.

Sutter Captures Bermuda Title

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 3.—(AP.)—Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, United States intercollegiate tennis champion, yesterday won the men's singles title in the Bermuda championships, defeating Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., 6-2, 1-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Virginia Rice, of Boston, and Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, winner and runner-up, respectively, in the women's singles, captured the women's doubles title from the Boston-New York team of Mrs. Harry C. Brunie and Fiorence Leboutillier, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2.

Pitt Freshmen, Allegheny Win

The Pitt freshman swimming team and the Allegheny High School tankers scored victories in dual meets yesterday.

The Panther yearlings defeated the South High team, 44 to 20, in the South pool, while Allegheny downed Oliver 35 to 29, in a closely contested affair.

JIM BOTTOMLEY SIGNS WITH CINCINNATI

TAMPA, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—After a four-hour conference last night with Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, "Sunny Jim" Bottomley signed his 1933 contract. Joe Morrissey, infielder, had signed earlier in the day, so pitcher Larry Benton was left as the only holdout.

Bottomley, a first sacker the Reds obtained from the Cardinals, is believed to have agreed to a salary of somewhere between $10,000 and $13,000.

Two hours after the advance squad reached here yesterday Manager Donie Bush had them on the field in the first spring practice.

Baseball Briefs

BILOXI, Miss., March 3.—(AP.)—Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, focussed his attention on his baseball club as it went through the daily practice stint. Then he handed down this opinion:

"It will do in any league and in any race."

CALISTOGA, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—Caesar Puccinelli, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, was found honeymooning here today with his bride, the former Rose Marie Cetta. Puccinelli, who is still a holdout, said he will motor to the Cards' training camp at Bradentown, Fla., where he expects to come to terms with the club owners.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Jack Quinn went to his first baseball training camp 24 years ago, but the old boy still is a handy fellow to have around. Pitching against the Brooklyn Dodger batters yesterday, Quinn, who has been limbering up at Hot Springs, appeared in fine condition.

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—(AP.)—Smoky Joe Martin appeared in the New York Giants training camp roster as an outfielder, but already Manager Bill Terry has decided he'd look better at third base. The Winston-Salem rookie was given a thorough workout at third base yesterday and did a pretty good job.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Joe McCarthy, pilot of the New York Americans, is seriously considering the dispatch of a posse in search of Vernon Gomez and Wiley Moore, both of whom are A. W. O. L. The two pitchers both have been reported en route to the training camp, where they were due on Wednesday. Nothing has been heard from either since then.

AVALON, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—Burleigh Grimes' plans for a big comeback with the Chicago Cubs this year already has received a setback. The veteran spitball pitcher was in the hospital today with an attack of influenza. Grimes, hero of the 1931 world series while with the Cardinals, had all manner of bad luck last year, what with influenza and bad teeth.

PASADENA, Cal., March 3.—(AP.)—About the most pleasing item in the Chicago White Sox training development to date is the apparent return to health and form of Vic Frasier, young right-handed pitcher. Frasier, a star in 1931, last year lost his effectiveness and was batted out of action nine times in a row. An examination after the season revealed the presence of malaria germs. Treatment eliminated the ailment and Frasier reported in excellent shape and has made the most rapid progress of any of the Sox hurlers.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 3.—(AP.)—Ed Coleman, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, has proven to the satisfaction of Manager Connie Mack that his ankle, broken last season, is in first-class condition. Turning out for the second day's workout of the spring training season, the big outfielder raced out a hit in fast time in his turn at batting practice.

NEW ORLEANS, March 3.—(AP.)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh had nothing but good news today about his Cleveland Indians. He received word that Outfielder Dick Porter had signed his contract, leaving only Pitchers Ferrell and Hudlin and Infielder Harley Boss unsigned.

STOCK BULGE SURPRISES STREET

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—A spectacular upswing in the speculative markets took Wall street by surprise today.

The bulge came suddenly in the second hour of trading in the share market, and was soon over, but the major part of advances ranging from 1 to more than 4 points were retained. Bonds also recovered, and wheat shot up more than 2 cents. The movement was interpreted in several quarters as reflecting the belief that with the inauguration of a new administration tomorrow, quick action would be taken designed to restore confidence.

Shorts were quick to take to flight, on the theory that the week-end would bring important developments. During the buying flurry, the ticker fell a few minutes in arrears. Announcement that President Hoover would make no message to Congress during its final session dimmed hopes that banking legislation would be jammed through in the closing session. Nevertheless, various quarters in Wall street expressed the opinion that the new administration would act swiftly to end the banking impasse. William H. Woodin, incoming secretary of the treasury, it was pointed out, has been spending long hours closeted at the Federal Reserve Bank, before leaving for Washington.

The weekly survey of Dun and Bradstreet, representing the consolidation this week of the two well-known mercantile agencies of those names, found that banking difficulties had resulted in surprisingly little deferring of business plans. In fact, a "steadier course of trade was somewhat more evident this week," according to this authority. "Accumulating facts bear clearer evidence that buying restraint in all directions must soon be relaxed," it said.

WHEAT SOARS ON BUYING

CHICAGO, March 3.—An upward trend showed itself in grain prices early today. Liverpool wheat quotations displayed strength, with British exchange rates 3 points higher. Bulls pointed also to prospects of a sharp curtailment of the United States wheat carry-over and of a drastic reduction in new crop yields. Opening at ⅛ to ¼ up, Chicago wheat prices later rose all around. Corn started unchanged to ¼ higher, and subsequently made a general advance.

Soaring of Chicago wheat prices soon hoisted the market almost 3 cents a bushel. Big concentrated buying orders credited to eastern sources were in evidence. The rise was simultaneous with a rapid advance of securities, and with a notable absence of selling pressure in wheat. Corn and oats sympathized with the upward swing of wheat. Provisions reflected gains in hog values.

Reactions carried wheat swiftly backward more than a cent a bushel at times, but commission houses were flooded with purchase orders, and traders who were recently conspicuous on the selling side of the market were insistent buyers. There were reports that the United States Stabilization Corporation was already out of its wheat holdings.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

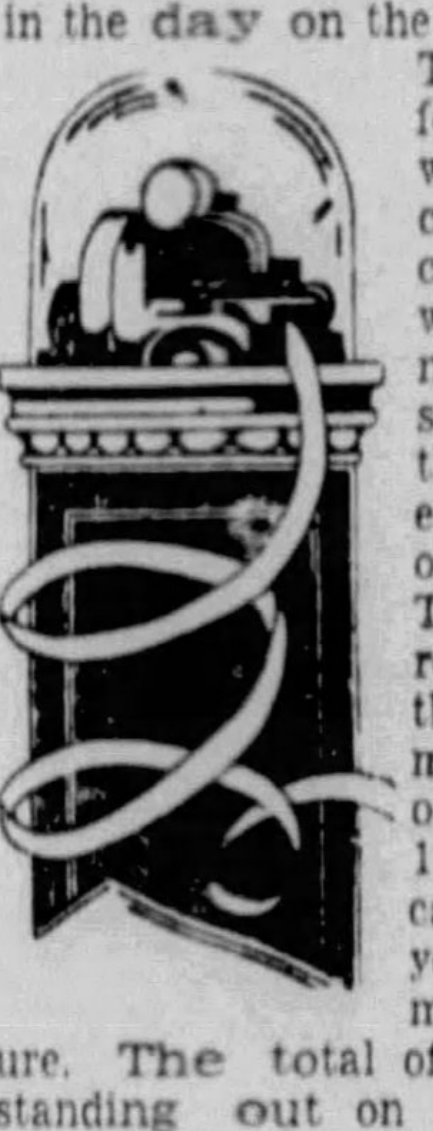
Heavy Calling Boosts Call Loan Rate On Exchange



Heavy calling of loans was reported as having developed early in the day on the stock exchange. The renewal rate for call money was posted officially at 3½ per cent, though it was understood a number of banks set 4 per cent as the charge for extension of overnight loans. Today's official renewal rate was the highest in more than a year or since January, 1932, when loans carrying over the year-end commanded that figure. The total of demand loans standing out on stock exchange collateral now is the smallest in many years, virtually the smallest as far back as available records go.

Brokers' loans made by New York member banks for their own accounts, dropped $12,000,000 the past week. But the total of security advances made by local banks showed a net increase of $19,000,000, this is indicative of an expansion of $31,000,000 in loans made on collateral security to non-broker borrowers. Such expansion in non-broker borrowings in the past has frequently been regarded as evidence of accumulation in securities. "Whether the same interpretation can be applied with conditions such as they are at present may be open to some question, but the shift in source of borrowings is nevertheless interesting.

Among influences mentioned in connection with the advance in wheat at Chicago was the rise in stocks at New York and that the market was reflecting the sensationally bullish crop estimates on winter wheat which were given out yesterday. Another belief which circulated the grain pits was the stabilization corporation's holdings of wheat futures had already been liquidated. Traders also expressed confidence that President-elect Roosevelt's inaugural speech tomorrow would prove constructive. The buying swept over into other commodity markets also.

Taking action in line with the general advance in money rates, the New York Clearing House Association announced an increase in its interest rates effective next Monday, and balances except certificates of deposit or time deposits will draw 1 per cent. The present rate on balances of mutual savings banks is ½ of 1 per cent and that on balances of banks and trust companies ¼ of 1 per cent. On certificates of deposit or time deposits the rate was lifted to 1¼ per cent from ½ of 1 per cent. The rate on all other deposits was raised from ¼ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent.

One of the most spectacular demonstrations in many months developed at mid-morning after the initial overnight; selling had been cleared away. Spurred by reports of an impending announcement from Washington—such rumors later proving without foundation—hsorts beat a hasty and disorderly retreat from the positions in the leaders. Stiff premiums commanded for many stocks, Allied Chemical having been quoted at $10 a hundred shares last night, added to the consternation of the shorts not to mention the notable lack of much in the way of offerings in the market itself.

The pivotal shares in various groups which had been the principal sufferers on the decli[illegible] usual the outstanding performers on the bulge. Demand, far from representing the efforts of the "little shorts" to get from under, was reported to have originated chiefly with the professional element, the majority of whom are now in Florida. Gains ranging up to 6 points were scored in the course of the first half of the second hour by such leaders as American Telephone, American Can, Union Pacific, Consolidated aGs, Atchison, and Allied Chemical.

TRADE HOLDING EVEN KEEL

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—A business review issued today under the name of "Dun and Bradstreet, Inc.," representing consolidation of the two old mercantile agencies, said that "the steadier course of trade was somewhat more evident this week." The review said:

"It was to be expected that there would be a holding back of prepared programs for expansion, awaiting the settlement of banking disorders, and that reports of betterment would be lacking in uniformity. Collectively, however, these have over-balanced the total of unfavorable elements. The fact that a new administration will take control of the government inspires hope that constructive measures to clarify political, financial and economic conditions will not be long delayed.

"Further evidence of a greater degree of stability in general business is present in the constantly narrowing percentage of decline of retail sales from last year's figures.

"Accumulating facts bear clearer evidence that buying restraint in all directions soon must be relaxed.

"While reports of general industrial activities are less encouraging then they were a few weeks back, there is unmistakable evidence that the ground which has been gained is not being ceded without a struggle."

INSURANCE MEN STAND PAT

CHICAGO, March 3.—(AP.)—A two-day special meeting of state insurance companies and heads of insurance companies from throughout the nation ended today with an announcement that each state must cope with its own problems in connection with bank moratoriums and withdrawal limitations.

J. B. Thompson, chairman of the executive committee of the national convention of insurance commissioners, said no action was taken by the meeting in connection with the general situation, and that no recommendations would be made.

Commissioners from the various states and presidents of insurance companies told of conditions in their areas, Thompson said, and those attending the meeting arrived at a better understanding of of the general situation.

CALL MONEY AT 4 PER CENT

Call money went to 4 per cent on the New York Stock Exchange this afternoon.

Call money opened loaning and renewing at 3½ per cent, as against yesterday's closing rate of 2½ per cent. The 3½ per cent was the highest renewal rate since January, 1932.

In the outside market funds were scarce and rates slightly above the official figure were quoted.

Previous to the firming of the call market yesterday the rate had held at 1 per cent for many weeks.

LOCAL STOCKS UP AS N. Y. SPURTS

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange displayed a firm tone today as the New York market staged a spectacular spurt. Early prices on the board here were at slightly lower quotations but when the "big market" executed its sudden turnabout and spurted sharply during the second hour of trading, the local list quickly closed the early gaps. Losses were immediately regained and a strengthening of quotations was noted all along the line.

The high tension in market circles the past few days was at lease relieved when prices shot ahead. While the Street was somewhat in the dark as to just what caused the rebound, its effect was to cause quick short covering and hurried purchases by investors who had been waiting for possibly lower prices. Wide jumps on the "big board" electrified the market and there was a marked expansion in the volume as the move progressed.

COTTON JUMPS ON COVERING

NEW YORK, March 3.—Cotton futures opened steady, 2 higher to 4 lower with lower Liverpool cables partially offset by good trade and foreign buying. March, 5.94c; May, 6.05c; July, 6.17c; October, 6.38c; December, 6.51c; January, 6.56c.

Trading was fairly active but orders were evenly divided and fluctuations were narrow after the call. After selling off to 6.02c early, May rallied to 6.06c, with the general market holding within a point or two of yesterday's close at the end of the first half hour.

There was a sharp advance later in the morning on an active demand attribuated to covering and buying for both domestic and foreign account. Strength of the stock and grain markets was a contributing factor on the advance which carried May contracts to 6.30c and October to 6.64c, or about 20 to 26 points net higher. This advance was sufficient to attract realizing, and prices at midday showed reactions of some 8 or 10 points from the best.

BANK HOLIDAYS REPEAT OLD HISTORY

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 3.—With reference to the widespread existence of so-called "bank holidays" I would make two main points. One is that such a condition has always appeared in our great depressions. The other is that suspension of check payments under such conditions does not mean the "failure" of the banks concerned.

Both of these points should be reassuring to the public. They strongly suggest that we will get over the present difficulties as in the past, and that in many cases depositors will eventually be paid in full.

We went through very similar periods in 1873, 1893 and 1907, and in each case the country emerged, strengthened in essentials and ready to go ahead to great prosperity.

In 1873, a reading of the newspapers shows that all over the country banks were suspending currency payments.

PRECEDENT IN 1873

By the end of September, 1873, partial suspension had occurred throughout the country, except in California, where business was on a gold basis.

Hoarding was widespread. There was a premium paid for currency. Corporations had difficulty in getting money to meet payrolls, and certified checks and local script of various kinds were used.

But the New York banks continued to meet their obligations to the limit of their reserves, shipping money freely to the interior banks, and gradually redemption occurred. (This is true today.)

In each of the great depressions mentioned we have had crises like this, with clearing house certificates and premiums on currency. They are the necessary showdowns following a period of inflation, in which we get credits finally liquidated and our money restored to a sound basis.

Of course such conditions slow up business, and we must now expect a very dull and restricted period of trade. But the worse things seem to look now the sooner we will be ready for recovery.

SUSPENSION NOT 'FAILURE'

The second point is that such suspensions do not necessarily mean failure. They do not make the condition of the banks as a whole any worse than it was before. The assets are still there.

We must remember that banks are never able to pay all depositors at once. Their loans normally exceed demand deposits, and even their best loans do not all mature at once. Their investments may be sound, but cannot will re realized upon at any moment.

So I am inclined to think that the recent movement to suspend payments is, if wisely handled, a desirable course. It has its dangers. The "holidays" must not be used to protect insufficient or dishonest managements. We must not get the idea that, because our good money is tied up temporarily, we should manufacture a lot of bad money. But if the suspensions give time for panicy people to cool off and for sound banks to adjust their affairs, they do good.

Some of us will probably realize some losses, but it is too late to cry over spilt milk. Let's find out where we stand and get things cleaned up. Once soundness is restored to our banking structure, we will have no trouble with "confidence."

Monongahela Valley Coal Loadings Gain

CHARLEROI, March 3.—(AP.)—Coal loadings in the Monongahela Valley increased 6,321 tons in the past week, the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce reports.

Tonnages by rail increased 2.5 per cent, but river shipments are down for the month ending March 3, James T. Heffran, secretary, said. Coke and merchandise shipments by river are up 3.1 per cent.

Foreign Nations Resume Run on American Gold Holdings

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

A NEW RUN on the dollar is under way. It has not reached the proportions of the run a year ago but foreign countries in recent weeks have been converting their credits into gold and have started to export metal.

Until recently the trend of the gold movement had been heavily in favor of this country. Since the last scare on the safety of the dollar, there had been an almost uninterrupted accumulation of gold in the United States.

The reversal in the trend reflects the uncertain conditions following the Michigan bank holiday, similar drastic steps taken in other states and the enactment of legislation permitting restrictions on bank withdrawals in several major bank centers of the country.

Agitation in favor of currency inflation also has been a contributing factor to foreign distrust even though there appears to be no probability that this country will actually embark on a policy of inflation.

Gold Movement Becomes Heavy

DURING THE LAST 13 business days the gold reserves of the United States have been reduced $161,000,000 through ear marking for foreign account and actual exports.

In spite of this, however, the latest available figures show that the country's monetary gold stocks stand at $4,460,000,000. This is considerably above the monthly average during 1929 and 1928 when they stood at $4,250,000,000.

Foreign withdrawals have not reached alarming proportions up to the present time but the future trend will be carefully watched in financial circles.

Interior Banks Call For New York Funds

THE BANK TROUBLES at interior cities have resulted in in heavy withdrawals from leading New York banks. This has been the natural result of efforts of bankers in parts of the country subject to strain to secure cash to meet any eventualities. The New York banks have met all demands without difficulty, but tighter conditions in the money market have resulted for the first time since last summer.

The situation made it necessary for the New York Federal Reserve Bank to increase its rediscount rate to 3½ per cent from 2½ per cent yesterday. This was the first change in the rate since June 24, when the rate was cut from 3 per cent.

The call money rate also stiffened. Money opened and renewed at 2½ per cent yesterday. This was the first rise in the renewal rate since December 31, 1931, when money renewed at 3½ per cent. Yesterday was the first time money renewed at 2½ per cent since July 6, 1932.

ROCKEFELLERS HOLD LEAD IN OIL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Rockefeller family is still the dominant figure in the giant American oil industry, although the oil empire founded by John D. Rockefeller was scattered by the anti-trust decision of the Supreme Court.

This was revealed today in the report filed by Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn and experts in the investigation of pipe lines by the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

The vast holdings of the Rockefeller family are scattered through the dominant oil companies, including a substantial interest in the Shell Union group, regarded as an offspring of the giant British Royal Dutch Shell Company.

The percentage of voting power held by Rockefeller interests in the larger oil companies was reported as follows:

Standard Oil of New Jersey, 16.47 per cent; Standard Oil of Indiana, 13.81 per cent; Standard Oil of California, 16.64 per cent; Socony-Vacuum Corporation, 20.82 per cent; Ohio Oil Company, 23.90 per cent; Prairie Pipe Line Company, 14.72 per cent; Atlantic Refining Company, 7.12 per cent; South Penn Oil Company, 32.92 per cent.

The Rockefeller holdings are especially impressive in pipe line companies.

MELLONS BIG FACTORS

The Mellon family, the financial heads of which are Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon and R. B. Mellon, firmly controls the big Gulf Oil Corporation, which has a capital stock of $113,000,000. The Mellon family is reported as owning on March 10, 1932, 73 per cent of Gulf Oil Corporation and 55 per cent of Union Gulf Corporation.

The next largest stockholder was the Flinn family, Pittsburgh, having 22,408 shares, as compared with 3,310,838 of the Mellon family. Senator David A. Reed is shown the owner of 4,069 shares, while George W. Crawford, of Pittsburgh, owns 10,104 shares.

John D. Rockefeller is the largest single stockholder in Atlantic Refining Company, with 7.12 per cent.

The Whitney, Harkness and Pratt families, all powers in New York finance, are found as heavy stockholders in many companies. The well-known duPont industrialist family is entered in the stockholders' list of the Phillips Petroleum Company.

The Rockefeller family is shown to have 69,020 shares in the Shell Union Corporation. Because much of the stock of the company is held outside of the United States, investigators could not compile an accurate list of holdings.

MORGAN IN CONTINENTAL

J. Pierpont Morgan and associates were disclosed as interested in the oil industry through the Continental Oil Company.

The Rockefeller family is heavily interested in the Sinclair-Prairie (Consolidated Oil) Group. J. D. Rockefeller owns 253,600 shares; Samuel Untermyer of New York, 15,000 shares. John W. Hubbard, of Pittsburgh has 9,000 shares.

The stock of the Giant Cities Service Company is widely scattered, the experts reported. However, it found that Henry L. Doherty and Company received 1 per cent of gross revenues after deducting inter-company sales for management and an engineering fee of five per cent of cost of major construction projects.

The Ohio Oil Company's largest stockholder is the Rockefeller family with 935,126 shares. Second is M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh, with 102,769 shares.

STRAUS AGREES TO RECEIVER

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—Counsel for S. W. Straus & Company, Inc., dealers in investment bonds, consented yesterday before Justice Charles Lockwood in Kings County Supreme Court to the appointment of receivers for the company and to an injunction restraining it from doing further business in New York state.

The consent was made at the opening of a suit brought by Attorney General John J. Bennett under the Martin Act which is designed to prevent fraudulent sale of securities.

S. J. T. Straus, chairman of S. W. Straus & Company, issued a statement saying in part:

"I regard this move as a constructive one. This proposed receivership is an unusual one in that the public generally is little affected by it. Practically none of the stock of the company is publicly owned. There are relatively few creditors of the company. The proposed receivership does not affect either the value of the bonds or the value of the properties covered by the various bond issues."

He said a new company, "strong financially and in personnel," will be organized to help the bondholders.

Passes Dividend, Blames Bank Holidays

CLEVELAND, March 3.—The National Refining Company has deferred action on the quarterly dividend of $2 on the preferred stock due at this time until the present banking crisis is over. Banks in most of the 14 states in which the company operates are under some kind of withdrawal limitations. President Fretter said he hoped the dividend will be resumed next quarter.

4TH DISTRICT MARKS TIME

CLEVELAND, March 3.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland reported today that a "waiting attitude seems to be displayed generally" in Fourth Federal Reserve District business. The fourth district includes Pittsburgh.

Little change in the volume of business was shown during the four weeks period ended February 25. "Increases in a few of the less important industries of the district were reported but they were partly seasonal and were offset by reductions in other lines so that the general level of activity in the latter part of February was about the same as a month earlier."

Member banks reserve deposits declined $6,000,000 to a total of $137,000,000, "about the same as a year ago, though down considerably from preceeding years." Circulation of the bank's Federal Reserve notes increased $30,000,000 mostly in the period "in which the Michigan bank holiday was announced." Demand deposits at member banks "are down about five per cent and time deposits about six per cent.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 3.—The bond market rallied rather smartly today, with a number of recently hard-pressed issues recovering fractionally to one or more points. Noticeable recoveries were made in the foreign section and most United States government obligations developed more resistance than in the past few sessions.

'Street' Remains Calm in Bank Dilemma

NEW YORK, March 3.—The atmosphere of the "Street" during this period of bank holidays in many state is remarkably calm. There is a crystalizing feeling that things are not as bad as they appear and that most of the measures taken are precautionary rather than necessitous.

BROKERS LOANS DECREASE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City decreased $11,000,000 during the week ended March 1 to $418,000,000. This compares with $429,000,000 in the preceding week, the record high of $6,804,000 on October 2, 1929, and the low record of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

NEW YORK, March 3.—The New York Stock Exchange reports member borrowings on collateral (street loans) at the close of business on February 28 amounted to $359,957,056, an increase of $615,998 as compared with January 31, 1933. On February 28, 1932, these loans totaled $524,663,758, while the record high was $8,549,383,979 at the end of September, 1929. The low point since stock exchange figures became available—October, 1919—was reached July 31, 1932, when they amounted to $241,599,943.

Simms Petroleum Company and subsidiaries report for 1932 shows net loss of $473,549, compared with net loss of $2,651,222 in 1931.

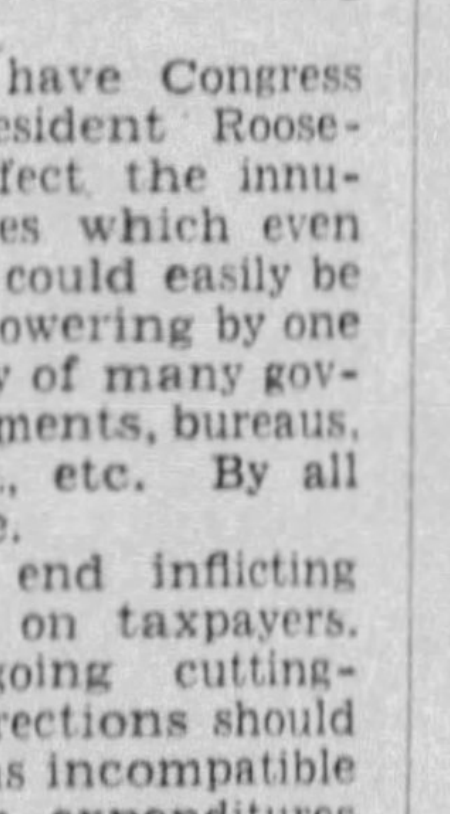
Forbes

Forbes Asks: Is Balancing Budget Wise?

By B. C. FORBES

IS IT imperative tto heed the universal clamorous cry "balance the budget?"

ARE NOT conditions in America today more unsettled than they were at any time when America was participating in the World War? Unquestionably they are.



Mr. Forbes

Nobody then demanded that our national budget be balanced. We gaily went heavily into debt to fight the European war.

Why, therefore should we tremble over the idea of going into debt to wage war against unemployment, against depression, against existing emergencies in our own country?

Our national finance has two phases which should be kept distinct.

By all means have the new administration cut down very drastically the cost of running the country.

By all means have Congress confer upon President Roosevelt power to effect the innumerable economies which even politicians admit could easily be effected without lowering by one iota the efficiency of many governmental departments, bureaus, commissions, etc., etc. By all means stop waste.

By all means end inflicting needless burdens on taxpayers.

But thoroughgoing cutting-down in these directions should not be regarded as incompatible with undertaking expenditures calculated to hasten the return of better times, hasten the expansion of employment, hasten the ending of alarm over social conditions.

THERE HAS been inexcusable mixing of the ordinary expenses of administering the government and extraordinary expenses incurred to combat extraordinary conditions.

Enough distinction has not been made between current governmental costs and what business would term "capital expenditures."

This has created a false and very deplorable idea concerning the extent of our REAL national deficit.

Money spent to run a department or a bureau or a commission is a current expense, unrecoverable.

But loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation presumably are recoverable—and, as a matter of fact, the prospect is that the bulk of these "capital expenditures will be recovered.

Therefore, it is obviously unfair, misleading, wrong to lump such expenditures with ordinary running expenses.

One is an ordinary expenditure, the other an extraordinary capital expenditure. One is properly chargeable to deficit, the other is not properly so chargeable.

SURELY THE war we are called upon to wage within our own borders today is as important, as vital, as serious as was the call for us to wage war on foreign soil.

Surely, it is as essential for us to achieve victory now as it was to achieve victory then.

Surely, we have as much at stake now as we had in 1917-18.

COMMON SENSE demands that federal, state and local governments follow the same course as industry and business and families and individuals have had to follow in the matter of curtailing day-to-day costs.

Taxpayers simply can't afford to hand over to tax-spenders the inordinate amounts heretofore levied and, as a rule, paid.

It just isn't in the cards to maintain our tax-leviers, tax-spenders, tax-eaters on the scale to which they became accustomed in the boom years.

So, let there be no temporizing on that score.

BUT EXTRAORDINARY conditions call for extraordinary action. Extraordinary demands call for extraordinary expenditures.

To combat and overcome today's conditions, the government should not blindly refuse to take any and every step necessary to bring about better conditions.

If such action involves unusual capital expenditures, let such expenditures be incurred even though temporarily the outgo exceed the income.

Our public debt still is less than it was in war-time.

"BALANCE THE budget" is, under ordinary circumstances, the soundest of statesmanship. But let us not be carried away by a slogan which is wise in normal times when the times are so abnormal that abnormal governmental measures are necessary to overcome them and to reachieve normalcy.

RESERVE MEETS CIRCULATION DEMAND

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP.)—The extent to which the flexible central banking system of the United States had risen to an emergency created by spread of banking difficulties in the past week became known today when the Federal Reserve statements disclosed that a record-breaking volume of reserve credit—$585,000,000—had been poured into money markets.

With currency circulation up $732,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday—also an unprecedented total—and the system's gold reserves reduced $226,310,000 by foreign earmarks, hoarding and other factors, the 12 Reserve banks took aggressive measures to keep fluid the country's credit reservoir, especially the huge accumulation of liquid funds in New York City.

FLEXIBILITY SHOWN

Directors of the local Reserve Bank, after increasing the rediscount rate to 3½ per cent yesterday, extended their weekly meeting late into last evening and were joined by other bankers who are not members of the board. What subjects were discussed or what action was advocated remained undisclosed, and no announcement was made when the meeting finally adjourned.

The weekly bank statements disclosed strikingly the extraordinary situation with which the system was confronted, and also demonstrated the reserve's flexibility. The Reserve banks cared for $579,274,000 of the huge demand for money by an expansion of their own currency. They made only a small increase—$1,730,000—in holdings of government securities, but bought $204,000,000 in bankers' acceptances in the open market. They loaned $3.5,000,000 to member banks to help the latter meets demands for cash and gold either from nervous depositors or from localities whose banking facilities have been virtually paralyzed by "holidays" or withdrawal limitations.

SYSTEMS RATIO 53.5%

The enormous rise in currency circulation brought the aggregagte to $6,720,000,000, a new high, and almost a billion dollars above the peak reached before the Michigan difficulties. Reductions in gold represented withdrawals of $116,000,000 for foreign account and $100,000,000 for other purposes, but the remaining reserves of the system, totaling $2,892,083,000 was still $330,888,000 above the low of last June, when foreign banks were making heavy drafts.

The ratio of reserves to deposit and federal reserve note liabilities dropped to 53.5 per cent against 61.2 per cent a week ago, though this was far above the record low of around 40 per cent established in 1920.

Total monetary gold stocks of the country $4,344,000,000 were still $435,000,000 above the low of June 15, 1932.

W. & J. ATHLETIC BOARD MEETS TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 3.—W. & J.'s athletic council which postponed a scheduled meeting last Saturday because of the illness of President R. C. Hutchison, will hold the session tonight.

The principal business to come before the council is the probable status of several branches of sports, including track and tennis for the present year and basketball for next year. Self-sustaining departments, only, are to be continued, it is learned, and the fate of spring athletics hangs in the balance.

A report of finances is to be submitted by Athletic Director Wilbur Henry.

HEARST SHOOT ENTRY HEAVY

By LIEUT. COL. JESS KREUGER
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, March 3.—With two weeks remaining to receive entries, the number of teams which will compete in the 1933 William Randolph Hearst national rifle trophy matches are expected to exceed 500.

The keenest rivalry is being shown by the R. O. T. C. organizations in universities, colleges, high schools and military academies to cop the most coveted of marksmanship honors this year. Winners of the national match will be crowned champions of their various division. With five men on each team, more than 3,000 student soldiers will fire at the official target.

From one to five teams are entered by the various institutions.

As soon as the firing has been completed under the eyes of officers of the regular army, the targets are scanned and checked.

The championships in the national, as well as sectional, divisions will be determined in April.

Knockouts Recorded In Tube City Show

Two technical and one clean cut knockout featured the amateur boxing show staged by the McKeesport A. C. in the Palisades last night. The summary:

Jiggs McKnight, Sands A. C., Uniontown, defeated Jimmie Ferri, Monon Valley A. C., in 3 rounds.

147-pound class—Teddy Movan, McKeesport A. C., defeated John Fleming, Superior A. C., in 3 rounds.

Jimmy Sartosky, Sands A. C., scored technical kayo over Steve Lesko, Dan Billick A. C., in third round.

160-pound class—Vince Browning, Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, defeated Tuffy Lawson, Superior A. C., in 3 rounds.

Farmer Bill Schwaren, Monon Valley A. C., defeated Harry Cooper, Vanderbilt A. C., in 3 rounds.

Wheeler Linger, Sands A. C., knocked out Jimmy Marks, McKeesport A. C., in second round.

Heavyweight—Dutch Weir, Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, defeated Buck Makrum, Sands A. C., in 3 rounds.

John Pedro, Monon Valley A. C., scored technical k. o. over Nick Malloy, Dan Billick A. C., in second round.

Tenpin Entries Close Tomorrow

Entries close tomorrow for the twenty-sixth annual tenpin tournament of the Pittsburgh Bowling Association. Arthur A. Ober reports a heavy entry from out of town. The event will be rolled on the Strand Alleys, Oakland, March 9-16. Ober may be communicated with by calling Fisk 2160.

The fifth annual tri-state duckpin tournament sponsored by the Pennsylvania and Ohio Duckpin Association, will be rolled on the Forward Alleys, Squirrel Hill, March 25-April 1. Entries close March 23, with W. J. Fitzgibbons, president of the association and tournament manager.

Cleveland Passers May Cinch Title

University School, of Cleveland, will have a chance to clinch the Tri-State Prep School League basketball championship and gain permanent possession of the Seifert trophy tomorrow when it meets Shady Side Academy on the latter's floor.

University School already has defeated Nichols, of Buffalo, and needs a victory tomorrow to decide the honors. The Ohioans hold two legs on the championship trophy.

VANITIES WIN

The Goldenson Vanities marked up their sixteenth victory of the season on the South Side Market House floor last night, beating the East Liverpool Merchants, 29 to 17. Mae Robinson, former Aliquippa High School star, led in the scoring for the Vanities with 10 points. Her mark was equaled by Miss Dick, of East Liverpool. The lineup:

Playgirls in Love

GRIPPING SERIAL OF A BUSINESS GIRL'S BATTLE FOR LOVE

CHAPTER XIII.

They did go to the Embassy, in one of those new, high-powered, cream enamel taxicabs with non-shatterable glass and wicked-looking metal gadgets on the enormous radiator. They stopped for a moment at Barry's hotel. He disappeared into the elevator and presently returned with a bottle of champagne—the real thing from Mr. Graves' cellar—done up in brown paper.

Synopsis

Judith Brian, a secretary in the Knickerbocker Bank, and Barry Deane, young executive, are secretly attracted to one another. Judith, however, feels that Barry is above her socially. Zella, Judith's friend, receives an attractive offer from Loranda Tewson, society girl, to manage a dress shop for her. Zella and Judith leave their drab boarding house and rent an apartment. Judith is unhappy when she is transferred to the bank's uptown office where she will not be able to see Barry. Loranda's friends attend the shop's opening. The wily Loranda rushes Barry off to assist her with refreshments. Jack Ordway, playboy friend of Loranda's, flirts with Judith. Judith is thrilled when Barry is transferred to her office. She accepts his invitation to attend a theater with him.

Now Go On

"This is to celebrate our transfer to the uptown branch," said he when—later—a waiter at the Embassy lifted the precious bottle from its bucket of ice by their table and poured them each a glassful.

"Here's to success," said Judith.

"And here's to our friendship. May it flourish."

But the atmosphere of the luxurious club went to her head more than the champagne—that, and Barry's nearness.

"This is a night of nights for me!" She almost had to shout, so as to be heard above the music of the band. "I want to laugh—I want to cry—I guess that's the mad Irish in me!"

JUDITH THRILLED

They danced. They moved like one person. Effortlessly.

Never in all her life had Judith been so thrilled. They seemed to float upon the polished floor, with Barry's arm about her.

The saxophone sobbed. The trombone had its muffler on. A red-haired boy who had set New York and half America wild, crooned love-words through his megaphone that were like petals blown by a summer breeze . . . was it her fancy, or did Barry's cheek for the fraction of a second touch her own? . . . did his lips brush against her hair? . . . or was it moon magic?

"I feel as if I weren't on the earth at all," Judith said, as Barry filled her glass a second time and in the dim, etheral light looked into her face that had the pale beauty of a moonflower. "What toast shall we drink?" Let's make it something I can remember all my life—something beautiful——"

He learned towards her, and his fingers that held the stem of his glass touched hers for a breath-taking moment. "I drink to what I see in your eyes, and what you see in mine——"

"What do you see?"

"I see a dream. A promise—Judith."

PROFESSES LOVE

It was the first time he had called her by her given name, but she was so keyed up she didn't even notice it.

"A promise? Of what? Her heart raced, and the little hand his fingers touched was shaking.

"Of—of friendship. Our friendship. 'Steel true, and blade straight' . . . it's written on your face . . . in your eyes, Judith."

* * *

They were in a taxi, going home. Now they had reached the downstairs door of 167B. Judith fitted her key in the lock. Barry went up the three flights of stairs with Judith.

"Good night. I had a gorgeous time. I'll never forget it as long as I live——" Outside her own door, a hand on the knob, she turned those starry eyes of hers on Barry.

"Nor I——"

It happened all in an instant! She was in his arms . . . his kisses on her lips, her neck, her hair with its maddening perfume . . . his voice saying, over and over again, chokingly . . . "Judith . . . oh, Judith."

For one sane moment she tried to draw away from him, but his hands—she had woven foolish dreams about those hands of his—had uttermost magic in them, so that her slim sweet body yielded like a tired child against his heart as he crushed her to him, crushed her mouth that was like a bright flower under the burning ardor of his kisses.

"Barry—oh, don't——"

"I must—you're so beautiful——"

"You said . . . just friends?"

He was so close, so close he had to whisper, breathlessly: "I love you, Judith—Judith—"

* * *

Betty Graves burst into the little dress shop at noon on a bright day in February.

"Clothes! Ski-ing clothes! The very latest thing! Hi there, where are you, Zella?"

GET INVITATIONS

Zella, the manageress, was having a bite in the back of the shop in the exotic little Japanese room with Judith.

Zella got up at once. Betty was a grand customer.

"You've come just at the right moment. The Ile de France docked yesterday, and brought me some heavenly winter sports models."

Betty selected two smart suits. She had been educated in Paris, and she preferred imports to American-designed clothes—not for any reasons of "swank," but because she was of the stocky, rather short-legged build that is so much more French than American.

"They'll do okay. Now don't forget, you two—" —she was twisting before the mirror in a long trousered skiing suit in cinnamon brown—"my party leaves Grand Central on the 9:45 for Montreal on Friday night—Dad's engaged the coach—there'll be 10 of us."

"You want me, too?" Judith asked hesitantly.

"Good grief! Of course!"

"It's sweet of you, Betty. I'd just love to come—"

"But about me? I don't know. I ought to keep the shop open Saturday morning," Zella protested.

"Nonsense. You've worked miracles in those few weeks. You've made money hand over fist. Loranda won't mind if you close down the extra half-day. I've already fixed things with her," Betty announced loftily.

ZELLA HELPS AGAIN

She paid cash for her two smart suits and breezed away. Zella stared speculatively at Judith.

"So we're going, and that's that! Betty has a way with her like a little Grand Duchess!"

"Zella, I haven't got a thing to wear. And I couldn't afford the necessary rig." Winter-sports clothes, as Judith knew, were prohibitively expensive.

"But you certainly can ski, ole dear. When you lived at Lunerville, upstairs, I heard you were a kind of prize snow-queen performer."

"Mayhap. But this crowd's different. I'd rather stay home than be the odd man out . . . I mean, the scarecrow in the party.

Zella bit her lip. She stood perfectly still for a minute, then she dived into the back of a drawer and pulled out an exquisite little skiing suit in Chinese blue and orange.

"Call me a rotten saleswoman but I deliberately kept this back from Betty Graves! It's a little model absolutely made for you, Judith!"

Long loose trousers smartly caught in at the ankles were topped by an orange sweater in Angora wool, and piped with Chinese blue . . . a bright blue tam with an orange pom-pom brought out every copper gleam in Judith's hair . . . there was a beautifully-cut leather windbreaker.

"Zella, it's just perfect, but I simply can't afford the price!" fairly groaned Judith.

"Sh-h! You can borrow it. Not a word to anybody, but I've a dumbbell of a customer who's coming Tuesday morning to select an outfit for the sports at Lake Placid and I'll wish this on her among other things. . . . If she says it's been worn before—which she won't, being blind as a bat—I'll tell her it's been modeled. She'll fall for it."

Judith fell too. Wasn't Barry to be in the Sainte Marguerite party?

And there was nothing she wouldn't do to make herself attractive in his eyes! The one thing in the world that mattered nowadays was to be desirable for Barry. . . .

Judith loved him so! Judith had been living in a dream—a blissful and breath-taking dream—ever since that wonderful evening at the Casino, and the theater, and the Embassy Club.

How the Old Place Ain't Changed

Soliloquy of Democrat returning to Washington after 12 years in the unappropriated wilderness.

"Boys, we're back. But it sure was a long bounce.

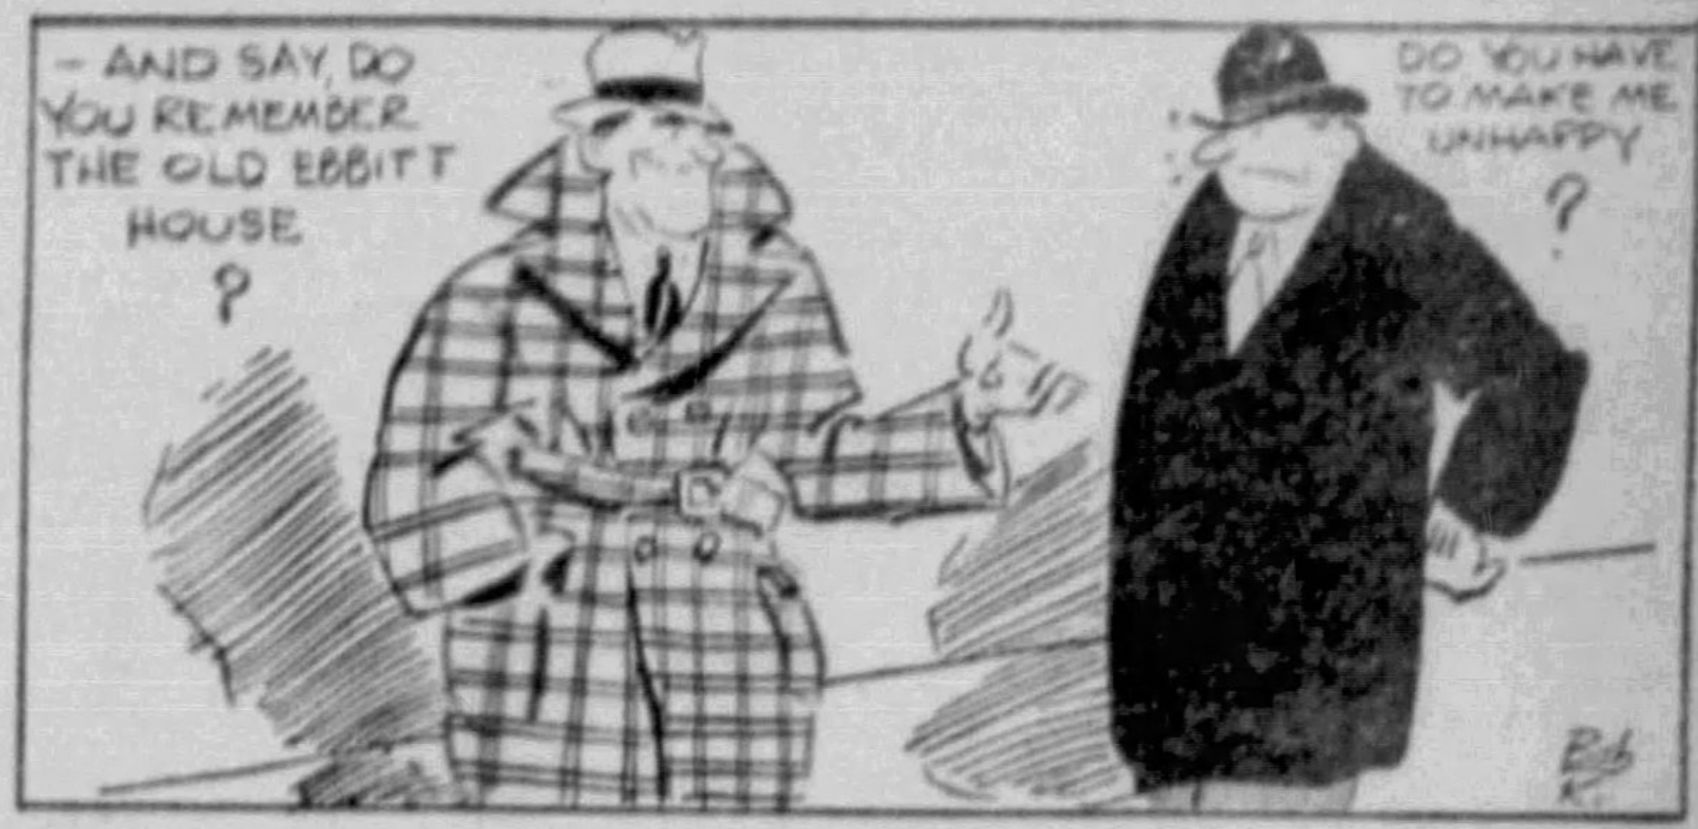
"The old Union Station is still the same, I think. But what about the White House? Lemme see, was it wood or marble when we left?

"Lots of improvements. But we'll fix that. What we need is more buildings with less people in 'em.

"Forget whether the town was wet or dry when we quit. Seems there was some kind of law. Sure it was the Works-Jones bill passed during the first administration of Wilson. Made it a crime for a man to drink more'n he could pay for.

"H'm, there's the old National Hotel. Great mint juleps. Drank 'em for years. I wonder what they cost?

"That's the old market. There's the place where Garfield was shot. There's where Harvey's was. His steamed clams were the only things that didn't change with the new administration. Good bartender too. Had so much wax on his mustache you could dance in it.



- AND SAY, DO YOU REMEMBER THE OLD EBBITT HOUSE ?
DO YOU HAVE TO MAKE ME UNHAPPY ?
Bob K.

"Oh boy, that's just about the spot where Hancock dished up those Southern fried chickens. Specialized in old fashioned cocktails. Three of 'em would make you feel like a watchdog on a leash.

"That spot should be Schoomaker's. There's Gerstenberg's, Engel's and old Gus Buckholz's place. Say, I would like a few whirls around the half-mile track in the old Ebbitt House. Greatest bartenders in the world. They'd take you home and bring you back in the morning.

"Nope, the important buildings haven't changed much. They're either there or they ain't. Always wondered why they build places like the Smithsonian Institute and the monument. Probably to have something to show the school teachers and children.

"Well, we're here for another four years. Guess I'll go back to the Union Station and check up on the Republicans who are leaving. Have to count 10,000 of 'em before I can go to sleep."

Forsaking Tariff Protection Would Breed New Wars

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in his letter to the Senate Committee on Finance, gave eloquent expression to the attempt on the part of visionary theories to link the idea of free trade with aspirations for world peace.

The savant also pooh-poohed the "Buy American" movement, and urged gradual letting down of tariff barriers.

The proposals are couched in seductive terms.

However, they overlook the historical REALITIES in regard to international trade.

As a matter of fact, excessive pressure among nations for foreign markets leads inevitably toward war.

Economic imperialism—and the scramble for outside markets—make a mockery of formal covenants of peace.

On the other hand, the proposal that we as a nation should look primarily to our home market, in which living standards should be raised, for our prosperity, is a PEACE-BUILDING DOCTRINE.

If other nations likewise strive for a balanced internal economy and identify prosperity with the well-being of their own people, the authentic welfare of the whole world will be enhanced.

After the necessary adjustments to this new status have been made and the productive facilities of nations have been shaken down to real needs, then it will be feasible to think of greater international co-operation, instead of heightened cutthroat competition such as a substantial lowering of tariff barriers would now promote.

With each of the great nations protected as to its own home markets, then there can be a civilized interchange of ideas, formulae and culture.

But as long as industrialists and agrarians make their own prosperity contingent on winning ever greater foreign markets, there will be clashes with businessmen and farmers of other countries who are seeking to do likewise.

Thus, rivalries will be engendered, and the seeds for new wars will be sown.

Academic folk speak glibly about international co-operation.

The history of international trade records no instances of trading in olive branches.

On the contrary, in modern times, ever since the days of the trading grandeur of Venice and Holland, there have been intense rivalries for foreign markets.

These pioneers in international trade, however, were trading nations, seeking the middleman's commission, not practitioners of large scale industry through power production.

England, then commercially unimportant, sought to emulate the Dutch shrewdness by setting up its own East India company.

By 1776, when Adam Smith wrote his "Wealth of Nations," the bible of the free traders, the modern industrial revolution had barely gotten under way. It was hardly more than a decade since Watt had invented the steam engine.

Even Cobden, the leader of the Manchester school, who is credited with being the father of free trade in England, was in reality not a free trader. He merely resented the tariff discrimination against industry and in favor of agriculture. He wanted to put the two types of economic activity on a parity.

Around 1900, Joseph Chamberlain, who had originally been a free trader, switched to protection.

Henry Carey, of Philadelphia, a great, though little known, American economist, described free trade as a breeder of wars.

Another eminent economist, Frederick List, a German, who visited in America, wrote a hundred years ago:

> "Free trade is an idealism not to be engaged in until the people with whom you trade have the same living standards as your own; otherwise THEY WILL TEAR YOU DOWN TO THEIR LEVEL."

England's conception of free trade, recently repudiated in favor of a protective tariff and imperial preference, was based historically on the thought that the little island would become the industrial workshop of the world.

It consciously sought to keep other countries largely agricultural, so that they would continue as outlets for British goods. As long ago as colonial times in the navigation acts, England sought to keep America agricultural by penalizing those shipping goods in American ships.

More recently it has clashed with Ireland's efforts to develop economic self-sufficiency.

For a hundred years, ambitions in other countries to become great nations have upset the early British goal of becoming the world's workshop.

Napoleon encouraged the continent of Europe to develop its own industries.

More than half a century later, Bismarck warned Germany that it had to turn from its preoccupation with agriculture to industry or be at the mercy of others.

Since the war, Japan, Italy and Russia have made substantial strides toward economic self-sufficiency—toward a balanced economic life.

The industrialization of hitherto agrarian countries has disturbed the world equilibrium and upset the classical notions about foreign trade.

Economic progress will be accelerated if our statesmen and scholars, discarding archaic prejudices, will make a statistical examination of the new trends.

The "Buy American" movement is not an isolated phenomenon, but started belatedly after similar movements had been under way in England, Germany, France, Italy, Russia and elsewhere.

The localization of the problem of economic rehabilitation makes planning and effective leadership more feasible.

It removes one of the important pressures making for war, and turns our business leadership from international vagaries to the desirable sociological goal of ELEVATING LIVING STANDARDS OF THE PEOPLE AT HOME.

Kline's Obstinacy

He Should Show Some Consideration for the Payroll, if Not for the City, By Resigning.

With unbecoming obstinacy Charles H. Kline continues to lay claim to the office of Mayor of Pittsburgh, an office from which he has been automatically ousted by his conviction on the charge of malfeasance.

Notwithstanding that the appeal from his sentence has served to delay his going to prison, it is questioned by legal authorities if the supersedeas authorizes him to continue to officiate as Mayor. All his official acts are accordingly to be questioned, and warrants for the city payroll and purchases, requiring his signature, were temporarily held up.

Consideration for the city employes, if not for the city, dictates that Kline put an end to this embarrassing situation by resigning.

Unusually cruel.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Winter Violets

In dread I shrank from wintry ways
Of life, forbidding, drear;
Like shadowed, songless forest maze
They touched my heart with fear.
Some strange, uncanny spell seemed laid
On each untrodden path,
Which left me stricken and dismayed
Before that formless wrath.

And yet, today, these violets
I found in winter's room,
So beautiful, my heart forgets
All else is chill and gloom.

Why, if a violet can thrust
Its glow and perfume through
The winter's sunless, chilly dust,
Can I not struggle, too?
Can I not bring my purple gift
When all life's ways are bare,
And, though its dead hopes round me drift,
Fling fragrance on the air?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 3.—Thoughts while strolling: That Mellon bank on Fifth avenue that still looks like a bank—and not a union depot. Mae Murray always seems to be on the verge of a sneeze. Katherine Dale Owen and Madge Evans bear a resemblance. Mary Garden's hair now is the salmon-pink of Hope Hampton's.

Bill Corum, a Boonville, Mo., boy, who made good in the city. The placidity of "Deac" Aylesworth. They say, his calm saved Radio City. Reinald Werrenrath is "Weary," to pals. A little embarrassing to meet the fellow who autographed his picture, "All I am, I owe to you," and now doesn't speak.

Paul Ash, who went out like a light, is blazing again on Broadway. Bob Hague, the Lambs' "gentleman bountiful," and his wife, Mary Lewis. Nobody can scoot along like Henry Sell. Somehow, I feel trusting toward men in steel-rimmed spectacles. One word description of George Olsen—toothy.

Many doormen need new uniforms, as who doesn't? Every time I hear one of those giddy-up songs, I want to play horsie, too. The young sportsman, Laddie Sanford. Who was it that said, "The middle class is the gyroscope of society?" One of my favorite people—Dorothy Fields.

That producer with the yawning name—O. E. Wee. The serenely beautiful Mrs. Robert Rubin. Margaret Sullivan, an eyeful, my masters, is remindful of Edna Best. Overheard: "He's a bit married, isn't he?" What do bond holders' protective committees protect? Or is life just getting sketchier?

Pressagentry has gone through many refinings since Toby Hamilton's silk hat and circusey alliterations. The next school was sponsored by Harry Reichenbach, a little more subdued, but still blatant. After him, came the Ivy Lees, with frock coats and in diplomatic comity, styling themselves counsels of public relation. The person who has tamed press agent exaggerations more than any other is Marlen E. Pew, whose trade journal of newspapering exposes such buncombe to editors.

* * *

The brashest of theatrical press agents was a gentleman with a name built for tom-tomming—the late Joe Drum. He crashed many first pages with spectacular plants. It was Drum, arm linked with James Montgomery Flagg and George Buchanon Fife, who inspired one of Irvin Cobb's best mots. The three were coming out of Jack's, late one morning, a little droopy from a night of wassail. Cobb, entering for breakfast, chirped: "The Spirit of '76!" Bowing very low!

No living writer has known so many famous men intimately as Isaac F. Marcosson—"Marco," to his confidants. His enormously high-ceiled apartment, in the mellow Gramercy neighborhood, has walls lined with autographed pictures of the great—Northcliffe, who willed Marcosson $5,000, King Albert, Frank Norris, Lord Reading, Adolf Hitler, Rudyard Kipling, H. Marcosson, a confirmed bachelor, was introduced a short while ago to a beautiful auburn-haired lady in Buenos Aires. Over coffee cups, at a diplomatic reception, they discussed—each being constant travelers—the joy and freedom of single blessedness. A few weeks later—they were married.

The autographed picture which occupies the most conspicuous place in Marcosson's galaxy is that of George Horace Lorimer. It bears this inscription: "To Marco—companion of kings and plutocrats—from a humble Philadelphia editor, who knew him first. And when!"

Returning from a hurried jaunt to Chicago, I was parked, the other morning, in the 20th century diner with a rich young noble. And there you have sparks of a writer and great wealth in mental clash. No wonder everybody's discouraged.

TELL THE TRUTH

By Winifred Black

The secretary is telling tales. Tales that are not true.

And her employer doesn't know.

Who is going to tell the employer about the secretary?

Nobody wants to do it—they think the employer will think they are jealous or meddlesome or something.

So they are standing by and allowing a mischievous, vindicative tattler to break down the honest name of an honest employer and it begins to look as if the employer stood to lose not only a good bit of money, but a good many honest, true-hearted friends.

All because nobody has the courage to take the bull by the horns and tell the truth.

How was it the old proverb ran? "Tell the truth and shame the devil."

I always used to wonder what that meant—what had the devil to do with the truth anyhow and what did he know about such a thing as honest shame?

But now I'm beginning mistily to understand what it was all about—the old fashioned idea of telling the truth and shaming the devil.

Things that are evil and cruel and treacherous—they hide in the dark—that's where they thrive.

They don't want sunshine and air—they don't want the plain, open, honest truth.

They want lies and evasions and subterfuge and if you want to fight the devil of treachery—there's just one way to do it.

Throw open the doors, throw up the windows, let in the daylight, tell the truth and shame the devil.

If we'd all do that without malice and without prejudice and without self-seeking, if we'd just forget to pussyfoot and apologize and excuse and explain—how the fog of misunderstanding and deceit and treachery would clear away.

Mischief makers—they never come out in the open.

They never—no never "tell the truth" and "shame" anybody whatsoever—not that way.

So let's go back to the old-fashioned "that's the truth and I'm telling it because it is the truth" idea.

Let's have principles and stick to them. Let's have ideals and hold them sacred.

Let's not be afraid of anybody or anything—as long as we're honest and fair dealing and straight minded. Let's put a stop to the maybe's, let's turn the "perhaps sisters" out of the house. Let's "tell the truth and shame the devil" and find honest peace and calm understanding.

Let's be friends, honest, truthful, courageous friends and if we must be enemies, let's come out in the open and be honest, frank courageous enemies — step right along, you poor, sly, treacherous old enemy of mankind, we're going to take your best weapon away from you.

We're going to tell the truth and put you and all your kind to shame, we of this new dispensation. How about it, friends and neighbors?

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

The Schools and the Depression

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Something has been done for the banks—for that was essential; and something for certain industries since that was necessary; but thus far the American people, represented by their publicists, have had but little to say about the necessity of maintaining the American public school system—and that, some of us do not like.

Some of us know that we can save the banks, the insurance companies, agriculture, industry, and by destroying or materially degrading the public schools we will destroy American institutions.

For the success of democratic institutions depends on the enlightenment of the mass of the people; for otherwise they will not know how to use their power.

The schools are in the front line trenches—the foremost defenders of the democratic republic that we have.

* * *

Public Education Is Absolutely Imperative

In the beginning, there were two men who represented the two opposite polls of political thought in America—Jefferson and Hamilton. They agreed on but few things; they were as one on one thing. They both agreed that public education is absolutely imperative.

Jefferson waged a battle before the establishment of the republic for a public school system in Virginia, and while he failed then, he won later. Hamilton was a pioneer in urging an adequate school system in New York.

These were the two wisest political thinkers of their generation, and we have produced none wiser since. And in history they stand with locked arms on the matter of public education.

* * *

Brains Are Not Bought with Money

With the depression there has been a disposition in many communities to put the ax first to the schools. This has been urged, not by the ignorant, but in many instances by business men.

There are many who imagine it more important to maintain a smooth highway for pleasure riders than to maintain a school for the training of citizens.

There are some who always have depreciated the education of the masses on the ground that most men must labor with their hands, and that an education in the schools will not do them any good.

These men themselves are ignorant of the fact that public education for all is not designed so much to serve the individual as to preserve our political system.

There is an anti-American snob spirit in America which insists that we should select the ones to be educated; and thus use the State for the purpose of dividing the people into castes.

There are some who would confine college education to those whose parents have fortunes. This would be a protection to the pride of the great American Snobbery which is humiliated when the sons and daughters of no fortune carry off the honors—because they have more brains.

Brains are not bought with money; you have them or you do not have them; and more are found in lowly homes than in mansions. Of course, they are found in both places—the point is that brains do not just naturally concentrate in the rich.

* * *

To Strike at Schools to Save Money Is Destructive

It is time that some one speaks out in protest against the growing sentiment in some circles for striking at the schools to save money. Economies in the schools may be possible, it may be that some non-essential may temporarily be abandoned; but any plan that reduces the educational opportunities of the youth of America is vicious and destructive and intolerable.

Some have spoken out at the meeting of the National Education Association at Minneapolis. The president of the University of Minnesota, L. D. Coffman, has sounded a ringing note in this:

> "On every hand we see the doors of opportunity being closed. They must be reopened. Hitherto we have regarded the schools of America as her best insurance; now we are cancelling their insurance, or we are weakening its value by selling the schools to the lowest bidder. An ignorant nation is a weak nation."

More: It is a nation headed for the scrap heap.

* * *

The Schools Are Suffering

Not only are the public schools an insurance for democracy; they are an insurance against an expanding criminal element among the young. Prof. Strayer, of Columbia, on the same occasion, touched upon this phase:

> "If we deny education we must provide more space in jails and penitentiaries. If we restrict the opportunities provided, we will invite social disaster. One cannot disassociate the American school program from future stability of our government."

And yet throughout the country the schools are suffering because of a false theory of economy; in some places they are closed; in others the term is being reduced in length, and there are, or recently have been, schools and small colleges where the teachers have been denied their pay.

They are not letting down on the schools in Soviet Russia; they are too wise for such foolishness.

Emergency Loans To States

If the various communities decide to economize by the degradation of the public schools we shall hear a demand for a Federal subsidy; and the trouble with that is that it probably would mean sooner or later, a disposition to manage the schools throughout the country from Washington. There is a strong feeling against this complete centralization of control.

But the tendency to economize at the expense of the schools in these days of hysteria has already brought forth the demand. At a conference of 50 noted educators at the Teachers' College, Columbia University, this thing was proposed and voiced by Dean William F. Russell:

> "Emergency loans to the states for the maintenance of their educational systems are just as certainly necessary as the extension of credit to railroads, banks and agriculture."

We can agree to this—that there is no project that more perfectly fits the term, "self-liquidating."

But there should be such a revamping of our rather antiquated system of taxation as will bring in the revenue necessary in every community for the proper maintenance of the front line trenches of American democracy.

There is something uncivilized in any community that does not take a primary pride in its schools.

We Need The Schools!

We hear much these days from "patriots" about the preservation of American institutions. The day we decide to lower the standard of public education we begin the inevitable undermining of these institutions. Jefferson and Hamilton both warned us a century and a half ago that the only hope for a self-governing people is in the education of the masses.

It is time for real and intelligent friends of democracy to speak out in protest against the levity and stupidity of the suggestion that we are spending too much on education and should lower the standard of the schools. Education and democracy recently had a friend in Gov. Lehman, who rejected the proposal to slash the state's appropriation. We need such men in public life today everywhere.

For the moment we decide to sacrifice the schools, American institutions are doomed and damned.
